MERCY PLANE CRASHES ON FLIGHT TO BIAFRA

GENEVA (Reuters) — A DC-7 on a mercy flight to Biafra from the Portuguese island of Sao Tome was believed to have crashed, killing all four crew members, a spokesman for Joint Church Aid said today.

The spokesman said the crash Saturday night was believed to have been caused by engine trouble.

The plane was chartered by the Diakonisches Hilfwerk of West Germany and carried a cargo of milk powder for starving Biafrans. It crashed about three miles from Uli, a Biafran landing strip used by night relief flights.

Work-to-Rule Delays Jets

TORONTO (CP) — Air Canada passenger agents and switchboard operators began a work-to-rule slowdown today, despite a threat by the airline that they could be suspended. Passenger line-ups grew at major Canadian airports and some flights were behind schedule.

John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member Canadian Air Line Employees Association, said in an interview mediation talks here were suspended just before midnight Sunday night "over our objections," and the members would be "strictly observing company rules until there's a settlement."

Conciliation board chairman Thomas C. O'Connor said "he couldn't possibly see us until Tuesday night in Montreal," Mr. Hayes said today.

"We wanted to continue meeting. He's stalling for time, and it's obviously on behalf of the (federal cabinet) ministers. We'll continue our work to rule until someone in Ottawa wakes up to the fact that we have a problem."

An Air Canada spokesman said employees in the company's 29 depots across Canada have been told it would be illegal to start a work slowdown before the conciliation board hearings are completed.

"How Air Canada can say it's illegal to follow their own work regulations is beyond me," Mr. Hayes said.

He said Air Canada has also threatened that any union officials carrying out what he termed a "work perfection program" would be fired. He said in an interview if Air Canada suspends any persons or dismisses union officials, his association will not sign a settlement without restoration of jobs and pay to any employees disciplined.

Mr. Hayes said a protest will also be sent to Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey because "we, as a union, are not aware what could possibly be illegal in observing the company's own procedures."

Strict observation of regulations by the passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators represented by the association could cause delays in processing ticket reservations and the backing-up of flights.

J. E. Dickson, an Air Canada official, said despite the scheduled slowdown the company expects normal service to continue.

Wages, working conditions, duration of a new contract and employee transfer clauses are major items under dispute.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31, but bargaining began in June. Last week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15-per-cent increase over a period of two years.

Present salaries range from $325 to $550 a month for paseenger agents and from $260 to $382 a month for switchboard operators.

Dentist Drills, Chairs, Chisels Needed for Koreans

By SUSAN RILEY

The Unitarian Service Committee needs dentist chairs, drills and chisels — almost any kind of used dental equipment.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, head of the USC, says it is needed to outfit sutdent dentists working at a free clinic in Inchon, Korea.

As it is, students travel to Inchon at their own expense and donate their time.

"We hold Saturday afternoon clinics for the poorest children in the city," she said, "and we are trying to help them keep their teeth."

UNDERNOURISHED

They are undernourished, she said, and often receive no dental care at all.

But the young dental students, haven't much equipment, and the cost of new dental equipment is too high for the USC budget to handle.

John Addicott, president of the S.S. Beaver Kiwanis Club in Victoira, is trying to help Dr. Hitschmanova.

"We've found a friend of a friend who is a dental supply salesman," he said, "we hope something will come of that.

"We are also hoping we'll get more from other dentists, and everyone in the club is going to bug their dentist to see if he has anything he can donate."

"Every little bit counts," says Dr. Hitschmanova. Old material can be used by USC workgroups to make clothing.

'CREATES OWN HARVEST'

"You may be certain this kind of practical Canadian cooperation creates its own harvest of better living among thousands of destitute, innocent adults and little ones," she said.

Blankets and quilts can save whole families from freezing to death. For Korea, double-bed size quilts in dark colors are preferred. Quilts, should be as thick as possible.

USC centennial quilts were "jubilantly received in Korea" last year she said. More are available from USC headquarters, 56 Sparks St., Ottawa.

Mini-afghans this year's USC project. The small blankets, she said, will be used for Arab refugee babies in Jordan, as a protection against the cold and dampness of a tented camp.

Cardigans and pullovers are desperately needed.

"Youngsters overseas are proud to wear these Canadian garments," says Dr. Hitschmanova.

RUBBER BOOTS

Wash cloths are needed in the USC Children's TB hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

Also wanted are home-made soap, face clothes, balls of wool, caps and toques, children's shoes and rubber boots.

The list said Dr. Hitschmanova is endless. It doesn't stop at dentist drills or rubber boots. What is needed most is money. To be exact $1,250,000 if the USC is to continue its projects overseas.

The campaign hasn't been going well this year and Dr. Hitschmanova is worried.

She said B.C. and particu-

Minority Language Schools Urged in New Bi-Bi Report

—AP Wirephoto

"NOT PEACE at any price," were the words of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky as he arrived today in Paris with his wife. He is adviser to the 80-man South Vietnamese delegation to the expanded Paris peace talks.

N. Viets Lash Ky As Puppet of U.S.

PARIS (AP) — A spokesman for North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks lashed at South Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky today, calling him "a puppet, a servant of the United States and a devotee of Hitler."

It was a forerunner of many charges and countercharges expected as the Vietnamese rivals manoeuvre toward the enlarged peace talks.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese teams set up a strategy session later in the day with Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance on the American side and Pham Dang Lam and Bui Diem, the ambassador to Washington, on Saigon's side.

The North Vietnamese blast at Ky came from Hanoi delegation spokesman Bui Nhan and referred to past remarks Ky had made about Hitler in South Vietnam.

DENIED CHARGE

Ky denied at the time that he was voicing any admiration for the former Nazi dictator. And in the course of his exuberant arrival here Sunday the jaunty former combat pilot repeatedly stressed he was no puppet of the U.S.

The opening date of the expanded peace talks is still in doubt pending the outcome of another diplomatic dialogue between the United States and North Vietnam.

The shape of the table for the negotiations—of symbolic importance to the South Vietnamese and their rivals, the National Liberation Front—remained at issue after a week of private U.S.-North Vietnamese exchanges had threshed out other details for the first meeting of the delegations.

The Communists demand a square table to match their argument that this will be a four-sided conference in which the Viet Cong's NLF delegation has separate, equal status with the other three.

MPs Break Stalemate

OTTAWA (CP) — It was almost-all sweetness and light when the storm-wracked Commons transport committee met and elected veteran Liberal H.-Pit Lessard as its new chairman.

Mr. Lessard and the other Liberal MPs arrived early for the meeting to make sure they had a majority, and a quorum. The committee's quorum is 11.

Only three Conservatives were present when the committe clerk called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for chairman.

Last Friday the committee broke up in disorder when Liberal absenteeism led to an inconclusive 9-9 tie on a motion to elect Patrick Mahoney L — Calgary South as chairman. Mr. Mahoney today nominated Mr. Lessard, and his election was unopposed.

Bennett Studying Details

Premier Bennett said he doubted that the bilingual and bicultural commission's recommendations on minority language schools could apply to all parts of Canada and predicted that finding enough French teachers would be an immediate problem.

The premier would not suggest which of the recommendations the B.C. government would try to implement—if any—but he told reporters, "I am in support of extending teaching of French."

The Bi-and-Bi recommendations, if adopted, would have no official effect on B.C. because there is no district in the province where the French-speaking population makes 10 per cent of the total, the minimum requirement for minority language schools.

Maillardville, near New Westminster, is the only district that comes close.

Earlier this year, as a result of a direct request from the Coquitlam School Board, the cabinet authorized use of French as the language of instruction at Maillardville.

PILOT PROJECT

The pilot scheme permits French language instruction in kindergarten and grades one to three but requires a guarantee that English-language instruction will be available too.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said the Maillardville experiment will be assessed after a couple of years of operation to see if it should be extended to the other grades.

Teaching of French as a language is administered by local school boards and they vary throughout the province in which grade the subject is first introduced into the curriculum.

French Taught From Grade 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Public education should be provided in both French and English in specified areas across Canada, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturism said today.

The commission, in its second report to the federal cabinet, also says that all school pupils should be required to study the second official language. It suggests that English-speaking children start French in Grade 1, and that French-speaking children start English in Grade 3.

In the key recommendation of the report, the commission proposes the establishment of "official-language minority schools" in bilingual districts.

It recommended creation of bilingual districts in its first report almost exactly a year ago.

In these schools, children from the minority group, meaning French in most places outside Quebec, would be taught in their own language all the way through elementary school and high school.

The government tabled the report in the House of Commons today.

Although appointed by Ottawa, the 10-member royal commission is talking mainly to the provinces in this report. It deals with education, strictly a provincial responsibility under Canada's written constitution, the 1867 British North America Act.

Most of its 46 recommendations could be implemented only under provincial authority.

But the commission recommends that the federal government accept, in principle, the responsibility of giving financial help to the public minority schools. (See also Page 2.)

Additional Costs for Provinces

The reason is that "provincial governments will incur additional expense for official-language minority education."

However, the principle of federal responsibility for the extra costs of these schools "in no sense implies federal control over education provided by the provinces," the commission insists.

In the minority schools, the mother tongue of the minority language group would be the normal language of instruction. At the same time, the commission recognizes "the necessity of teaching the official language of the majority in the minority schools."

The federal government now has a bill before Parliament to set up bilingual districts in which federal services would be available to residents in both French and English. But the geographical boundaries of these districts would not be proclaimed until a special advisory board has reported to the cabinet.

If these districts are delimited in the way the royal commission suggests, only Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Laval, Que., and Windsor, Ont., among the nation's 15 largest cities will be included.

But the commission recommends that public minority schools be established in all major urban centres where "the number of minority-language students in the metropolitan area makes this practicable."

Such schools already exist for the English-speaking minority in Montreal and other Quebec cities.

The commission notes that the

KIEV SECRET SESSION LEAVES PRAGUE UNEASY

By GENE KRAMER

PRAGUE (AP) — Uneasiness was felt in Prague today over a Soviet-Czechoslovak summit meeting held in the Ukraine amid the kind of secrecy that was common before Alexander Dubcek came to power.

The weekend talks in Kiev covered "issues of common interest" including "further development of co-operation" between the two Communist parties and countries, said a vague communique issued Sunday in Moscow.

It said the talks "passed in a cordial atmosphere, in comradely and friendly spirit." The language was warmer than that used to describe previous Soviet-Czechoslovak meetings, but there was no mention of "complete unity of views"—the Communist phrase to describe agreement fully satisfying the Kremlin.

Most Czechoslovak officials and the local press was kept in the dark about the meeting until it was over.

The extreme secrecy was a blow to Czechoslovak journalists, intellectuals, students and factory groups who have been protesting the drastic curtailment of information since the invasion.

The Soviet delegation was headed by Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Some concern was felt in Prague that the progressive Dubcek was virtually isolated on his five-member delegation because the four men who accompanied him are regarded as members of a growing "centre" group that stresses accommodation to Soviet demands rather than preservation of Dubcek-era reforms.

He Skipped a Beat During Coffee, Doughnuts

OTTAWA (CP) — A 30-year-old prisoner from the Joyceville, Ont., medium security prison ducked out a basement door Sunday after a church service in which 38 convicts and 15 Mounties, all in the red cassocks of the regular choir, sang in Christ Church Anglican Cathedral here.

The 900 seats in the graceful old cathedral were filled for the occasion, billed by the federal penitentiaries service as "a new trend in penological thinking."

The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, who worked on the now-legendary bridge over the River Kwai as a Japanese prisoner during the Second World War, and the parable of the prodigal son was read. Dr. Gordon is dean of the chapel at Princeton University.

Afterwards, the 26 prisoners from Joyceville, the 12 from another medium-security prison at Leclerc, Que., and the Mounties went to the basement of the cathedral for coffee and doughnuts.

It was a cheerful, wet-eyed moment until someone did a head count and discovered that one of the Joyceville lads, who were all dressed in civies, had skipped out.

Joyceville prison officials later identified the escapee as Edward Albert Greenfield of Verdun, Que., serving four years for robbery.

J. S. Gabourie, duty officer at Joyceville said today that "Greenfield, a harmless little fellow" apparently walked away from the reception.

The usual cries and alarms were muted. All hands hope such experiments will be repeated. And one lapse, during the Christmas season, isn't considered a collapse.

. . . BI-BI REPORT

English-speaking minority in Quebec, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, has already "enjoyed an exceptional freedom to develop its own educational system designed in keeping with its own wishes, and practically independent of the system favored by the majority in the province."

In the English-speaking provinces, however, the governments concerned "have generally been insensitive to the wishes of the French-speaking minorities."

The federal government is charged with the same neglect in its limited area of authority.

In schools under the jurisdiction of the national defence department and the department of Indian affairs and northern development, the commission concludes that "the French-speaking and the English-speaking are not given the same educational opportunities."

In the realm of higher education, the commission finds the opportunities for French-speaking students "grossly insufficient."

It calls for expansion in New Brunswick and Ontario, in particular.

The commission says the University of Moncton, the only Canadian university outside Quebec that gives all its courses in French, is "the logical institution to serve" the French-speaking minorities both in New Brunswick and in the rest of the Atlantic provinces.

In Ontario, the commission says the University of Ottawa and Laurentian University, Sudbury, should "give priority to increasing the number of degree programs offered in French."

For the western Canadian student who wants to seek higher education in French but cannot do so in his own province, the commission recommends a federal grant to enable him to study at any university in the country where courses are given in French.

For the university to which he goes, the commission suggests a federal grant also, equivalent to the normal provincial grant for each student.

While the commission advances the concept of public education in the pupil's mother tongue, French or English, it says all school pupils should be required to study the second language to the extent that they acquire "a solid grounding."

"The basic objective of second-language teaching should be to give students a solid grounding, which would enable them after graduation to develop, retain or refurnish the skills they need."

Impart Knowledge of Culture

A second general objective "should be to import a knowledge of the culture of the other language group."

As a rule, it is easier for a French-speaking youngster in Canada to learn English from his general environment than it is for an English-speaking youngster to learn French.

The commission recommended "as a desirable objective" the introduction of English in the third year in French schools, but of French in the first year in English schools.

It then stresses the importance of teaching them as Canadian, not as foreign, languages.

Special training centres should be established for second-language teachers, the commission says. The provinces would pay the basic operating costs but the federal government could provide subsidies through an interprovincial bureau that would be set up to coordinate the training programs.

In the proposed system of minority schools, the commission says these schools should be closely linked to the majority system in the same province "in order to ensure equivalent standards."

The federal subsidy proposed by the commission for minority schools would be based on the number of pupils attending them, at a rate of 10 per cent of the average cost of educating each student in the province concerned.

The commission also suggests that Ottawa dig into its pockets to help train the teachers for the minority schools.

New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario would get grants based on the number of teachers in training, at a rate of 10 per cent for each student, plus 10 per cent of the capital cost of teacher-training institutions.

In other provinces, the commission believes the cost of training teachers for minority schools would be much higher and federal grants would have to be more generous.

All graduates of teacher-training institutions in all provinces should reach at least the university-entrance level in their second official language, the commission says. Those who may teach the second language should complete a course in language-teaching methods.

Nine-Year-Old Mother to Babe

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — A nine-year-old Argentine girl gave birth to a five-pound baby in the Buenos Aires province town of Azul, press reports said.

The reports said the mother and child are both well in hospital in Azul, 200 miles southeast of here.

The name of the mother was not disclosed.

The father of the child offered to marry the girl but her parents refused to give their consent, the reports said.

Ottawa Urged to Back Extra School Expenses

OTTAWA (CP) — A new kind of school system in Canada, public minority schools based on language, is proposed in the second report of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The idea is that, in certain areas, the official-language minority group, French-speaking or English-speaking as the case may be, should have access to public education in their own language all the way through elementary schools and high school.

The report, tabled in the Commons today, says the provinces would incur extra costs in providing public education for their official linguistic minorities, and that the federal government should be prepared to cover these costs.

Teachers for the public minority schools need to be as well qualified as those in the majority school system of each province.

They should be trained in separate institutions, however, the royal commission says.

PICK MONCTON

It suggests that the Moncton, N.B., Teachers' College be made to serve the Atlantic provinces and that a similar institution be established in Western Canada. Quebec and Ontario already have appropriate facilities, it says.

The 10-member commission proposes that the public minority schools be established in bilingual districts, meaning areas where the minority group constitutes at least 10 per cent of the population, and in major cities where there are enough people in the minority group to make such schools practicable.

The notion of bilingual districts was the key recommendation put forward in the commission's first report, issued almost exactly a year ago. They would be established under an official languages bill now before Parliament.

The geographical boundaries of the bilingual districts are to be proclaimed after the cabinet has received the advice of a special advisory board. The royal commission suggested that they be based on census divisions.

The concepts underlying the idea of a minority school system are that English and French are the two official languages in Canada and that parents have the right to have their children educated in either language.

These concepts were expressed in the commission's first report.

The commission reaffirms this parental right in its second report, but suggests that it may be necessary to apply limits in practice.

It could happen that many parents in the majority language group in a given area would want to send their children to the minority school long enough to get a firm hold on the language.

The effect would be to turn the general social or cultural environment of the minority school into that of the majority, thus defeating the purpose of the system.

The commission recommends, therefore, that the number of students from the majority language group who attend the minority schools be limited where this is deemed necessary to preserve "the linguistic and cultural character" of these schools.

Saanich Voters See Few Upsets

Weekly Garbage Service Backed; Eighty Per Cent Fail to Vote

A no-issue campaign produced no surprises in the Saanich municipal elections Saturday.

Just under 80 per cent of the 29,783 eligible voters didn't go to the polls.

Those who did vote returned incumbents Edward Lum, Alan Newberry and Leslie Passmore, and elected newcomer Frank Waring. Eleven-year alderman Harold Todd and three other men were defeated.

There were no surprises either in the elections in Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney.

In Saanich, the garbage plebiscite (expression of opinion) showed the majority in favor of weekly collection throughout the year.

WILL RAISE ISSUE

This response makes it certain that the issue of garbage collection will be raised again at council.

Two sides to the issue have been whether collection should be weekly the year round, instead of weekly in the summer and fortnightly in the other months, and whether it should be collected by municipal crews or by a private contractor.

Mr. Waring, the only new member on council, is manager of an electrical supplies store and a member of the Saanich Advisory Planning Commission. He nearly won at last year's election.

A resident of Cadboro Bay, his election strengthens representation on council of persons who live in the area between Mount Douglas Park and Cadboro Bay.

Other council members who live in this area are Mayor Hugh Curtis, Ald. Edith Gunning, Ald. Newberry, Ald. Lum and Ald. William Noel. Ald. Foster Isherwood lives on the Oak Bay side of Cadboro Bay Road.

ELEVEN ATTEMPTS

The defeated candidates, other than Mr. Todd, include Gordon Campbell (he lost to Mayor Curtis one year ago), Lionel Speller (making it 11 unsuccessful attempts to get on council) and Roger Bishop, a university professor.

In Central Saanich, voters showed they also were not interested in major changes.

With seven candidates for the three two-year seats, they re-elected incumbents Tom Michell and Margaret Salt.

But there will be some new faces on council.

W. E. (Ted) Clayards, a federal government personnel officer, won the seat vacated by Archibald Galbraith, elected mayor by acclamation.

In the contest for the one-year seat, Donald MacLaurin, an engineer on the faculty of the University of Victoria, won an easy victory over three opponents.

The seat was open because of the resignation of Ald. Charles Mollard, who had one year to serve.

In North Saanich, incumbents Clifford Adams and George Aylard were re-elected along with newcomer George Cumpston, an accountant.

And in Sidney, voters returned incumbent William Gardner. Herbert Perry, assistant postmaster who lost by 10 votes last year, was also elected.

'$40 Million Offered' To Settle Tax Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — A proposal for Canadian Pacific Railway to settle out of court back tax claims amounting to some $48,000,000 has been submitted to Justice Minister John Turner and will go to cabinet soon.

The income tax claims result from operations of two CPR subsidiary companies.

CPR officials have refused to comment on the situation but it is reported the railway is offering to settle out of court for about $40,000,000.

A government spokesman said today a couple of formulas have been suggested for arriving at an out-of-court settlement figure. The amount of the proposed settlement would depend on which formula was used.

But he added that a figure of $40,000,000 is "in the ball park" as an estimate of the proposed settlement.

Any proposal for the tax department to drop court action to recover amounts this large has to go before cabinet for a decision, the spokesman added.

The lion's share of the tax claims were made against Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, a British Columbia line acquired by the CPR in 1905. The claim here, amounting to about $46,000,000 including interests and penalties, was for the years 1962, 1963 and 1964.

Another claim of about $1,700,000 was brought against Pacific Logging Co., another CPR subsidiary, for the years 1963 and 1964.

Pacific Logging is the company which, with a Japanese firm, will be building a $2,000,000 lumber mill near Nanaimo harbor.

Basis of the tax claims were land sales made by the subsidiary companies where the money was charged up as non-taxable capital gain.

The tax department ruled that the land sales were taxable and claimed income taxes on them.

GREATER VICTORIA STAYS WITH OLD TEAM

It was the year for incumbents in three core municipalities of Greater Victoria Saturday.

Esquimalt returned three, Oak Bay three and Victoria city the only two incumbents seeking two out of four available council seats. In Victoria the incumbents, Ald. Cecil Parrott and Ald. Percy Frampton, topped the polls.

But while all three municipalities showed the same voting pattern Esquimalt and Oak Bay voters shamed their senior sister municipality by turning out strongly to make their selections.

In Esquimalt 48 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots to return Ald. William Bell (1,216) Ald. Walter Lock, (1,140) and Ald. Edward De Costa (943) to office.

In Oak Bay 35.8 per cent of the eligible voters sent Ald. Douglas Watts, (2,255), Ald. Ian Horne (2,224) and Ald. Alexander Hendry (2,054) back for two year sessions on council.

CLOSE FIGHT

Victoria voters presented the public with the tightest election race of a rain-swept day but not with any overwhelming vote of confidence from the 20,462 registered voters.

A meagre 26.8 per cent cast ballots, one of the lowest overall counts in many years.

Those who did vote sent Ald. Cecil Parrott to the top of the polls with 3,580 votes, gave Ald. Percy Frampton second place with 3,367, and gave two newcomers to civic politics, Thomas Christie (3,041) and Harold Olafson (3,026), the right to sit on council in January.

Aldermen Parrott and Frampton pulled away from the pack early in the counting leaving a four-way fight for two seats.

Ove Witt was the first candidate to show signs of slipping although he stayed close enough to Eric Charman all night to leave the final count in doubt.

On the first count Mr. Charman showed signs of giving Mr. Olafson a fight for one of the two seats when the two contestants tallied 180 votes each.

But from that point on Mr. Olafson edged slowly ahead, first by five votes, then 10 until on the final count he racked up a solid 235-vote edge.

With an hour to go the final selection of four new aldermen was obvious but the order in which the final two finished stayed in doubt. When it was all over Mr. Christie was ahead of Mr. Olafson by 15 votes.

If there were any surprises during the count it came in the strong show of strength from Mr. Christie. After the final count went on the board he admitted he was "a little overwhelmed by it all" and pledged to represent all electors to the best of his ability.

WRONG AND HAPPY

Mr. Olafson, who a year ago said he didn't think Victoria voters would support a non-Anglo Saxon name, said he was delighted to be proven wrong.

Ald. Parrott said he saw the strong vote for the incumbents as a sign that in general the voters were happy with the present administration and confident that it was doing the best job possible for the city.

Ald. Frampton, who throughout the campaign refused to deviate from his stand that the Crystal Garden should be demolished and replaced by a modern swimming pool, regarded his strong support at the polls as endorsation of his program.

Mr. Charman was the only candidate absent from election headquarters after the polls closed.

He had visited the Senior Citizen's Centre about an hour before the eight o-clock closing to shake hands with poll clerks and other workers.

Mr. Charman had run his campaign on a strong anti-convention centre platform.

In Oak Bay the "improve the municipality but don't change it" candidates took the three open seats.

The lone voice for change Elmer McEwen was at the bottom of the polls.

The three winners campaigned on the basis of Oak Bay as a permanent residential area, were cautious on the development of high-rise apartments and adamant against a proposed hovercraft base for the municipality.

In short it was a "retain the status quo" election supported by the voters.

In Esquimalt the surprise of the day came when Ald. William Bell topped the polls edging out bi-annual winner Walter Lock.

But it was the only surprise on a vote which saw former alderman Arthur Mebs go down to his third, and he said later, his final defeat at the municipal council level.

His campaign had been run largely on charges that administration was not functioning as smoothly as it could, and he had complained that the joint fire-police protection service left much to be desired.

Mayor Ray Bryant said there was no doubt in his mind that strong support for incumbents denoted confidence in the present administration and its methods.

The Voter and the Vote

CLOSE FINISHES IN SOME OF the local elections on Saturday showed the importance of representative turnouts of voters if the wishes of the community are to be adequately expressed. Unfortunately the percentage of voters who mark ballots still remains disappointingly small. Esquimalt, with 48 per cent of eligible voters on hand, made the best showing. But an expression of opinion only by alternate eligible residents is hardly a triumphant demonstration of democracy in action. The other municipalities, recording one out of three, one out of four, and Saanich's very poor turnout of every fifth voter, leave much to be desired.

The deep-rooted changes which the world is undergoing today and the increasing complexity of the decisions that must be made by elected officials, call for a wide interest by every person entitled to vote on public affairs. Otherwise so-called majority votes can become in reality minority voices; elected persons must function with less confidence in their right to speak for the people; electors can have less trust in those who have been given authority.

A careless electorate invites careless government. This fact will become increasingly important as our society develops. The arguments for convenience, tidiness and "the experts know best" in governmental affairs are standing threats to the universal franchise. The only real defence is an interested, informed electorate and a high-percentage vote on every occasion.

These basic comments are not intended as criticism of the successful candidates in Saturday's elections. In general the public response was one of "hold the line," indicating satisfaction with the personnel and policies of the various councils over the past term. The new council and school board members are men of promise and should fit well into the "strong teams"—to use Mayor Curtis' phrase—which have guided the destinies of the district's municipalities over the past few years.

The major challenges to councils in the foreseeable future will be posed by problems common to all. The public's representatives will be expected to show teamwork, not only within their councils, but in the wider field of inter-municipal co-operation. The growth of the common regional authority, so obvious in the past two or three years, has been steady because it has been demanded by circumstances. We have long passed the point at which the affairs of the 180,000 people of the area can be properly administered in self-contained compartments. The regional co-operation on sewers, hospitals, parks and other joint responsibilities will inevitably be extended as the need becomes evident.

The grassroots relationship of municipal governments to their residents is a valuable one to preserve. Government by a once-removed regional board has its ultimate democratic limitations, and a closer association between regional government and the public will eventually be desirable. But here again voter participation will be essential, and a better response than one-in-five, or even one-out-of-two, will be required.

The Third Socred Premier

MR. HARRY STROM'S ELECTION to the leadership of the Alberta Social Credit Party assures his succession to the premiership of the province. It does not, however, mean that he will assume the Social Conservative political cloak fashioned by Premier E. C. Manning nor the original monetary-policy mantle tailored by the party's originator, the late William Aberhart.

Mr. Strom, victor on the second ballot of the first leadership convention held by his party, reportedly enjoyed the support of Mr. Manning, who beamed his delight at the outcome of the balloting. But Mr. Strom shared with other cabinet aspirants to leadership a noticeably lukewarm attitude to the Manning attitude on national politics.

Any prospect that the Alberta party would revert to founding principles, including the $25-a-month dividend, faded when Mr. A. J. Hooke, one of the originals of 33 years ago, dropped from the contest before the voting. As Times correspondent James H. Gray pointed out on this page last week, Mr. Strom paid far more attention in his recent speeches to welfare and "do-good" schemes than he did to money.

In Alberta, as in British Columbia, the government may be expected to continue using the name Social Credit without significant recognition of its theory. Of greater interest to Canadians outside that province will be any shift the new leader may make toward the Manning concept of a national union of Conservatives and Social Crediters. And this is given small likelihood, particularly in view of its almost total rejection before and during the federal election of last June.

End of the Strap

A FORWARD-LOOKING STUDY of the Ontario education system completed earlier this year is beginning to bear fruit. The commission's report took a stand against all forms of schoolroom punishment and said use of the strap should be stopped completely. Last week Education Minister William Davis advised all principals and teachers in the province that corporal punishment is not appropriate in schools and they should refrain from its use.

Mr. Davis indicated that previous government policy has been misunderstood. He said the regulation is only that "a pupil shall submit to such discipline as would be exercised by a kind, firm and judicious parent," and he implied that such treatment would not include corporal punishment.

The wording of the regulation is exactly the same as that in effect in British Columbia, where there is also uncertainty about its application. At present the school principals are left to interpret the law as suits their personal beliefs. Perhaps Education Minister Brothers could follow the lead of Ontario and clarify the matter for them.

Slowing the Brain Drain

CURRENT IMMIGRATION LAW in the United States, says a report, has reduced migration from England of skilled labor, technically trained and professional men and women.

Under the earlier law, 35,000 British citizens emigrated to the United States annually. Now visas are down to less than 1,000 a month, the results of a change which puts expert technical and skilled labor on a first-come-first-served basis and apparently provides a more widely open door to British citizens who originally came from the West Indies and Latin America.

The effect of the present law, according to recent study, is to leave professionals in Britain who failed to apply prior to July 1 with a two-year wait facing them before they can enter the country. And, by chance or by design, the brain drain from the United Kingdom has been reduced to a trickle where it once ran in spate.

"... he had no time to vote ... he's been too busy worrying about democracy ..."

IN THE MIDST of the currency crisis West Germany's position has been that of a country with superabundant prosperity. This very fact has been a cause of embarrassment and worry to other countries, whose currencies suffered from their relatively poor performances. Whatever criticism there may be for West Germany's role during the crisis, it would be as well for other countries to study closely what the West Germans have done to make themselves so remarkably prosperous.

Whenever the question of West German prosperity is raised, it is customary to say that the country benefitted from the fact that its factories and machinery were largely destroyed in the war. The efforts made by the victorious allies to rebuild West Germany gave her a plant and equipment of superior modernity. And, in this way, it was given an advantage among the nations of the world.

Whatever truth may lie in this argument, it is only part of the truth, and, in the longer view, a relatively small part. The progress that the West Germans have made has been primarily the outcome of their own policies. These policies have been so formed as to promote the highest and most efficient productivity.

It might seem that something so obviously necessary and desirable would be the policy of all nations. But the difference, in the case of West Germany, is that the policy was put into effect. There is a great difference between having a policy and rigorously applying it.

Between 1948 and 1958 the West German Government cut personal and company taxes six times. The government placed little value on the idea of egalitarian taxes — the idea of levelling out incomes. It worked on the contrary principle that everyone should be encouraged to work and produce as much as possible. In this way everyone would benefit. The aim was to give everyone a bigger share of a bigger pie, rather than to waste time and depress initiative by trying to divide up a comparatively small pie.

The policy proved itself in action. It was seen in West Germany's outstanding record of productivity, both per industry and per worker; in the rate of rise in real per capita wages; in the prompt construction of housing; in the fewness of strikes; and in the rapid rate of investment . . .

The Economist sums up the West German prosperity rather neatly, when it says: "What right-wing economists perhaps can say to left-wing ones is that Germany's experience shows that if a modern industrial country does certain . . . things — has a tight system of trade union law, keeps a watch on the money supply, fosters incentives rather than egalitarianism (and, incidentally, runs a liberal immigration policy) then it does not need to impose so many economic squeezes that throw workers out of employment."

West Germany believes that encouragement of productivity is better than discouragement. It may be rather obvious. But its application of the obvious has produced prodigious results, with less inflation, less unemployment, and fewer of those monetary "stop-go" signals that have bewildered business in other nations of the world.

FROM LONDON

By TIM TRAYNOR

Francs, Marks and the 'Crawling Peg'

Traynor

WHAT is certain in the aftermath of the European financial crisis is the need for extensive reform of the world monetary system. World currencies must be insulated from the sort of strains to which the French franc and the German mark have just been subjected. Since the dollar is the keystone of the system, President-elect Nixon's attitude will be crucial. The widely-criticized failure to adjust currency values during the crisis was at least partly due to European conviction that adjustments should take place as part of a wider review of the system after the lameduck administration in Washington gives way to the Republican regime early next year.

There has been intense speculation as to the possible outcome of such a review. A change in the value of a currency is basically a way of offsetting distortions in a nation's economic relations with the outside world. Such distortions arise from time to time, because of changes in the internal economy and are expressed by discrepancies between the inflow and outflow of trade payments. In theory post-war monetary arrangements made provision for these necessary adjustments, but in fact world currencies tended to congeal into fixed values.

Thus changes in the relative economic positions of the Western countries have not been fully reflected in changing currency values. This rigidity is compounded by the situation in the European Common Market: currency revaluations among member countries would necessitate complicated adjustments in the unified agricultural price system.

Artificial Values

Because of the rigidity of the present system, individual holders of money are constantly reacting to artificially supported currency values, or those believed to be artificial, by hedging themselves against possible forced changes in value — upward or downward.

They will, for instance, seek to avoid the depreciation of their money by converting holdings of a currency considered ripe for devaluation into another, safer, currency. (Fears of the devaluation of the franc led Frenchmen to convert their francs into the safer German marks.) The aim of any monetary reform must be to neutralize such speculative money movements, which tend to magnify the financial distortions and exaggerate the consequent change in currency value.

It has long been the goal of Gaullist policy to force a change in the value of the American dollar in terms of gold. By raising the dollar price of gold, the French would hope to increase the quantity of monetary resources available to them, so that governments would have greater resources on hand to withstand pressures arising from payments distortions. Though General de Gaulle can be expected to press this on Mr. Nixon, his case has been weakened by the fact that France has not been insulated from the recent crisis by its large reserve holdings of gold.

The inference drawn by numerous economists is that some way must be found to make exchange rates more flexible. Special arrangements made during the crisis to counter pressure on the franc and the mark in a sense constitute a step in this direction, since they effectively establish multiple rates for each of the currencies. This does not, however, mitigate the problems arising from the Common Market agricultural policy, and it would probably have to be extensively adjusted to accommodate any scheme of flexible exchange rates.

Extreme Position

The extreme position is that exchange rates should be allowed to float freely, but this is widely discounted as disruptive of trade, even apart from the difficulties it would create for the Common Market. A number of more moderate schemes have been canvassed, most notably the so-called single "crawling peg."

This would allow continuing adjustments of currency values within fixed limits. There is considerable optimism here that the Nixon administration will look favorably on such a reform. What chiefly worries observers is the difficulty of holding consultations on such a reform without setting off a wave of damaging speculation.

New York Too

New York Times

The city's two most significant fund-raising campaigns in the business community — the Greater New York Fund and the American Red Cross in Greater New York — are going to follow a wise course in 1969. Instead of running independent and overlapping appeals among corporate and employee groups, they are merging into one United Fund of Greater New York.

This is the only sound way to provide funds for intelligent giving in New where there are so many worthwhile charities. The Greater New York Fund, with its 425 hospital, health and welfare agencies, and the American Red Cross, with its blood program, aid to victims of disaster and home nursing, should now be able to end the costly competition and confusion in the offices of this city.

It will still be possible for individual charitable organizations, the Red Cross included, to seek funds outside the business community. Indeed, they will have to, for united giving covers only about 10 per cent of the contributed budgets of various hospitals and agencies. The establishment of one major fund in 1969 should be all the more reason for united generosity. And it should help to spur other campaigns in the city and suburbs to break their individual patterns and unite their drives.

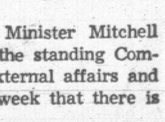
Repairing the NATO Fences



Mackie

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp informed the standing Commons committee on external affairs and national defence last week that there is no doubt that at the ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels recently there was concern on the part of other members of the alliance regarding Canada's support of NATO. The minister emphasized that the invasion of Czechoslovakia by the USSR and other Warsaw Pact countries had caused NATO members to appreciate once again the value of the alliance as a means of ensuring their security. They were anxious that nothing should be done, particularly at this time, to detract from the solidarity of the alliance.

Statements by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, during the Liberal leadership campaign, during the election campaign and after he formed a government, had been the cause of grave concern among Canada's NATO allies. Mr. Trudeau, in March, for example, was reported to have said that this country should negotiate the withdrawal of "a lot of our forces from NATO" and increase North American continental defences.

Postmaster-General Eric Kierans has recently declared that he feels that Canada should get out of NATO and also out of its commitments for North American Air Defence (NORAD).

G. W. Baldwin, the Progressive Conservative member from Peace River, read in the Commons a transcript of statements made by Mr. Kierans in a television broadcast. Mr. Kierans was asked on the telecast:

"Q. You (Mr. Kierans) made statements in the past that you felt that we should get out of NORAD as well as NATO and I'd like to ask you about that.

"Kierans: This hasn't come up in cabinet, thank the Lord . . . (laughs)."

"Q: Well, let me ask you about it. Do you still feel that way?"

"Kierans: I still feel the same way. I don't think that we have any contribution to make in this field."

Suggestions Only

The prime minister said the minister was only offering suggestions, not voicing policy. He noted that Mr. Kierans had earlier suggested that Canada should provide a peacekeeping force for service in Vietnam rather than participate in NATO and NORAD. Mr. Trudeau told the House that it was his impression Mr. Kierans was taking into account the fact that the whole policy is under review and found it useful to offer suggestions for the thinking of the Canadian people.

The minister of external affairs sought to remedy some of the damage done by Mr. Kierans and others. He asserted that by the time the ministerial meeting of NATO was completed he believed that he and Mr. Cadieux had been able to satisfy Canada's allies that Canada shared their concern about the future security of Europe.

They were convinced, he said, "that although we were reviewing our foreign and defence policy we would continue to live up to our commitments to NATO until such time as they might be altered; and that if in the future the government of Canada should consider changing our role in the alliance we would, of course, consult with them."

The discussions in Brussels had two principal elements, Mr. Sharp told the committee. In the North Atlantic council itself, foreign ministers examined political aspects, while in the defence planning committee the defence ministers of the 14 countries contributing to NATO's integrated forces deal with military considerations. Mr. Sharp outlined the political aspects.

He said it was the strong and unanimous view of the ministers that the Soviet Union's use of force in Czechoslovakia not only jeopardized peace and international order, but had also violated the basic right of the Czech people to shape their own future without outside interference. Canada supported this view.

There was also agreement that the use of force and the stationing in Czechoslovakia of Soviet troops not hitherto deployed there gave rise to uncertainty about the future intentions of the USSR. The Russians had demonstrated an impressive capability to bring substantial military force speedily to bear on a situation in Central Europe. It was agreed that the uncertainty required great vigilance on the part of NATO.

Suoport Confirmed

He noted that the ministers in Brussels confirmed the support of their governments for the declared determination of the United States, United Kingdom and France to safeguard the security of Berlin and to maintain freedom of access to the city. This part of the NATO communique represented a reaffirmation of existing commitments for Canada, Mr. Sharp said.

It was considered that, in view of the new situation created in Eastern Europe, certain improvements in the military forces available to NATO would be desirable. The nature and extent of these improvements were described by Mr. Cadieux to the committee.

Trudeau Explains Theory of Government

Following is the text of an interview with Prime Minister Trudeau in a tape-recorded discussion in Ottawa with Jay Walz, correspondent of The New York Times, and Seymour Topping, the paper's foreign news editor.

New York Times

Q. In the United States now, you are still something of an enigma; there is a feeling that you have not yet precisely defined your philosophy of government or your foreign policy or your program. Is that a fair statement?

A. During the election period and since, I have stated postulates of my thinking, intuitions if you prefer, or directions in which my mind works. But I haven't — certainly in the area of international relations—spelled out any precise policy.

In the specific matter of defense and external affairs, we are embarked on a review. It's fair to say there are a lot of unanswered questions.

What we do want to do in international affairs? What do we want to do in defense policy? What do we want to do with our social security programs, our monetary policy, and so on?

It's fair to say that I haven't tried to spell out the programs for the next 20 years of Canada. Perhaps I am partially a McLuhanite without knowing it.

It's one of the arguments I used in the leadership campaign, when they said "you don't have experience, how can you aspire to be a prime minister?"

My answer was, well, in the rapidly changing world, the experience isn't always very useful. The data is so different from one year to the next that what you learned in a previous context can hamstring you.

I know what the big priorities are, and I hope that we will be able to solve them over a period of four years.

Urban Growth

The problem of regional disparities is of extreme importance. The problem of Indian and Eskimo—native populations in general—is a very important one. The problem of urban growth; the problem of our relations with China, with South America, with Europe, with the United States; the attitudes we take toward foreign investments, taxation—these are all very important.

Q. How do you feel Canada's relations with the United States should evolve?

A. I have a very great respect for the United States and its institutions. I think it is an extraordinarily powerful society. It's vital. It's a tough society in the good sense of the word. It has lived through difficult problems, and I'm sure it has the wherewithal to answer difficult questions.

As a student of the law, I would say that I have in particular a very great respect for the legal thought that you have developed there.

I'm not talking of public lawmaking but of the institutions which grew out around your political institutions—the supreme court, the federal system of government and so on.

So I think we are very fortunate to have as a neighbor this very great country: it has obvious economic benefits, it has obvious technological benefits, it has obvious cultural benefits.

Even in terms, I suppose, of peace it has obvious benefits: we are in a sense sheltered by the United States umbrella.

But all these assets obviously are counterbalanced by the fact that it is such a large and strong power that in the kind of good-neighbor relationship that has existed for a long while the little guy always feels the rough edges more sensitively than the big guy does, and we have to be careful lest the economic benefits we draw from our relations with the United States lead to a form of economic domination which would lead to atrophy of our political independence.

We have to make the same assessment in the area of international relations: what we gain by having such a strong big brother—I say that in a non-Orwellian sense—we lose by the fact that we cannot be 100 per cent independent. Of course, no country can—not even the United States—but perhaps the measure of our independence is considerably reduced.

The cultural field—it is an obvious one, too. I believe that the benefits that I have underlined in the legal field can be extended to many other fields: the intellectual presence of the great universities, the cultural dynamism of a city like New York.

Shot in the Arm

It's an extraordinary shot in the arm for a Canadian to be able to take an hour's flight and be in New York City and know what's happening in the biggest city in the world, and probably the most exciting one, and come back after a short weekend.

Q. Are you worried by the influx of U.S. capital investment, in the sense that this investment might result in an American economic domination of this country? And do you plan any restrictions on American capital investment in Canada?

A. I think the problem of economic domination is somewhat inevitable — not only of the United States over Canada but perhaps over countries of Europe as well, and the problems of the economic domination of Japan over some countries in the Far East, and the problem of economic domination of the Soviet Union over some of the smaller countries around it, and so on.

These are facts of life, and they don't worry me.

I would want to make sure that this economic presence does not result in a real weakening of our national identity. It is obvious, if we keep our capital and keep out technology we won't be able to develop our resources and we would have to cut our standard of consumption in order to generate the savings to invest ourselves and so on.

I think even more important than the capital which comes in from the United States is the technology that comes with it.

And we can't have one without the other, and we are willing to take both, but on certain conditions.

I'm not an economic nationalist, and I believe that the whole device of nationalism is an impoverishing one—that you should only use it, sparingly, in areas where you can't defend yourself otherwise.

I believe, in the case of American investment in Canada, it is more important — as I have said many times — for us to use our savings to invest in the future rather than to use these savings to buy up the past and to try to buy out the American concerns which are here now.

Because if we use our savings to buy the past, then these savings will be reinvested by the very same outsiders in the future and we will be another generation behind.

So I'd like to try and skip a generation and say, well, they own the automobile factories and many of the pulp mills, and so on; let's not use too much of our savings trying to make these things Canadian; let's make sure that the industries of tomorrow will be Canadian.

This is where Canadians can prove whether they are entrepreneurs or not, and whether their assessment of the future is as good as the Americans'.

You realize that each country wants to keep its identity — or its sovereignty, to speak in legal terms. It has to constantly make assessments, to select those areas which are important for our independence.

Some examples are quite obvious; our banking and our financial institutions, and the communications media, where we've adopted in the area of radio broadcasting the same kind of laws that you have in the United States which insure that control of the media will not belong to foreigners.

But we have limited resources, intellectual and manpower and financial. Therefore the great problem for a Government of our size is to know where we will invest those resources most — resources for protecting our identity.

I believe that in most of the areas I'm prepared to let the consumer decide and to let the forces of the market play.

Q. How do you see military co-operation with the United States within the framework of NATO and the bilateral defence arrangements such as the North American Air Defence Command?

A. In the case of NATO I don't see the United States as posing a particular problem. They are one member of NATO among many. I believe that the alliance, in a very real sense, is useful to Canada because it permits us to talk to people other than the United States when we're talking about global military problems.

Or, to state that in another way, the political benefits of NATO to Canada are that we have other friends in the same alliance apart from the United States and we can assess, for instance, the events in Czechoslovakia or the happenings over Suez or the developments in Berlin not merely by talking to the United States but by asking what the English and the French and the Italians and the Germans and all of the rest of the NATO members think of a given thing.

Balance of Terror

I do think that part of our process of reviewing our defense and external policy will be predicated on the reality that probably the greatest force for peace in the last 15 years has been the balance of terror between two nuclear powers.

If Canada decides that the principle of collective security is an important one — and I am inclined to think it is — if we don't want to be completely neutralists, if we want to be in some collective-security arrangement, we can ask ourselves: which are the ones which are more natural to us? Are they the NATO ones or are they the NORAD ones? And how do you intensify the arrangements which are the most natural to you?

Q. You have said in the past that you feel that the nature of the defence situation has changed because there is no longer a threat in a general sense from a monolithic Communist bloc. What is your feeling after the invasion of Czechoslovakia?

A. When you quote me as having said that there is no more danger because of breaking up the monolith, I don't remember having said that; perhaps it is a matter of emphasis.

I think that this is very much the French position — that detente would come, hopefully, as a result of the breaking up of the monolith, and there were signs of this in Romania and signs of it in Hungary and more recently signs in Czechoslovakia.

'Perhaps I am a McLuhanite'

If that is what you are alluding to, then I would say yes. This is also part of the NATO members' thinking, and they said so, indeed, in the communique after Brussels — that we don't want our present decisions to preclude a genuine hope that detente will come. And detente will mean that, I suppose — less of a monolith.

Russia Weaker?

But this being said, do the events in Czechoslovakia and perhaps the Mediterranean lead me to believe that NATO should be strengthened?

I'd say you could argue just as easily to the contrary — that because of Czechoslovakia we have concrete evidence that the Soviet Union is weaker now than it was before; it can no longer count on Czechoslovakia as a solid ally in a military conflict.

Movings within the Warsaw Pact countries in the last couple of years have indicated that perhaps there is a genuine desire in these countries to be less part of the monolith.

And if that were the case, if they were generally prepared to move toward detente, I think we should also do so in NATO.

So it seems to me that we have to question some of the basic premises that were at the basis of the creation of NATO in the late Nineteen Forties.

Since then, China has developed from what was then a country torn by revolution into an important power.

It's obvious that Russia's greatest fear in the future will be China and not the United States.

And perhaps there would be something to be said for the United States or for other members of NATO to act more along the lines of this new reality.

In the long run, I think perhaps it is in the interests of China to be friendly with America rather than with Russia.

And if you can develop this line of thinking, then you cease to be as afraid of Russia in Europe as we are now.

Everyone knows that by the year 2000 Japan will be one of the four greats in the world—the United States, Soviet Union, Germany and Japan.

It's obvious that this is going to spell a whole new set of realities in the Pacific both in the military and the economic sense.

I'd be interested in making sure that Canada, as a Pacific nation, is asking itself questions about that.

Q. You have indicated that it would be advisable for Canada at some time to recognize the Peking government. Under what conditions would you consider the time right for a step of that kind?

A. I think the time has been right for a great many years to recognize the Peking government. The difficulty is, what happens to Taiwan if we recognize Peking?

I've been on record many times as saying that regardless of the regime in Peking, it is the government of a quarter of the human race and it is a country that we have to know more about and it is a country with which Canada, as you know, has a very important trade relation. And it is a country with which we should establish diplomatic relations.

What Conditions?

The reason why we haven't done it and why we are not doing it now is that before doing it you want to know under what conditions diplomatic relations will exist.

You want, as much as possible, to know in advance what treatment our diplomats will get over there, what kind of a basis of operation they will have.

We want to know what we will do without relations with Taiwan or what Peking will want us to do or demand that we do.

We have done a lot of consultation about it, with countries who have relations with Peking, and with countries who have not relations with Peking.

Q. Are you encouraged by what you found out?

A. Well, I'm encouraged. But I'm an optimist, and this doesn't really mean that the result will be what I hope it will be: establishment of relations.

Q. Do you anticipate that the U.S. attitude toward the Peking government will continue to be a deterrent?

A. I don't know. I certainly would want to have this question discussed with the U.S. government. I am quite sure that several years ago they would have reacted very badly. I am not so sure that is true now.

Q. To some extent your change of administration is parallel to what is happening in the United States. Do you intend to meet Mr. Nixon with a view of re-examining and possibly readjusting relations between Canada and the United States?

A. Well, I have no specific intention to meet him. There has been no exchange of any kind of information along these lines. But I would hope that Mr. Nixon and I would be able to discuss these questions and many others.

Leave Specifics

I think the foremost thing I have to discuss when I meet responsible leaders of friendly countries are not so much specifics, and I believe a lot can be left to our diplomatic personnel and to our civil servants in the area of trade and commerce and so on.

I would like to try to understand what the major premises of Mr. Nixon's thinking are, and I acquaint him with mine. I would like to know what he is thinking about the next 20 years:

What are the dangers? What are the hopes? In what direction is the population moving? What will we do with urban growth?

What will we do with problems of economic interdependence? What will we do with the multi-national corporation? What will we do with the United Nations?

How does he see the world? Does he think about China as I do?

What does he think about the problem of the black people in the United States and how does he think this is going to be solved in the next several years?

Is he very concerned with problems of poverty in the third world? What priorities does he put on international aid and development as against shooting for the moon?

But these are things that I find interesting discussing with anyone; therefore I would find it even more interesting discussing them with the president of the United States.

Q. You have spoken of the Just Society in a visionary sense, as President Lyndon Johnson has spoken of the Great Society. Can you tell us how you envision the Just Society?

A. Well, what is the definition of justice? It is to give to each man his due. What is due to each man? I suppose it is only each man who can answer that. Most people realize there is a limit to what they can get.

More Subjective

So I use "Just Society"—perhaps as President Johnson used "Great Society," but I think the word "justice" is a bit more subjective.

That is why I have talked so much of involvement and participation. For example, it would not be sufficient to make Canada a great society if the Indians or the French Canadians or the province of British Columbia didn't feel that they were getting their just share of this great society.

And when I say Just Society, I am thinking of letting the people know that the values we are seeking are those that they feel important—not some objective test of greatness, but . . . are they happy in this society, do they feel that they are getting their due out of society?

Because if they don't then you have all the dropouts, the riots, the anarchists and so on.

It's always a sense of injustice which motivates this, whether it be the blacks or the students or the poor people in the slums. It's that they are not getting their fair share.

I think citizens in the society realize that they can have more by living within the society than they could by getting out of it.

Therefore it is not an answer to them to say that "this society will be great and you will be proud of it." It's more important to say that "this society will be just.

"Perhaps it will be less rich, but it will be more respectful of the values which you esteem important to you."

Q. You have been Prime Minister now for seven months. Do you feel any different than when you first started out?

A. Well, I feel a little more sleepy when Friday night comes around — probably working harder than I used to do. I don't feel different in any other sense, though.

You know, I haven't had any really big crisis or test that sort of made me feel that the burdens of office are terrible—that I'm developing ulcers or that I can't sleep.

I feel it takes a hell of a lot of time to be a Prime Minister, but it is such a lot of fun even in terms of getting the machinery working and feeling that soon you will be able to make decisions and implement them.

Q. You have introduced a new technique in reaching people; that is, you get out and mix with students and talk to them freely. Do you do this as the Prime Minister or as a man who would like to get a point or message across?

A. Basically I do that because I like to exchange ideas. I like to teach, but I like to be taught. I like to learn things. I like to know what people think. I like them to know what I think.

I especially believe—and this is, when you talk of students, what I especially want people to understand—that there is no great authority called the Prime Minister who gets messages from God, you know—who makes great laws.

Nor do I go around my office with a listening device trying to take orders from Washington or Moscow or Rome or anything like that.

Lawyers Before

The ideas that we come up with are basically the ideas of men who yesterday were merchants or lawyers or teachers and today happen to be the ministers of this Government.

That's essentially what I would like the young people to understand—that perhaps our answers are not right as regards Vietnam or Biafra or NATO or the Indians, perhaps they're not right, but we are not evil men trying to force a diabolical solution upon them.

We are men who are coming up with answers as best we can, and if they have better answers, I'd like to know what they are.

Especially with students—you know, they say, "it's the profit motive which is driving this society."

"Well, what is the profit motive? You know, it is not some mechanism which is imposed on society by evil men. It is something that the society has chosen to use as its mainspring, and if the profit motive is wrong, well fine! Let's destroy it or let's replace it by something else.

It's only in discussing with them that you can make them realize that many of their simplistic answers are just that, that they haven't really asked themselves all the difficult questions.

And I find that if we come up with more ideas it will only be accepted if the people are prepared for them, which means involving them, discussing with them, convincing them.

Can You Believe in God and Senator Dodd?

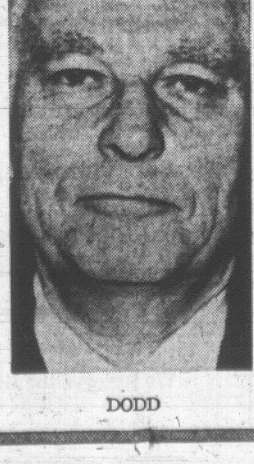
New Republic

The sixth U.S. senator to be formally censured by his peers and the first to be censured for personal financial misconduct (diverting campaign funds to himself, tax free), Thomas J. Dodd is in the news again, in a minor way.

And what is he talking about? Not corruption, campaign financing or Connecticut, but Communism.

Not exactly Communism, but the New Left, though, as we shall see, you can't talk about the one without talking about the other.

The senator has issued a call for vigilance against young purveyors of violent revolution. He does so in an introduction to "a comprehensive study" made by the Senate Judiciary Committee's Internal Security Sub-Committee, of which Mr. Dodd is chairman.



DODD

It is a scary document. One is torn between wild alarm and tears for the "scores of thousands of innocent and idealistic young people whom the leaders of the New Left now have in tow."

Alarmed, for "if the New Left possessed the power to blow up with impunity all Dow Chemical plants making napalm (along with the plants of Lockheed, Boeing, etc., which make weapons), it would do so."

Sorrow, for some mighty fine young people have been misled: "There is no question but that the Communists have been able to exploit this movement for their own purposes. Through their carefully calculated participation in the anti-Vietnam agitation, and the anti-draft agitation, and in the Civil Rights movement, the Communists, including the Moscow Communists, the Peking Communists and the Trotskyites, have succeeded in breaking down many of the barriers that have in the past handicapped them in expanding their influence."

What is to be done? We must refashion our education, so that it will "produce rounded men and women, men and women who have a firm commitment to moral values. . . ."

We must also ask ourselves, "Why so many thousands of our youth have been led to turn their backs on all values, on all authority, why they have turned to the perverted religion of Nihilism, and why they now seek to tear down, in their purposeless rage, the country that gave them birth and the freest society that man has ever devised."

A simple, if incomplete answer is: Senator Dodd.

Marines Close N. Viet Cordon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines closed out their massive cordon operation south of Da Nang today with another flurry of stiff bunker fighting. At least 862 North Vietnamese soldiers were claimed killed in the 20-day campaign.

Some senior officers estimated total North Vietnamese losses may approach 1,000 when the final count is made. A hundred North Vietnamese troops were taken prisoner.

Marine casualties for the entire operation, called Meade River, were 95 killed and 504 wounded.

Staff officers said preliminary intelligence indicated that major portions of four battalions of the North Vietnamese Army's 38th Regiment were trapped in the cordon following a North Vietnamese attack on the district town of Dien Ban, 15 miles south of Da Nang.

The U.S. military command also disclosed that a $2,000,000 RF-4C Phantom photo reconnaissance plane was shot down over North Vietnam but the two-man crew was rescued by helicopter.

It was the fourth American plane shot down over North Vietnam since the halt in the bombing Nov. 1 and the 919th loss over the North during the war.

Military spokesmen reported that Communist gunners shelled two district towns and eight bases Sunday night and early today, including the big Nha Trang air base 200 miles northeast of Saigon and the U.S. Army headquarters complex at Long Binh, 15 miles north of the capital.

Student Protesters 'High'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — S. I. Hayakawa, the Vancouver-born acting president of San Francisco State College, says he has reports that agitators—some of them drug users—"are converging here from all parts of the country" to demonstrate.

"A large number of the students and non-students" leading demonstrators "are high as a kite," he said in an interview Sunday. "They are on speed, marijuana and a number of other things."

The college has been open for a week with police-protected classroom instruction and attendance near normal. About 300 student strikers have called for an all-out effort to close the school again. Hayakawa, named acting president Nov. 24 after the strike had shut down classes for a week, has vowed to keep it open.

Rev. Cecil Williams, a Negro Methodist pastor, said it was not true that white radicals from outside were moving in on the strike, which was called by the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front.

"Hayakawa has been backed into a corner and is making irresponsible and irrelevant statements," the minister told a rally Sunday.

The two men were picked up by another boat as the flames burned out the cabin and wheelhouse of the 45-foot tug.

DEMAND REPLACES REQUEST

Welsh Groom Freedom Army

CAYO-EVANS
. . . home rule

By GRANVILLE WATTS

LAMPETER, Wales (AP) — Julian Cayo-Evans, wearing his dark green Free Wales Army uniform, says: "We are not asking for home rule. We're demanding it."

Cayo-Evans, 31, a former Foreign Legion adventurer, claims the FWA has 7,000 members. Others say the membership is more like 300.

Mostly young farmers like Cayo-Evans, they are dedicated to restoring independence to the 2,500,000 Welsh ruled from London for 700 years.

The home rulers are particularly angered by the flooding of Welsh valleys in recent years to provide water for England's industrial cities. This month a bomb shattered pipelines carrying water from the Welsh mountains to the Midlands city of Birmingham.

The FWA warned that the bombings will be increased, particularly if plans go ahead for the flooding of the Dulas Valley in Montgomeryshire.

The growing Welsh Nationalist party, Plaid Cymru, has denounced the bombings and the activities of extremist groups.

Gwynfor Evans, Plaid Cymru president, claims that his 30,000-member party can win independence for Wales by constitutional methods.

Others maintain that democratic methods—Evans is the only Welsh Nationalist in Parliament—have failed and the time has come for violence.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government, presumably anxious to keep the Welsh political climate cool, has been cautious in prosecuting alleged extremists.

But Cayo-Evans says he and his colleagues are kept under close police surveillance. "My phone is tapped for instance," he says.

He reports police recently seized a number of FWA uniforms and pulled down the red dragon Welsh flag which he flew outside his farm in West Wales.

The FWA has numerous hidden arms dumps in Wales, he says. "We keep them as a deterrent."

One of Scotland Yard's top detectives, Supt. Jock Wilson, has been given the job of guarding Prince Charles when he goes to Aberystwyth in April for a cram course in Welsh affairs. He will be invested as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon three months later.

The police are worried by the professional way in which several sabotage bombings have been carried out.

Out of nine blasts, the bombers have injured one person—a warrant officer who discovered a homemade bomb at an RAF station in Wales. The bomb exploded, severely injuring the man.

The FWA claimed the bomb was planted by the police to discredit the organization.

European Talks for Nixon

NEW YORK (CP) — President elect Richard Nixon, who has indicated he will seek early meetings aith Western European leaders, has added fuel to the active rumor mill here by conferring nearly two hours with R. Sargent Shriver, ambassador to France.

Meanwhile, the Milwaukee Sentinel says a Nixon aide in Washington confirmed that Representative Melvin R. Laird, chairman of the House of Representatives Republican Conference, had agreed to become defence secretary.

"The only thing that could go wrong would be if he (Nixon) changes his mind at the last minute, and he won't," the aide was quoted as saying.

Laird was not available for comment.

Nixon aides said the 12-member cabinet, scheduled to take office in 43 days, was "basically" complete, and that all positions would be filled this week. Other sources said Nixon was still negotiating with one or more prominent Democrats.

Shriver said he flew to New York from Washington Sunday at Nixon's request to "bring him up to date about things in France."

The Democrat denied he was offered a cabinet post.

Schriver is a former director of the Peace Corps and ran President Johnson's poverty program for four years before going to Paris as ambassador seven months ago.

The two men met alone and a Nixon spokesman had no comment on the unusually lengthy discussion which followed a meeting in Washington between Shriver and State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Shriver's sudden visit to the United States added to persistent rumors of an impending overseas tour by President Johnson, which might include a summit conference with Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin and a visit to Paris for talks with President Charles de Gaulle.

Diplomatic sources hinted Shriver's visit was connected with new and apparently urgent developments.

62% Support Fluoridation

COURTENAY—Voters in the Comox-Courtenay regional district have voted in favor of fluoridation, according to early indications.

Total vote has not been counted, but it appears district opinion runs about 62 per cent in favor of the move.

Regional District Chairman Ray Ellis of Comox said today he could not say what would happen when the measure is placed before the district board for action.

The narrow approval is "really a problem," and the board is expected to consider it towards mid-January.

Basically, he said, those favoring fluoridation "have it."

A spokesman at the board office said the measure now has passed two of three stages: the vote and the 60-per-cent majority.

The board now is in a position to go ahead, provide the money and get into "the fluoridation business."

Unofficial results gave the issue a majority vote in Comox, a narrow defeat in Courtenay and a considerable defeat in the rural areas.

In a second major up-Island referendum, Port Alberni voters came out overwhelmingly in support of a school building program that will see addition of gymnasium facilities at E. J. Dunn school.

The vote was 1,822 in favor, 589 opposed.

Cowichan valley regional district got one referendum passed, but one was defeated. Acquisition of a fire truck was approved 109 to 18 at North Oyster.

Saltair voters failed to approve a contract with North Cowichan to supply fire protection. The vote was 118 in favor, 90 opposed, but the measure needed a 60 per cent approval.

Setback Handed College Scheme

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

CAMPBELL RIVER — Voters here voted 63 per cent against participation in the Malaspina Regional College.

School board chairman Bruce Saunders, who is also temporary chairman of the regional college council, said the result was not unexpected.

"Although it was only an opinion poll, the result will greatly influence the board's decision on whether to stay in the college council," said Mr. Saunders.

District residents have gone to the polls before on the same issue. More than a year ago they voted heavily in favor of the college based at Nanaimo.

Enthusiasm gradually cooled when plans were made by the council to house the college in temporary buildings.

"We exected temporary quarters for a while," said Mr. Saunders, "but there's no guarantee that this arrangement won't become permanent. What calibre of teaching staff are going to be attracted to temporary quarters?"

He said that they joined the college district in the belief there would be a future money referendum before funds were spent.

"They are going ahead now on capital money, the rules of the game were changed in mid-flight."

He said that despite the vote, the school district can stay in the council if it wishes, but, he said, it will probably bow out gracefully if agreement is received from the other college council members.

Other members are from Ladysmith, Duncan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo and Parksville.

Pearson Urges 'Federated Europe'

LONDON (CP) — Lester B. Pearson argued for a federated Europe including Britain Sunday night and expressed hope such a development might in time extend across the Atlantic.

The former Canadian prime minister said the "compulsion of events"—economic and political—could well push European countries toward federalism. However, the whole process could not be rushed.

He said:

"I hope that if and when all the European countries give up certain sovereign rights in the interests of a larger international economic and political community, far from weakening their relations with other states and peoples, it will make them closer.

"I also hope that any such European development will not take long in extending beyond Europe, and in particular across the Atlantic."

Pearson said he thought British participation need not mean the end of the Commonwealth, as some feared.

SPEAKS OVER BBC

Pearson spoke over BBC radio in the fourth of a series of six called the Reith Lectures, named after a former director-general of the BBC. The over-all theme is "Peace in the Family of Man."

Explaining his views on European federation, Pearson said that today the sovereign state is virtually obsolete as a "satisfactory basis for rational economic organization" in industrially developed societies. Economic growth could realize its full potential only in a large free market extending beyond national boundaries.

"So we see the penetration of one economy by another," he said. "This process has probably progressed furthest in Canada.

"It has been going on there for many years but up to the present it has not prevented national political development. In a sense, indeed, it has made us more conscious of being Canadian because of our worry about intrusion from outside. . . .

"The same process is well underway in Western Europe."

STEPS ALREADY TAKEN

To any objection that there was little evidence of any active desire for political federation in Europe, Pearson replied that the steps that have already been taken toward European economic integration—such as the Common Market—would have seemed impossible 50 years ago.

"Pull over, buddy," said the traffic cop. "You haven't got any tail light."

The motorist stopped, got out and examined the back of his car. He looked so horrified that the policeman was actually sympathetic.

"Well, mister, that's bad," said the cop, "but it's not all that terrible."

Recovering his voice, the motorist managed to stammer, "It's not the tail light—what's happened to my trailer!"

Something as simple as a new Shell air filter can give you 10% better mileage.

At Shell, we know all about such things. Because mileage is our business.

We know that your car engine needs about 7,500 gallons of air for every gallon of gasoline for top performance.

A dirty air filter blocks the air flow. You waste gasoline and your mileage could drop by as much as 10%.

The remedy takes about 5 minutes.

Just ask your Shell dealer to have a look. If you need a new air filter, he can install a Shell filter while you wait.

Result: You'll go farther, your engine will run more smoothly and you could cut your gasoline bill by up to 10%. You could save $1 for every $10 of gasoline.

Our 32 mileage secrets

You'll go farther with a clean air filter, new spark plugs and the right tire pressure. These are three of our 32 mileage secrets.

Read them all in our free book, 32 Secrets. Your Shell dealer will give you a copy. And he'll help you solve your mileage problems.

We want everything right with your car when we fill your tank, so Super Shell can really show off.

Super Shell for good mileage

Super Shell gasoline has five ingredients for good mileage.

(1) Platformate contains extra-energy petroleum molecules.

(2) TCP works to keep spark plugs from misfiring.

(3) Butane helps you start quickly. And the quicker you start the less gasoline you use before you get going.

(4) A detergent fights the deposits that can build up inside the carburetor. These deposits reduce mileage.

(5) Mixed Pentanes help your engine warm up quickly to prevent misfiring, bucking, coughing and wasted fuel.

If you'd like to go farther, the man to see is your Shell dealer. For advice. For a free copy of 32 Secrets. And for Super Shell.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices eased off in closing trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after oilseeds dominated the market with sharp gains in early action.

Rapeseed gained some of its early impetus from a recent imposition of duty on East German and Polish rapeseed by Britain. This put Canadian production on a more competitive level.

Two ocean-goning vessels cleared the Lakehead Saturday with 260,000 bushels of flax for Belgium, Rotterdam and Hamburg. This cleans up most of the dry flax in deliberate positions.

Other commodities attracted little attention.

Friday's volume included 636,000 bushels of flax, 535,000 of rapeseed and 134,000 of rye.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures gave up nearly 2 cents on the board of trade and led nearly all commodities on a declining scale.

Trade was slow and volume relatively light. It appeared that most of the traders were biding their time until some definite word is heard concerning the longshoremen's dispute.

The weakness in wheat was a factor in the selling of corn and soybeans futures. Later in the session, however, some hedge selling developed in the deferred corn options and losses were as much as 1¼ cents.

Weakness of soybean oil and meal after the opening reflected on lower soybean prices. After mid-session, however, some buying strength appeared in all three commodities.

Air Canada to Sell Winnipeg Facilities

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Canada has been authorized to sell its overhaul base at Winnipeg to Northwest Industries Ltd. of Edmonton or Aircraft Industries of Canada Ltd., of St. John's Que., the government announced today.

Transport Minister Paul Hellyer said in a statement that the two companies have each submitted plans for major development of the Winnipeg overhaul facilities.

The negotiations between Air Canada and the companies involve protection of the interests of present employees, maintenance of the present level of work and provision for further expansion, Mr. Hellyer said.

Negotiations with the companies would require several weeks.

Mr. Hellyer said activity at the Winnipeg base will include present maintenance of Air Canada Viscount planes, additional Air Canada work, repair work from Lockheed California, repair of defence department aircraft and maintenance of other commercial planes.

In addition, Lockheed has undertaken to place substantial manufacturing and repair work with Manibota firms, Mr. Hellyer said.

FRENCH ACCUSED OF MONEY PLOY

By HOBART ROWEN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Figures reported by the Banque de France showing official reserves as of Nov. 21 at about $3.9 billion are believed here to be artificially "pumped up" to disguise the full measure of recent speculative drains.

As reported by the Banque, gold and foreign exchange losses since the "events of May" total about $3 billion.

The French figures showed a loss of only $174.8 million in the week ended Nov. 21, at the height of speculation against the franc.

But reliable reports, some emanating from the Banque de France at that time, were that reserves had suffered a $250 million loss on Friday, Nov. 15, the first day of the week covered in the report for Nov. 21.

On two days, Thursday, Nov. 14, and Friday, Nov. 15, the loss of reserves was reported to be $400 million.

But the French are including in their reserves a major portion of reciprocal credits (swaps) with the U.S. running to $700 million and some part of $600 million in available credits from European sources.

These stand as liabilities against French reserves. Thus, some authoritative experts here believe, they should be deducted from officially-shown figures to show the full amount of the deterioration of the French position.

That would bring the real total of French-owned reserves down to about $2.6 billion.

The introduction of "swap" and other credits into officially-reported French reserves can be traced by examining monthly foreign exchange totals.

Thus, between the end of May and the end of June, when France lost just under $500 million in gold, and utilized its entire $887 million gold tranche position in the IMF, it reported a net "increase" of almost $300 million in foreign exchange.

Money experts thus conclude that between May and June, France drew on her "swaps" lines of credit to "dress up" her total reserves position.

At the end of October, France's foreign exchange holdings were down to $129 million, compared with $874 million at the end of December, and $792 million at the end of April.

Railways Told to Be Realistic

TORONTO (CP) — Railways will have to scale their freight charges on a basis that will provide an adequate return on investment, Alfred E. Perlman, president of Penn Central Co. of New York, said Saturday night.

He told the annual dinner of the Toronto Railway Club that, although rail lines in the United States have made considerable progress in this field, progress has been uneven.

Canadian railways have been quicker than those in the U.S. to grasp the realities of flexible pricing systems, he said.

"We have too many rate structures so high they merely provide an umbrella for competition, or so low they do not reflect the realities of present-day capital and operating costs."

Mr. Perlman gave as an example of how realistic rates can help a railway the experience of the New York Central in its grain handling five years ago.

At that time, the line was earning $31 million through carrying grain, but losing $3 million on the operations.

By converting to specialized equipment and getting rid of special customer privileges, the situation was reversed.

"For one thing, it drove some unprofitable grain traffic off the railroad," Mr. Perlman said.

"While it is true that we hauled substantially fewer carloads of grain and grain products in 1966 than we did three years earlier, we also turned our out-of-pocket loss of $3 million into a clear $2.7 million profit."

JUCKES ANNOUNCES 'LEND-LEASE' OFFER

SOVIETS MAY VISIT VICTORIA

From Russia (With Love?) . . . Hockey Help for Canada!

MOSCOW (CP) — Coaches of two Soviet national hockey teams that have just finished giving Canada's national team a few lesson may go to Canada next year to help train the Canadian team.

Gordon Juckes, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association manager, says that Anatoly Tarasov, coach of the Soviet No. 1 team, and Arkady Chernishov, mentor of the No. 2 team, have offered "to go over to Canada as advisers for one month next year."

Juckes said the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation had indicated it would approve the idea. The proposal still needed Canadian acceptance.

Juckes said the Russians would "show us how they train their players—differently from ours—and how they get their physical conditioning."

Juckes was interviewed just after the Soviet No. 2 team had blanked the visiting Canadians 4-0 in an exhibition game. It was the fifth match for the Canadians in Moscow and they lost all except one—a 2-2 tie with Finland last Tuesday.

The No. 2 Soviet team beat the Canadians 8-1 Friday and 5-4 the previous Sunday. The Canadians also lost 6-0 to the Soviet No. 1 team Wednesday.

The Canadians scored only seven goals and gave up 25 in their seven days here.

Team coach Jackie McLeod said after Saturday's game that the players now see what they will be up against in the world championships in Stockholm, Sweden, next spring.

"I had tried to tell them over and over back in Canada, but they wouldn't believe me. They thought I was trying to frighten them," McLeod said.

"Now they know how tough these guys are."

McLeod noted that the Canadians held the Soviet players scoreless for the last 40 minutes of Saturday's game—their best defensive showing of the series. He thought his team is improving despite a gruelling schedule.

He also reported that several of his players said they found the No. 2 Soviet team stronger than the veteran No. 1 squad.

Juckes said he "wasn't particularly disappointed" by the Canadian showing.

"We have some strong players back in Canada who didn't come to Moscow for this series."

A representative Soviet team will visit Canada beginning Jan. 17 for a total of eight games in Montreal, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Vancouver and perhaps Toronto and Victoria, Juckes said.

He thought the big differences between the Canadian and Russian players is the playing tempo, which he credited to the Russian conditioning and physical development programs.

"You have to do more than teach a boy to play hockey these days. You have to develop his body to the maximum through weight-lifting and physical exercises as the Russians do. All their players are in superb condition."

Bloodied Hull Glares at Ferguson (22) after free-swinging clash

TOUGH BRAWL TO CALL

MONTREAL (CP) — Two of the strongest men in the National Hockey League—one renowned for his scoring ability and the other for his pugilistic endeavors—clashed in the eighth minute of Saturday night's game between Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens.

Black Hawks' Bobby Hull, the league's leading scorer and Canadiens' John Ferguson clashed after Hull took exception to a cross-check.

★ ★ ★

The ensuing fist fight was a standoff on points, but Hull had to retire to the clinic to get five stitches in his nose.

Ferguson collected a major penalty for crosschecking, a major for fighting and a misconduct. Hull was handed a major for fighting.

Referee Art Skov called a total of 69 minutes in penalties in the game in which Serge Savard tangled with Bill Orban and Jacques LeMaire took on Matt Ravlich. Montreal won the nationally-televised game 6-3.

★ ★ ★

Ferguson claimed he did not cross-check Hull.

"I certainly didn't cross-check him," he said in the dressing room after the game. "But who is going to believe me?

"Anyway, does Hull think that for $100,000 a year he's going to get off Scot free?"

★ ★ ★

Outside the Chicago dressing room, coach Billy Reay was bitter at Ferguson and was convinced the Canadien player cross-checked Hull.

"He should've been given a match penalty," Reay said.

It was first feared that Hull's nose might have been broken, but the Blond Bomber was back in action Sunday in Chicago. Hull scored three goals, chalking up his 23rd career "hat trick" as the Hawks defeated Boston Bruins 7-4.

ROD GILBERT
. . . hit by misfortune

Ranger Skid, Gilbert's Loss Add to Woes

By The Canadian Press

New York Rangers, who only last week were first in the National Hockey League standings, have lost three games in a row.

And they've also lost right-winger Rod Gilbert, 10th in the NHL scoring race with 27 points on nine goals and 18 assists.

Gilbert, who will be out four to six weeks with a broken left ankle and torn ligaments, was missing Sunday night when the Rangers dropped a 5-2 decision to Detroit Red Wings before a hometown crowd of 17,250.

He was hurt in Toronto Saturday night as the Rangers lost by an identical score to the Maple Leafs, dropping into second place in the Eastern Division standings.

New York was tied for first with Montreal going into weekend action, but the Canadiens edged two points ahead with a 6-3 win over Chicago Black Hawks Saturday.

In other Sunday games, Toronto beat Pittsburgh Penguins 4-1, Chicago dumped Boston 7-4, St. Louis fought to a 4-4 draw with Philadelphia and Minnesota defeated Oakland 4-1.

At New York, Gordie Howe scored two goals and assisted on two as Detroit took a 5-1 lead in the first period.

"The first 700 goals are the toughest," said Howe, who has a career total of 702 and is in second place behind Chicago's Bobby Hull in the NHL scoring race.

He said his next milestone would be 714—baseball's home run record established by the late Babe Ruth.

Dean Prentice, Frank Mahovlich and Garry Unger scored the other Detroit goals while Donnie Marshall and Bob Nevin replied for the Rangers.

4,000 RALLY BACK IN 1970

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Gunn, former co-ordinator of the 4,000-mile cross-Canada rally, has confirmed a non-profit group called International Motorsport Association of Canada has been formed "with the primary objective of continuing the rally."

Shell Canada Ltd., dropped sponsorship of the event after the 1968 run.

"It is regretable that a 4,000 cannot be held in 1969, but planning for the 1970 event is already well-advanced," Gunn said.

Vandals Pad Hockey Lead

University of Victoria Vandals extended their lead in the Victoria Men's Field Hockey League to four points Sunday with a 3-2 conquest of the last-place Tigers.

The only other scheduled game—between Red Barons and Oak Bay Redmen — was postponded because of poor field conditions at Windsor Park.

Bert Meek led Vandals on their home pitch with two goals while Gary Anaka contributed the other marker.

Manjit Singh and Raj Pagely notched tallies for Tigers.

Hat-Trick No. 23 for Bobby Hull

In Chicago, Hull scored three goals for the 23rd time in his NHL career as the Black Hawks beat Boston.

His performance gave him 19 goals for the season and 44 total points for a six-point spread over Howe.

Chicago raced into a five-goal lead and then stood off a late Bruin surge. Bobby's final goal, on which Chicago goalie Dave Dryden picked up an assist, halted the Boston comeback with eight minutes left.

Hull's brother, Dennis, also scored twice for the Black Hawks. Doug Mohns and Matt Ravlich got the other Chicago goals while Bobby Orr, Derek Sanderson, Phil Esposito and Ken Hodge scored for the Bruins.

Pierre Pilote, who had managed only one goal in the 1967-68 season and none so far this season, fired two to lead Toronto past Pittsburgh. The veteran defenceman connected on a first-period slap shot and scored again in the second as the Leafs, in fourth place in the NHL's Eastern Division, won their third straight game.

Murray Oliver and Dave Keon were the other Toronto marksmen. Leo Boivin scored Pittsburgh's only goal while Tim Horton was serving a hooking penalty in the second period.

St. Louis, leading the Western Division by 10 points over Los Angeles Kings, stretched its unbeaten string to 12 games with the tie against Philadelphia Flyers. The Blues have won five and tied seven since their last defeat, Nov. 9, at Montreal.

Forbes Kennedy's 20-footer at 12:04 of the third period gave Philadelphia the tie. Simon Nolet got two for the Flyers and defenceman Allan Stanley scored the other. St. Louis goals went to Ab McDonald, Bill McCreary, Camille Henry and Noel Picard.

Minnesota erupted for three goals in the third period to shatter a 1-1 tie with Oakland and snap a nine-game losing streak. It was the first defeat in five games for the Seals.

Danny O'Shea, Claude Larose, Ray Cullen and Bob McCord scored for the North Stars while Mike Laughton got the lone Oakland goal in the second period.

Century Gives West Indies Big Test Lead

BRISBANE (Reuters) — Clive Lloyd, playing in his first test in Australia, hit an exhilarating century here Sunday to put the West Indies on top in the first test match.

Lloyd's 129, scored in 209 minutes and, including a six and 18 fours, revived the West Indians' failing second innings. From 93 for four at one stage the West Indies pushed on to 298 for seven at the end of the day—310 runs ahead.

Earlier, Australia lost its remaining five first-innings wickets for only 29 runs as spinners Lance Gibbs and David Holford ran through the tail. Out for 284, Australia trailed by 12 runs on first innings.

GIBBS TAKES THREE

Gibbs, taking three wickets Sunday, finished with five for 88.

Lloyd's great innings, during which he was joined by Gary Sobers in a stand of 72 and by Joey Carew in a partnership worth 120, whirled the West Indies to a lead which looks decisive. Australia now needs over 300 second innings runs on a spin-taking pitch.

Today is a rest day—a break which could not come at a better time for the West Indies, whose initially threadbare attack has been reduced through injury to only two fully-fit men.

New Jersey Pro Takes Club Title

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Howell Fraser, a 28-year-old teaching pro, won the first U.S. Professional Golfers' Association club pro championship Sunday, firing a 16-under-par 272 for 72 holes.

Fraser, from West Caldwell, N.J., took $8,000 first money in the $50,000 tournament.

Tired for second, four strokes back, were Chuck Malchaski of Chicago and Bob Rosburg of St. Louis.

Bears Blast Roman; End Hopes of Rams

By The Associated Press

Chicago Bears, riddled by injuries earlier in the National Football League season, rose up Sunday to terrorize Roman Gabriel and topple Los Angeles Rams 17-16, handing Baltimore Colts the Coastal Division title and keeping their own championship hopes alive.

The loss eliminated the Rams one week before their final game—against the Colts. The victory kept Chicago tied for first place with Minnesota Vikings who trimmed San Francisco 49ers 30-20 in the Central Division stretch race.

The Bears take on Green Bay Packers and the Vikings meet Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday.

Cleveland Browns nailed the Century Division crown with a 24-21 victory over Washington Redskins, St. Louis Cardinals downed New York Giants 28-21, Dallas Cowboys topped Pittsburgh Steelers 28-7, Detroit Lions beat Atlanta Falcons 24-7 and Philadelphia outscored New Orleans Saints 29-18 in other games.

COSTLY VICTORY

The Eagles' second successive victory after 11 straight setbacks cost them the No. 1 pick —most likely Heisman Trophy winner O. J. Simpson—in the upcoming college draft.

Buffalo Bills, who bowed 35-6 to Houston Oilers Saturday for a 1-12-1 American Football League finish, inherited the top draft choice.

The Colts, eliminated Green Bay, defending NFL champs, 16-3 Saturday.

HARASSED GABRIEL

Gabriel, the Rams' gifted quarterback, was harassed by Chicago's fierce defenders and then knocked out of the game temporarily by a blind-side tackle in the second quarter.

With Gabriel on the sidelines, the Bears seized a 10-7 lead after Clarence Childs' 88-yard kickoff return and moved ahead 17-7 following Dick Butkus' interception of a Milt Plum pass.

Then the Rams narrowed the gap on a third quarter safety and Gabriel's three-yard scoring jaunt with 2:42 left in the game.

Gabriel completed seven of 23 passes for 118 yards. His net passing yardage in the first half was zero.

Joe Kapp passed for one touchdown and ran for two more, staking Minnesota to a 27-6 lead, but the Vikings barely withstood a fourth quarter 49er rally to keep pace with the Bears at 7-6 in the Central derby.

WIN EIGHTH STRAIGHT

Don Cockroft booted a tie-breaking field goal and Bill Nelson fired a 38-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warfield in a two-minute, fourth-quarter burst that gave the Browns their Century-clinching, eighth-straight victory.

The Cardinals outscored the Giants behind fullback Willis Crenshaw, who rambled for 162 yards and three touchdowns, including a 66-yard gallop. But they remained 1½ games behind Cleveland with just one to play—against the Browns next Saturday at St. Louis.

Bob Hayes bolted 90 yards with a punt for one touchdown and scored another on a 53-yard pass from Don Meredith as Dallas' Capitol Division kings battered Pittsburgh. Meredith also hit Lance Rentzel with a 65-yard TD bomb and Craig Baynham with a five-yard payoff pitch.

Billy Gambrell gathered three scoring passes from Bill Munson, good for 26, 7 and 22 yards, sparking Detroit to its first victory in two months.

Victorians Lose In Seattle Meet

SEATTLE — Gerry Jones of Portland, Ore., sidelined Victoria's Tut Jones 3-2 Saturday and moved into quarter-final competition of the "C" class event in the Seattle Tennis Club's invitational squash tournament.

In Friday's "B" class struggles, Doug Hawkes, the other Victoria entry, was eliminated by Bill Pickens of Vancouver.

GOLF RECORD for native New Zealand was set Saturday by southpaw Bob Charles (above), who toured Paraparum course in 62, nine under par. Previous tournament record was 63 by Peter Thomson in 1961. Charles carded 65-70-62—197 as he won $5,600 tourney.

JOE GETS SHAVE ORDER BUT FU MANCHU STAYS

NEW YORK (AP)—Fu Manchu has been ordered out of the American Football League, but Joe Namath isn't quite ready for the departure.

"Not just yet," the New York Jets' quarterback has told club officials when notified that he must shave off his Fu Manchu mustache-beard.

Most of the Jets already have compiled with the written order by AFL President Milt Woodward to cut off the beards, mustaches and long sideburns.

Many of the Jets grew beards with the intention of cutting them off when they won the Eastern Division title, which they did Thanksgiving Day.

The Tall Ones Rout Chargers

By The Associated Press

Quarterback John Hadl of San Diego Chargers had trouble Sunday throwing over the hulking Kansas City Chiefs' defensive line.

"Those guys 6-foot-7 look 100 feet tall when you try and throw over them," Hadl said.

Six of his passes were intercepted as the Chiefs trounced San Diego 40-3 and knocked the Chargers out of the Western Division race in the American Football League.

The victory kept the Chiefs, 11-2, in a first-place tie with the Oakland Raiders, who edged Denver Broncs 33-27.

Kansas City is at Denver and Oakland at San Diego next weekend, and if both win, a playoff will be held in Oakland.

In other AFL action Sunday, New York Jets, 10-3 and the Eastern Division champions, downed Cincinnati Bengals (3-11) 27-14 and Miami Dolphins (5-7-1) blasted Boston Patriots (4-9) 38-7. Saturday, Houston Oilers (6-7) ripped Buffalo Bills (1-12-1) 35-6.

San Diego opened the scoring with a 28-yard field goal by Dennis Partee in the first period, but from then on the hometown crowd had little to cheer about.

SCORED ON THEFT

One of Hadl's passes was grabbed by Kansas City linebacker Willie Lanier who rumbled 75 yards for a touchdown. Two other interceptions were followed by touchdown passes by Len Dawson—five yards to Gloster Richardson and seven yards to Mike Garrett. Dawson also connected on 68-yard scoring strike to Frank Pitts.

Kansas City also intercepted a Jon Brittenum pass, and the seven thefts gave the Chiefs 34 for the season, just one shy of a team record. The six interceptions put Hadl into the AFL record book with five other quarterbacks.

George Blanda kicked four field goals as Oakland came from a 17-7 deficit to beat Denver. Blanda's second field goal tied it at 20-20 and his third put the Raiders ahead to stay, 23-20. Daryle Lamonica's six-yard touchdown pass to Warren Wells gave the Raiders a 30-20 lead in the third period and clinched it.

Joe Namath's two touchdown passes, one by Babe Parilli and two field goals by Jim Turner led the Jets over Cincinnati, which closed out its first season.

Turner also converted after the touchdowns and his nine points gave him 138 for the season, tying him with Don Hutson for fifth in points scored in a single pro football season.

Cincinnati's Paul Robinson ran for 33 yards and became the first AFL rookie to gain 1,000 yards in a season. He finished with 1,023.

MINOR POINT . . . . . . TRAPS GOLF TRUCE

One-Sentence Stymie

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Negotiations between professional golf's two major organizations have bogged down over what was once a minor problem, PGA sources said today.

The Professional Golfers' Association and the rebel American Professional Golfers have spent a week in serious discussion in hopes of settling the disputes that led to the formation of the APG by some dissatisfied players.

"We're very close to an agreement, but we can't say anything now," PGA President Leo Fraser said following a meeting of the PGA Executive Council.

The major breakthrough apparently came last Monday when the PGA executive committee held an extraordinary 15-hour meeting.

The issue that stands between the two groups apparently is a matter of the wording of a single sentence.

"It was once a relatively minor point, but it's becoming serious," one PGA source said.

SWANS NO LONGER . . . . . . CONSIDERED RARE

Trumpeters Out of Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States interior department took the trumpeter swan off its list of rare and endangered species Saturday.

In 1932, only 69 of these swans were counted in the entire 48 contiguous states.

This year, biologists of the department's bureau of sports fisheries and wildlife counted 3,641 trumpeters and estimated the total population at 4,000 to 5,000.

Still more trumpeters are in Canada.

Bureau director John S. Gottschalk said trumpeters now are located "in several widely scattered geographic areas and their environments are not seriously threatened."

"This swan is, therefore, no longer in danger of extinction, nor can it be considered rare."

The largest number of trumpeters, 2,842, was counted in Alaska but the big birds were spotted also in substantial numbers in Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, South Dakota, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Minnesota.

'Yank' Passes Test As Cats Trip Essos

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Doug Gibson hasn't heard how he fared with his university examinations, but the Victoria Cougar centre passed one of his B.C. Junior Hockey League tests with flying colors Saturday.

The Portland-reared Gibson scored two goals to spark Cougars to a 6-2 victory over Vernon Essos and a share of first place in the six-team league.

Both goals were eye-openers for a Memorial Arena crowd of 1,488 and provided impetus for an important victory. They highlighted a five-goal uprising in the first period. Cougars led 5-2 after the opening period, and cosied home.

Earlier in the day, Gibson spent four hours writing an entrance examination at the University of Victoria. He came out of that to play one of his strongest games of the season, which prompted coach Doug Anderson to suggest, "I should get him writing exams before every game."

CLASSIC EFFORT

Both goals by "the Yank" came off some fine, old-fashioned stick-handling.

Gibson's first, at 2:16, was something of a classic. He barged through two Vernon defenders just outside the blueline, stick-handled past another rival inside Vernon's territory. That was three down, with only goalie Al Alexander to go.

Gibson faked Alexander out of position and almost over-shot the open goal. The Cougar player had to cut back sharply and hook the puck into the goal from behind the net.

That made it 1-0. Vernon came back for a tying goal less than a minute later, but that was as far as Essos got.

Adrian Blais, Murray Kennett and Scott Munro ran the score to 4-1 in Victoria's favor before Gibson popped his second of the night and ninth of the season. It came only six seconds after Munro's goal, with Gibson making a solo run from the faceoff.

Bob Merluk scored Victoria's final goal in the third period while Bob Blanchette and Jeff Wilson counted Vernon's goals.

Wilson's goal, at 18:38 of the first period, came on a powerplay. It was only the second marker given up by Cougars in the past five games while playing short-handed.

DEFENSIVE LAPSES

Cougars, hit harder by the 'flu bug than by the Essos, played a solid team game. They suffered a few defensive lapses, especially in the first two periods, but were backed by solid goaltending from Ron Grahame.

Defencemen John Van Horlick and Gerry Bond both played despite high temperatures. As well, centre Grant Evans had just come off a 10-day bout with a cold.

Evans and Van Horlick were below their best form, but that wasn't the case with Bond. Like Gibson, the husky rearguard turned in one of his strongest efforts at Memorial Arena.

Grahame also played very well, as mentioned. He made 33 saves, including 16 in the first period. Alexander, who was taken out after Kennett's goal at 6:43, and Jack Gilroy combined to block 37 Victoria shots.

Gilroy was particularly effective in the third period when the Cougars out-shot Vernon 18-6. Gilroy's play, combined with some poor finishing on the part of the Cougars, prevented Victoria from reaching double figures.

The game was Cougars' final home game until Dec. 21. The Victoria club makes its third road trip to the Okanagan next weekend, playing in Penticton, Vernon and Kamloops.

Vernon's Vachon Johnny-on-Spot

By The Canadian Press

Jerry Vachon of Vernon was shooting from the wrong side Sunday, but there was nothing wrong with his results.

Vachon, a left-handed shot playing right wing, scored three times to carry Vernon to a 7-3 victory over New Westminster Royals in one of three weekend British Columbia Junior Hockey League games.

Vachon was shifted to right wing from centre to make room on his line for Jeff Wilson, a University of British Columbia student who joined the team for the weekend. Bill Tarnow played left wing.

Kelowna Buckaroos mustered 53 shots on goal in whipping Kamloops Rockets 7-2 in a Saturday game.

TOUGH LINE

At New Westminster, before 430 fans, Vachon scored three times and drew one assist. Tarnow had a goal and assist and Wilson, who played with Vernon last season, drew an assist.

Jack Marsh scored twice and Wayne Dye once to round out the Vernon attack.

Al Reid, Peter Kozak and Bruce McGill got New Westminster goals.

At Kelowna, in front of a crowd of 950, largest of the season there, Gene Carr and Dan McCarthy scored two goals apiece to pace Buckaroos. Glen Jenson, Dave Yarocki and Chuck Carrigan had singles.

Rich Beauchamp and Don Stanley were Kamloops marksmen.

Gulls Shot Down Twice By Canuck Explosions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks straightened out and flew right — and first-place San Diego Gulls were the big losers in weekend activity in the Western Hockey League.

Canucks won twice against Gulls, twice breaking open games with sudden upswings in tempo, and barged into a share of second place with Portland Buckaroos.

Vancouver defeated San Diego 4-1 before 7,339 at San Diego Sunday, breaking a scoreless tie by scoring three times within 3:11 of the start of the second period.

FIRST ON HOME ICE

Vancouver, behind 4-3 at one point in the second period, scored four straight goals, including three in the third period, to defeat San Diego 7-4 before a crowd of 10,842 Saturday night in San Diego.

The losses were the first on home ice this season for the WHL leaders.

Seattle Totems defeated Portland 4-2 with two unanswered goals in the third period before 6,185 fans at Seattle Saturday night.

SPURS TRIP RUNNERS

Phoenix Roadrunners snatched victory from defeat by wiping out a 3-2 Denver Spurs lead with three consecutive goals in a 5-3 contest before 4,000 happy fans in Phoenix Saturday night. Morris Stefaniw scored his second goal of the night wih 56 seconds remaining to break a 3-3 tie.

Vancouver spurted ahead of San Diego Sunday as John Gofton scored at :43 of the second period, Duke Harris followed at 1:04 and Bob Barlow at 3:11. Bryan Hextall scored into an empty net with 23 seconds remaining.

Saturday, with Vancouver behind 4-3 in the second period, Canucks again blazed into the lead with a series of unanswered goals.

Bob Lemieux tied the count at 18:46 of the second period and, in the third period, Vancouver flashed ahead on goals by Hextall at 3:32 and 18:26. Barlow added an insurance marker with 43 seconds left, his second of the game. Ted Taylor had the other Vancouver goal.

Saints, Spurs Fail to Score

Second-division clubs failed to score a goal Sunday during two preliminary-round matches in the Victoria and District Soccer League's Jackson Cup competition.

First-division sides ruled the roost as Hourigan's Kickers blanked William Head Saints 6-0 at Topaz Park and Victoria West routed second-division leading Watson's Hotspurs 10-0.

Ted Clarke scored twice to lead Kickers to victory. Tony Bourbijn, Dave Cox, Jos DeBruin and Brian Lindsay fired the other tallies.

THREE-GOAL EFFORT

Dave Evans broke loose for three goals to spark Wests, who got two goals each from Ranjit Dillon and Stu McFarlane and single tallies from Tom Collett, Jim Schulz and Bill Munroe.

In second division play, Adult Studies finally earned a point on the field by holding King's Hotel to a 2-2 draw, leaving the hotel crew winless and alone in last place. Only points credited to the Studies side in 12 earlier matches came when a victory was taken away from the now-suspended London Soccer Club because of use of ineligible players.

PLAYER INJURED

Uvic Norsemen hustled to a 5-2 win over the Gorge squad in another second division match, which was marred by an injury to Dave McDougall.

McDougall, who had scored one Uvic goal, suffered a leg fracture and was taken to hospital, where officials this morning reported he was in satisfactory condition.

A match between Falcons and Colony Inn was postponed because of a conflict with the minor soccer schedule.

Cowichan Bolsters Grip On Third Rugby Berth

Cowichan consolidated its grasp on third place in the Victoria Rugby Union's first division Sunday by battling to a 6-6 draw with James Bay Athletic Association at McAdam Park in Duncan.

Dave Rose was the big JBAA gunner, scoring a try and booting a penalty goal to enable the Oarsmen to salvage the tie and move into a fourth-place deadlock with Castaways. Points for Cowichan were supplied by Paul Bregg's try and a penalty goal kicked by Ray Ramsay, who was "borrowed" from JBAA.

Two second-division matches were played Saturday and Oak Bay Wanderers climbed within two points of the pace-setting Uvic Norsemen by downing JBAA Crusaders 12-3 at Layritz Park.

Tom Walton paced Wanderers with two penalty goals while clubmates Brian Waddell and Mike Penn each added a try. Ramsay kicked a penalty goal for Crusaders.

BARBARIANS WIN

In the other league tussle, JBAA Barbarains swamped Cowichan 27-0 at Macdonald Park. Les Hudson scored two trys, Norm Dickson kicked three converts and single trys were collected by Tillman Briggs, George Vickery, Bob Coutts, Sonny Vickery and Les Underwood.

At Carnarvon Park Saturday, Castaways split an exhibition doubleheader with Seattle Rugby Club. Jim Ryan galloped for five trys and Murray McAlpine scored a pair to lead Castaways to a 33-8 win in a struggle between first teams.

Seattle grabbed a 9-0 victory in a match between second sides.

Columbus Blanks Villa; O'Keefes Stop Hornets

Mount View Hornets finished their soccer season the same way they started it—with a defeat—but Saturday's loss at Centennial Stadium couldn't be classified as an upset or Hornet humiliation.

Hornets lost their opening league match of the campaign and then fashioned a string of victories that carried them to a second successive provincial high school championship.

They stepped up in class Saturday for a season-ending struggle Saturday and earned considerable praise although dropping a 5-2 decision to Victoria O'Keefes of the Pacific Coast League in a United Appeal benefit match.

Both sides displayed touches of excellent soccer, but the Coast Leaguers were in command most of the way and it took some fine work by Mount View goalie Graham Lee to stop O'Keefes from collecting another four or five tallies.

Dick Joyce, Dunc McCaig and Ike Mackay scored in the first half for O'Keefes, who also got second-half goals from Bruce Twamley and coach Bill Abbott.

Abbott later praised the play of the Hornets, who collected a first-half goal on a long free kick by George Hines and added a second-half tally by Rick Lamoureux.

O'Keefes return to league action next Saturday at Macdonald Park, meeting Vancouver Columbus, which stepped two points ahead of third-place Vancouver Firefighters Sunday by blanking Burnaby Villa 2-0 at Vancouver.

Exchanges were about even for most of the game, but Columbus finally went ahead with seven minutes remaining when Bob Hazeldine headed in a corner kick by Peter Simpson. Two minutes later, Vanni Lenarduzzi got the clincher from a pass by Bob Smith.

FIREMEN TIE BIRDS

Victory moved Columbus within two points of the front-running UBC Thunderbirds, who battled Firefighters to a scoreless draw on sloppy Callister Park pitch Saturday as UBC goalie Barry Sadler boosted his league-leading shutout total to eight.

Poor field conditions resulted in postponement of Saturday's New Westminster and North Shore game.

University of Victoria Vikings pulled away from a 35-35 half-time deadlock to defeat Centralia College 74-61 in an exhibition basketball game at Uvic Saturday.

Tom Hatcher sank 10 of his 17 points to lead the second-half onslaught that gave Vikings a two-game sweep over visiting Washington State teams.

Vikings had downed Olympic College 100-73 on Friday.

Corky Jossul canned 12 points, Mike Taafe 11 and John Lavuaas 10 to join Hatcher in the double-figure group.

Jack Soliday led Centralia with 20 points and Irv Reedy added 15.

VICTORIA '69

A magnificent calendar of Victoria yesterday and today.

Scenes of fourteen old homes—most of them standing today—and many over one hundred years old.

Victoria's past still lives in the beauty of its old homes. Here is a superb Christmas gift idea for your friends and relatives. The calendar features fourteen beautifully reproduced colour drawings by the well-known Canadian artist, Robert Genn. Mr. Genn was especially commissioned for this project and was completely captivated by the character of these old homes.

Each home has an interesting history which is briefly outlined by Mr. Genn. One of the most interesting is The Parrot House shown below. "In 1960," writes Mr. Genn, "a 1908 Hupps-Yeats Electric Car with less than 200 miles on the odometer was discovered in the garage." The Parrot House still stands today in downtown Victoria.

The calendar comes in a two-colour envelope ready for mailing. Designed for hanging on the wall, the calendar measures 10½x16½ inches. Order yours today or drop in to Peter Pollen Ford, Yates and Cook.

Main prizes in the event were cars for members of the winning rink. It was the second straight victory for Mann, who said he would sell his prize as he did the car he won last year.

Mann, who has been in the event five times, also won a car at Vancouver in 1962.

School Boards Get New Faces

Each of the four capital district school boards will have at least one new face following Saturday's elections.

But the seven newcomers won their seats from retiring trustees as five school board incumbents were re-elected and four others had previously won by acclamation.

On the Greater Victoria School Board, which administers the second largest school district in the province, teacher Allan McKinnon, 1760 Rockland, won the Victoria seat left open by retiring trustee Ted Wood.

In his first try at public office Mr. McKinnon polled 3,092 votes to beat easily his two rivals, Mrs. Daphne Temple with 1,280 and Joseph Richards with 749.

It was Mrs. Temple's third try and Mr. Richard's first.

Increasing co-operation between teachers and trustees was a main plank in Mr. McKinnon's platform. The issue of teachers on school boards is a touchy one with trustees, most of whom are opposed to the idea. Teachers are only permitted to run in school districts other than he one where they teach.

Incumbents Dr. Donald Shorting and George Curran successfully fought off wo challengers for the urban Saanich seats on the same board. Dr. Shorting headed the polls with 3,418 and Mr. Curran got 2,867.

Former Saanich Peninsula school trustee Bernard Atkins finished third with 2,108 and William Hibbert, with 1,508, trailed for the second year in a row.

In Oak Bay, incumbent Dr. Carron Jameson polled 1,998 to beat his lone rival Thomas Crone, with 1,254.

Dr. Shorting begins his fifth year on the board, Mr. Curran his ninth and Dr. Jameson his seventh. Esquimalt representative Les Karagianis had been returned earlier by acclamation.

On the Saanich Peninsula school board, engineer Stanley Oakes beat two other newcomers to win the seat being vacated by board chairman Mrs. Nora Lindsay.

He collected 432 votes to 378 for Jack Hubbard and 118 for Harold Jordan. It was Mr. Oakes' second try for a trustee's seat.

CENTRAL SAANICH

In the Central Saanich contest created by the retirement of trustee George Bone, former Regina school administrator Zachary Hamilton beat Robert Derrinberg, a former trustee, by a 514 to 390 margin.

Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, representing North Saanich, and George Howard, Sidney representative, had been returned to the school board earlier by acclamation.

Board chairman Dr. James Portelance and veteran trustee Mrs. Isabelle Reader retained their seats in the Belmont sector of the Sooke school district against two challengers.

Dr. Portelance led the polls with 288 and Mrs. Reader with 166 edged navy fire fighter James Chidlow with 151. Finishing fourth was former trusteo Darvis Cook with 67, making his second comeback bid.

It was a two-man race in the Milnes Landing sector with Ronald Fitton beating Alfred Raue by a 167 to 141 margin. Mr. Fitton made his first bid for the school board in a September byelection. Robert Anderson won earlier by acclamation.

Three newcomers won seats open on the Gulf Islands school board.

Mrs. Barbara Toynbee with 235 and Clifford Hatch with 180 topped the six candidates for the two North Salt Spring seats. Trailing them were W. J. Stepaniuk with 167; G. S. Humphreys, 138; Harold Bryan, 131 and Earnest W. Watson, 46.

Mrs. June Allen beat Mrs. Rita Dodd by 74 to 42 for the Pender Island seat.

The camel was one of the first animals domesticated by man.

PACIFIC PRESENTS BIG ROLE

An expanded role for Pacific Commonwealth countries such as Canada, New Zealand and Australia was urged here Saturday by a former New Zealand defence minister.

Dean Eyre, high commissioner to Canada and one of those responsible for committing New Zealand troops to Vietnam, spoke to members of the Royal Commonwealth Society at the Empress Hotel, where he and Mrs. Eyre were guests for three days.

The commissioner said the need for a greater task for Pacific countries grows with Britain's withdrawal from southeast Asia. Problems of the Pacific include assistance to developing nations, he said, and that is where the existing Commonwealth links can be used.

Mr. Eyre was New Zealand minister of defence and of tourism and publicity from 1963-66, at which time he retired from politics.

It was under his guidance that the defence department underwent reorganization. He also advocated expansion of New Zealand tourist trade, and made extensive overseas trips attending international conferences such as SEATO and Colombo Plan.

His earlier cabinet portfolios included ministries of customs, industries and commerce, social security, tourist and health resorts, housing and police.

While in Victoria Mr. Eyre paid official calls on the lieutenant-governor, the premier and the mayor.

Mod Squad Raises $1,400 For Appeal

The Mod Squad's Community Chest cleanup campaign ended Saturday after adding more than $1,400 to the United Appeal campaign.

Lieutenant-Governor J. R. Nicholson presented scholarships and radios to four Mod Squad members during a half-time draw at a specially arranged soccer match between Victoria O'Keefes and Mount View Hornets.

Winners of the $100 scholarships, donated by local businessmen, were Cathie Hopkins, 15, of 3975 Cumberland and Chris Reder, 14, of 1460 Oliver.

Radios were won by Beverly Tubman, 1589 Wilmot and Maria Nanni, 472 Dupplin.

Organized by high school and university students three weeks ago to help reduce the $40,000 deficit in this year's appeal, the Mod Squad fell short of its hopes of putting the appeal over the top.

Egypt to Accept UN Force

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Egypt is reported willing to accept another United Nations force to help safeguard a peace settlement with Israel, diplomatic sources at the UN report.

The sources said Egypt's delegate to the United Nations, Mohamed Awad El-Kony, included the idea in a seven-point statement he gave to Chief U.S. delegate J. R. Wiggins Thursday.

Egypt accepted a UN force after the 1956 Suez invasion, and the force prevented Egypt from closing the Gulf of Aqaba, alongside the Sinai desert, to Israeli shipping.

Egyptian President Nasser ordered the force including several hundred Canadians out in 1967 and said Israel couldn't use the gulf. Shortly afterward, Israel drove the Egyptians out of Sinai in a six-day war.

The diplomatic sources said Egypt now would accept a new UN force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the peninsula and remain at mutually agreed places, including the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba.

El-Kony's proposal came in response to a seven-point program U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk was said to have outlined a month ago to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad. The state department denied the existence of such a program last week.

Centre-Left Rule Looms in Italy

ROME (AP) — Leaders of Italy's Christian Democratic and Socialist parties are putting Premier-designate Mariano Rumor's blueprint for a new centre-left government to crucial ratification tests.

Rumor completed his coalition program Saturday after a week of talks with party leaders. It puts emphasis on university and pension reforms to ease student and labor unrest.

The accord was ratified Sunday by the tiny Republican party, third partner in the coalition. If the leadership councils of the two larger partners pass his program today, Rumor is expected to present his cabinet to President Giuseppe Saragat Wednesday or Thursday.

Political observers said Rumor's government could be ready to face the necessary votes of confidence in Parliament by next Saturday.

In a last-ditch effort to dissuade the Socialists from entering another coalition, the Communist party newspaper L'Unita called for left-wing forces to join and block formation of the centre-left coalition.

"A new and more advanced balance of forces can be built," wrote party Secretary Luigi Longo. He spoke of "workers, farmhands, and students" demonstrating side by side with "protest exploding everywhere." However, the Communist proposal appeared doomed.

Labor unions scheduled a series of regional strikes this week from Sicily to the Alps in quest of higher pay and better working conditions. Rome was due to be hit with a bus and tram strike.

Many university buildings were still occupied by rebellious students, and their walls bore red hammer and sickle symbols, praises to Mao Tse-tung and calls for the overthrow of the bourgeoisie. The students are demanding a large say in revising curricula, testing methods and disciplinary procedures.

In Syracuse, Sicily, the secretary of the Christian Democrats' national youth movement, Giuseppe Zanin, put his movement firmly on the side of impoverished peasants.

Zanin said: "To whomever asks where the Christian Democrat youth stand, we reply that we are not with the political bosses nor the industrialists. We are with the farmers."

The Sicilian town of Avola became a symbol for young leftists last Monday when two farmhands were killed by police during a riot.

High Society Pelted

MILAN (Reuters) — Members of Milan high society face the problem of getting egg, red paint and fruit stains off their expensive furs, evening dresses and tuxedoes. They were pelted by about 300 left-wingers outside the La Scala Opera House during the season's premier Sunday night.

ON LAST leg of his Middle East fact-finding tour, former governor William W. Scranton arrived in Israel today. He said it is important U.S. policy become more "even-handed" in the area. He will report his findings to U.S. President-elect Richard Nixon.

Rally by Cubs Gathers Gifts

An Indian children's Christmas party is 200 gifts richer as a result of a cub rally held at Sancha Hall in Sidney last Saturday.

Two hundred cubs, representing packs from Sidney, Cordova Bay, Saanich, Deep Cove, Brentwood, Royal Oak and Prospect Lake attended the rally, each bearing a gift for the Indian children's party being organized by Mrs. Albert Pelkey and Mrs. Gabriel Pelkey.

Both were on hand to accept the presents which will be distributed among the children of three local reservations.

Interference Deplored By French Deputies

OTTAWA (CP) — French deputies feel much the same way about interference in Canada's internal affairs as do MPs here, Ovide Laflamme (L-Montmorency) said Sunday after a 10-day visit to Paris.

"They feel the same way that we do here in Ottawa," Mr. Laflamme, who led a delegation of nine MPs, six of them from Quebec, said in an interview.

"They indicated to us that they share our views, that they don't want to interfere," he said of the French deputies.

The federal delegation held a "frank, warm discussion" with the French counterparts on satellite communications, trade and investment as well as the French fact.

Mr. Laflamme said he believes Canada should get together with France through an agreement on satellite development.

YULETIDE STORY

Roses Are Blooming Nature Is Smiling

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

It's that time again, according to those who have telephoned me and who have stopped me on the street.

Seems they are waiting for the column I usually write at this season about flowers in Victoria gardens in December. And they are holding Christmas cards for eastern points in order to include this bit of boasting.

So, I took an hour off yesterday to do a little snooping. And I quickly discovered that Victoria is again living up to its reputation as an all-year-round garden city.

In one of the first places I looked there was a profusion of long-stemmed purple violets in full bloom. They were growing in a thick mass of glossy green leaves around the foot of an oak tree.

At another home in the north end of the city there are Ruth Alexander roses. Cut and brought into the house they fill the rooms with perfume.

Saxifrage lifts deep purple-pink splendor from rockeries. Late chrysanthemums add colors of rust, reds and pinks. Polyanthus pattern borders in a Persian carpet mosaic.

* * *

Driving slowly around the waterfront from Ten Mile Point to the Dallas Road I found even the gorse was showing a touch of yellow.

Nearly every garden had its share of bloom. There were Shasta daisies and Estereeds, marguerites, marigolds and pansies. Dahlias still nodded their heads in stiff-stemmed pride over rock walls.

In one place a row of winter stock flaunted shades of pink. In another a border of low bush red roses was heavy with color.

Lovely Christmas roses lifted waxy cream and white cups from the damp earth. Winter daphne, purple red Wandas and a few hardy nasturtiums were soon added to my list.

In protected spots camellias are bursting with buds. A few early varieties are in bloom.

Red and orange berried pernettya, lacy lauristeinus and golden jasmine are all vying for attention.

* * *

Almost everywhere I looked I found the heathers in bloom. Rock roses too, and even a few pink and purple aubretia and auricula. And, believe it or not, I did see a patch of California poppies, golden yellow against some grey wet rocks.

Here and there were petunias, fuchsias and geraniums. Snapdragons and lobelia too. Campanulas and even a few stems of gladioli.

These are the blossoms I found when I took an hour off from the rush and bustle of the season. Perhaps if you would do the same, you could add many more to the list.

I know there are cards to address, letters to write, parcels to wrap and Yuletide goodies to make. In between there is shopping to do and parties to attend.

At this season it seems we do nothing but hurry and scurry to get things done. It's one long race to beat the clock. And we become so intent on winning we feel we have no time to relax and look around.

* * *

Haste becomes so much a part of our thinking, so much a motivating force in our lives, it creates the sense of accelerated motion, not only within ourselves but in our estimate of the days and the hours.

There is no time, we say, to slow down. No time to spend an hour scouting Victoria gardens. Hardly any time to read this column before it is clipped and tucked in an envelope for snow-blanketed eastern points.

This is indeed sad. Especially when we live in a city that normally stays green the year around and where flowers bloom outdoors at the Yuletide.

After all, a garden flower in December is a blessing to cherish and to remember!

Spring Fling Thing Devised by Chamber

A "spring fling" combining a parade, carnival, sports and cultural entertainments, may be developed here as a tourist lure.

It was outlined the Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors Friday by a committee, along with the slogan "Spring Comes First to Victoria."

Committee chairman Reg Hind said early planning involves a May program including a golf tournment, fishing derby, yacht races, tennis tournament, flower shows, musical and dramatic presentations, a parade and a carnival ball.

Chamber directors also heard plans for an anti-shoplifting program which involves distributing leaflets at area schools, warning youngsters of the lasting handicap of a criminal record.

Directors were told Victoria Visitors' Bureau this winter will send speakers to Oregon, Washington and Alberta with assistance of the provincial travel department.

Reporting for the conferences committee, Jim Mutch said Prime Minister Trudeau is just one of many well-known figures who will be invited to speak in Victoria next year.

ALBANIA GRANTS CHINA EUROPEAN NAVAL BASES

LONDON (AP)—Albania has given China its first military foothold in Europe by agreeing to Chinese naval and missile bases on Albanian soil, the newspaper Sunday Observer reports.

The story, written by Lajos Lederer, quotes Yugoslav sources as saying a defence agreement "would allow the temporary stationing of Chinese forces in Albania and would enable China to establish naval and missile bases on the Adriatic coast."

'Reforms Defeat House Purpose'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A leading British Columbia Conservative said Sunday parliamentary procedure reforms planned by the Liberal government would defeat the purpose of the House of Commons.

Gowan Guest, who was executive assistant to former prime minister John Diefenbaker, was taking part in a panel discussion on constitutional reform sponsored by the B.C. Liberal party.

He said streamlined procedures outlined by Prime Minister Trudeau "all in the name of efficiency" would impair the democratic rights the institution is supposed to protect.

"I fear you don't know what the House of Commons is," Mr. Guest told the Liberals. "It's not a 264-member board of directors."

He said Parliament is the machinery opposition parties use to tell the government what they think the government is doing wrong.

Limiting time for debate and the traditional question period in the Commons throws a monkey wrench into the mechanism said Mr. Guest.

The prime minister's proposals will be discussed at a federal - provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa next week.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, DEC. 9, 1968—PAGE 21

FANCY FOOTWORK, a talent needed by most politicians, paid off for Tory candidate Magnus Verbrugge in Nanaimo walkathon. He finished well ahead of the NDP's Tommy Douglas and Liberal Eric Winch. He was paced by his assistant campaign manager, John Burns, in picture at left. In centre Mr. Douglas, who needed liberal dose of linament for sore knee, is congratulated by walkathon organizer George Ray. Mr. Winch, right, vowing to reverse the order of finish on election day, collects $10 pledge from Mayor Frank Ney. More than 800 foot-slogged the eight-mile course.

Tory Wins Warm up for Nanaimo Election

A United Appeal walkathon in Nanaimo Saturday became a political race when the three candidates in the Feb. 10 federal by-election vied to finish the eight-mile course first.

And if the results are any indication, it will be Conservative, NDP and Liberal in February.

Tory candidate Magnus Verbrugge jogged across the line well ahead of the opposition.

NDP candidate Tommy Douglas, who edged out Liberal Eric Winch, said "it's the last time a Conservative will be first."

Said Mr. Winch: "It's the last time I'll be last."

It was all in good fun, and Robert McPhee, chairman of the United Appeal, said the walkathon served to "considerably reduce" a $13,000 deficit in the city's Appeal campaign.

More than 800 persons ignored heavy rain to participate.

Deked out in colorful costumes, pushing washtubs and shopping carts in which to collect money for the Appeal, the citizens of Nanaimo "responded magnificently," said Mr. McPhee.

"We're certain the walk cut a large chunk out of the deficit," he said. "Whatever we made was something we didn't have before."

Amount of the "take" will not be known for some time.

"This will definitely be the first of many annual United Appeal walkathons in Nanaimo," he added.

606 Pedestrians Caught Breaking Law in 3 Hours

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria police Saturday checked 606 pedestrians cheating on traffic signals within a three-hour period.

The army of violators, each of whom was courting a $2.50 fine, was detected by 10 auxiliary policemen on Douglas between Fort and Fisgard.

Traffic Inspector Dick Berry said the jaywalkers in question stepped from curbs to cross with green lights meant for motor traffic while pedestrian direction lights read "Don't Walk."

Insp. Berry said, "If it's going to continue we are going to have to put on a little pressure and start summonsing people."

'FOLLOW LEADER'

He said most of the violators were playing "follow the leader" not realizing their actions delay turning traffic and hold up the over-all traffic flow.

He said the police will continue blowing whistles and checking violators—and they may expect to be summonsed.

The police drive against pedestrians came on the last day of Safe Driving Week in Canada and will serve to underline Pedestrian Safety Week which begins Sunday here under auspices of Greater Victoria and District Safety Council.

Safe Driving Week resulted in Victoria qualifying for an award from Canadian Safety Council because there were no car deaths in the city during the period.

Saanich, as a centre of more than 40,000 population, would also have qualified but for a fatality on McKenzie Avenue. There were two deaths in the Colwood area.

Throughout B.C. there were five deaths in total. This province was only surpassed by Quebec with 11 and Ontario with 19 fatalities from traffic.

The total for Canada during the week was 49 compared to 81 in the same period in 1967.

'Why Be So Foolish' Just Before Parole?

A day parolee who pleaded guilty to being "unlawfully at large" from William Head minimum security prison was sentenced today to six months in the penitentiary.

Const. Hugh McCombe told the court Lyell Winters, about 40, was sentenced at Vancouver in 1962 to 10 years for manslaughter. Early in November he became a day parolee and was eligible for full parole today, he said.

On the morning of Nov. 30 he went to his job at Bayliss Neon, 2510 Rock Bay, and failed to return at 10 p.m., the time he was due back.

He was arrested when he walked into the Vancouver police station Sunday, the officer said.

$210 CHEQUE

Const. McCombe said Winters had received a $210 pay cheque on Nov. 30.

"Why would you do such a foolish thing when you were on the threshold of parole?" Magistrate William Ostler asked the accused.

"It's a tragedy you jeopardized your chances of getting out by this wildly illogical act," he said.

Winters said it seemed logical at the time but not now.

The magistrate told him he had indirectly hurt his fellow prison and the parole system because it creates public apprehension when such a thing happens.

Cold Kills Crocodiles From India

Two sleepy-looking baby crocodiles turned out to be dead when they arrived as a gift from India.

Provincial Museum curator Dr. Clifford Carl pronounced the pair of 14-inch reptiles dead this morning and speculated they succumbed of cold during their day-long flight Sunday.

The three-month-old crocodiles would have grown to seven feet at maturity if they had survived the flight but deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said he would write the donors explaining the misfortune and "hoping that two more could be sent."

Dr. Carl, noting that the crocodiles were sent in a glass case, said normally tropical fish or animals are sent by air in insulated containers.

The crocodiles were sent by the state of Rajasthan as a token of appreciation to B.C. school children who raised more than $200,000 during centennial year to send 11 mobile classrooms to various under-developed parts of the world, including two to India.

Meeting Set For Tonight On Garbage

Saanich council will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss garbage.

The meeting was arranged before Saturday's plebiscite, but the 58 per cent vote in favor of weekly collection the year round has provided added impetus.

Council is faced with a substantial increase in costs next year on the basis of earlier quotations from the present garbage collector, L. S. McNutt.

$19 PER HOUSE

The present cost, for collection every week in the summer and every two weeks in the other eight months, is $11 per household per year.

The same service next year by Mr. McNutt will cost $15 and if year-round weekly service is provided it will be $19.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said this morning that tonight's meeting is to discuss the entire garbage collection question to see where Saanich is going in 1969.

Council will consider the earlier quotations by Mr. McNutt and whether the municipality should collect garbage itself rather than contract the service out.

Uvic Goes Slowly On Student Union

A provincial student union is planned to educate the public about the needs of higher education in B.C. but University of Victoria student leaders haven't decided whether to join.

In fact, they first heard about it by mainly only late this morning.

Announced Saturday by Rob Walsh, president of the Simon Fraser University Student Society, the union would seek to counter an apparent reaction against universities since a series of recent sit-ins.

"It would be interesting to find out what they hope to do," said Frank Frketich, Uvic Alma Mater Society president.

"I would have to find out what their goals are, what sort of action they plan to take, before commenting on any support we might give."

Dr. Kenneth Hare, president of the University of B.C., said Wednesday the province's universities are being hit by a backlash of public opinion aggravated by recent campus unrest.

The union to counter this question will be discussed at a meeting Dec. 21 and 22 at UBC, Mr. Walsh said in his announcement.

MAD AT WEATHER? JUST THINK BACK

There's only one way to appreciate today's weather — remember last year at about this time.

Dec. 4 and 5 last year we had gusts up to 78 miles per hour causing power breakages all over the district.

Two days later we got it again. Colwood RCMP advised motorists to avoid the Malahat's snow and fog. And Cordova Bay seawalls crumbled and waterfront damage was set at $100,000.

That makes today's early morning gusts of 54 and 57 miles per hour seem puny.

The overnight showers — which will remain frequent today and tonight, are good for the lawn. The occasional thunder shower, anticipated tonight, and the slushy snow which might appear briefly and melt swiftly, will excite the kiddies.

Cloudy, showery weather expected Tuesday won't require shovelling as they're doing at Port Alberni where six inches has just arrived in town.

Be thankful you don't live in Tofino area where two feet of snow fell Saturday, closing the road to Port Alberni, or in Gold River or Kelsey Bay areas, where roads are almost impassable.

VETO SURE—CUMMING

Pullout Unlikely By North Saanich

Mayor J. B. Cumming of North Saanich said today it is unlikely the provincial government would permit Saanich Peninsula to opt out of regional hospital plans.

He was commenting on a weeknd statement by Ald. T. C. Davis of North Saanich.

Ald. Davis said the peninsula would have a 100-bed acute-care hospital regardless of regional hospital board planning.

"This would require consent of the provincial government to formation of a sub-area.

"I think that although it is financially possible, it would be quite unlikely the government would permit this subdivision," said Mayor Cumming in an interview. He serves on the regional district board and is chairman of the hospital's advisory committee.

Ald. Davis, a spokesman for the Peninsula Hospital Committee, said the committee is prepared to finance, construct and operate a local acute-care hospital.

UNCONCERNED

"We are not concerned with the success or failure of the regional district experiment, nor with the personalities or motivations of its appointed officials and advisers," said the alderman.

Since recent passage of a hospital referendum approving a $9.3 million construction program, controversy has been continued on the peninsula.

The money was earmarked for provision of 600 extended-care beds and updating of facilities at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's acute-care hospitals.

Hospital planners have indicated the likelihood of a new extended-care hospital replacing Sidney's aging Rest Haven Hospital. But to date provincial authorities have not shown willingness for any acute-care beds to be built there.

Mr. Davis and the committee he represents is determined to see a new 100-bed acute-care hospital built in their area.

Up-Island Woman Wins $500 In Montreal Draw

A Ladysmith woman, Mrs. K. Scott, has won $500 in Mayor Jean Drapeau's voluntary tax plan draw in Montreal.

Mrs. Scott was one of 12 winners from British Columbia.

The $100,000 grand prize was won by a Toronto housewife and mother of a 12-year-old son. Mrs. A. H. Peckham became the first person outside the Province of Quebec to win the grand prize since the monthly draws began six months ago.

Ernie Ardley of Lake Cowichan and Albert Cheechoo of Port Alberni won $100 consolation prizes.

Two-Year Term For Attempted Office Robbery

A Victoria man said to be in need of rehabilitation from drink and drugs was sentenced today to two years in the federal penitentiary at New Westminster.

"There is an atmosphere of drugs around this man which indicates rehabilitation is the best course," said County Court Judge Montague Drake, passing sentence on James Osborne White, 30, of 902 Arundel.

White was found guilty by a 12-man jury of attempting to break and enter the Medical Arts Building, 1105 Pandora Avenue, on July 27 last.

LENIENCY URGED

The jury added a recommendation for leniency.

Police witnesses said White was found in some bushes under a broken window at the Medical Arts Building.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said White was clearly under the influence of alcohol or drugs at the time.

"If a man has a weak character, it is much easier for him to do something he would not have done had he been in a normal state of mind," counsel said.

Mr. Owen-Flood admitted that White had a criminal record up to 1962 but emphasized he had been out of trouble for six years.

"This suggests he has been trying to be a useful member of the community."

'GOOD YEAR' FOR FIRES

Fire damage and suppression costs in 1968 were low to make "a relatively good year" for British Columbia's forests, the provincial forestry service reports.

There were 1,647 fires compared with 3,217 in 1967.

In 1968 fire burned over 33,876 acres, compared with 244,483 acres blackened in 1967.

The damage and losses to timber this year totalled $697,272, compare with 1967 damages totalling $5,679,112.

Slow Response To Jaycees' Lighting Contest

Entries for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest are coming in slowly this year.

Only 17 forms have been returned to the Jaycee office, with the deadline for entries set for Friday.

However, Jaycee Dennis Thompson reports the forms brought in to date are for "about 40 categories"—most entrants are trying their luck in several of the six cateogries offered.

The categories in which prizes will be offered are best house decorations, best window or door decorations, best Christmas message, most humorous display, best group display by three or more adjacent houses, and best novice (first entry).

Judging will be carried out Dec. 17, 18 and 19 between 7 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Centre To Go On Show

The Saanich Senior Citizens' Activity Centre at Hampton Park was officially opened Sunday by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson.

An open house will be held by Silver Threads on Wednesday.

The centre, costing just over $100,000, has one large room which will be divided by folding doors ipto four rooms for recreational activities.

It also includes kitchens and a lounge and a large auditorium will be built later.

The building is owned and managed by Saanich but Silver Threads will be in charge of the program.

GIFT OF TRAY

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis, the program chairman at Sunday's official opening, presented a silver tray to Mr. and Mrs. W. Synhurst who for years have run a pastime club.

Dedication was by Rev. C. L. Streight, representing the Greater Victoria Council of Churches, and a commemorative plaque was presented by the Saanich Firefighters Association, Local 967.

Architect of the centre was John Di Castri and the general contractor was Herb Bate Limited.

GOOD TIMES

Ald Edith Gunning said the centre will be a place to which the elderly can go for good times.

It will offer more than recreation, she added.

It was essential to have the ability and interest to learn and at retirement to remain active "rather than retreat into memories and isolation."

The activity centre is the second stage to be completed in the $1.2 million indoor recreation program approved by ratepayers last year.

The first stage was the George Pearkes Arena. Still to come are a swimming pool and community centre at the Lambrick Estate, Gordon Head, and a community centre at the McRae Estate, in the Ceadr Hill area.

Ask The Times

Q. Is tourism considered a major industry in B.C.?—L.B.

A. Yes. It ranks No. 3. Figures for 1967 show tourists spent $317 million in the province. The amount spent by the provincial government encouraging tourism has also risen since 1957. More American tourists than ever before entered B.C. last year. At least 112 new tourist accommodations were built, bringing the total to 2,063. Victoria, Vancouver and the Okanagan are the major tourist centres.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Drums Designed For Junior Ringos

By PENNY SAVER

Once upon a time youngsters who liked to make a lot of noise were given tin drums. If their parents permitted it, that is. I had one once, and as I recall it caused some family controversy. I was given my drum by a fond uncle who soon after had children of his own. My parents, in revenge, picked the noisiest toys they could find year after year for his brood. My drum was white with blue, red and yellow soldiers standing at attention around the sides. I never became much of a drummer — I didn't even break a drumstick. I confined my drumming to mock parades in which I slung my drum military-style over one shoulder and rapped out a simple rat-rat-ratat-tatat-rat. Still, I feel a kinship with Oscar, the virtuoso on the tin drum who is the hero of the Gunter Grass novel named after that fine and ancient instrument.

Now a youngster would rather be a Ringo than a soldier, which may be a hopeful sign of more peaceful days to come. But this poses some problems for the indulgent parent. For one thing, the prospective drummer is probably quite young. But even a three or four-year-old knows that a tin drum isn't a "real drum set." For another, even the low-priced "real drum sets" cost well over $50 — and that is a bit indulgent for any parent. The toy manufacturers haven't missed this anomaly, as they produced the set I saw the other day. This is a toy drum set big enough for a three to six-year-old. It has a bass drum gaily painted, two side drums, a toy "high-hat" and a triangle. A peddle works the "high-hat" and bass drum and there is a place to hold drum sticks. This set is on sale until Christmas at $10.88. It regularly sells for $12.95. I must warn my readers however, that while the store has ordered what they expect to be sufficient stock to last until Christmas, there is always a chance that they have miscalculated. The early shopper is sure of getting the items she wants, while the late buyer may find the store out of stock without enough time to order more before the big day.

Copper Kitchen Gear

Copper is a popular color accent in the modern kitchen and many of my friends have asked Santa Claus for copper-colored accessories. Husbands trying to fulfil this request will be pleased to know about the accessories I found made of heavy duty steel plated with copper. A bread box regularly sells for $13.95 but for a limited time is selling for $10.88. A four-piece cannister set costs the same. This set is attractively squared with the initial of the intended contents (flour, sugar, tea and coffee) on unobtrusive black placques. A "step-on" cannister with rubber bumpers to protect the walls is regularly $16.95. The sale price is $12.88. The last item in the line is a three-way paper container for wax paper, plastic wrap or any other roll wraps. This container, which can be attached to the wall, regularly costs $8.95 and is currently priced at $7.88.

Candles are an important part of the Christmas season and I saw some the other day that will make a particularly lovely display. These have layers of color down the candle so that as they burn down the different colored drips intertwine. The outside of these 12-inch candles is lumpy, so the drips will run in interesting patterns, and is coated with white to give a snowy seasonal appearance. A pair of these candles is $1.45.

Please call 382-3131 if you would like to know where to shop for these items.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Conscience Trying To Say Something?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Larry and I are high school sophomores. We have been going steady for a year and plan to marry when we graduate.

Larry heard about a very good book on sex and marriage, and he wants to get it so we can study it togeher. It is not dirty, Abby. It was written by a doctor and is supposed to have a lot of good stuff about the importance of sex as it relates to married life.

The reason I am writing is because I have always told my mother everything, and for some reason I haven't told her about this. I hate to sneak. What do you think?

LARRY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: I think you haven't told your mother because deep down you know it's wrong. "Studying" a subject is sure to stimulate one's curiosity and interest. And there's no point in "studying" the violin if you have to wait two years to practice.

DEAR ABBY: I answer the telephone for a rather large concern. We have these two nice young fellows who do a real good job. But they could do better if their wives would quit calling them at work so much.

I can understand emergency calls, but these wives call up to ask, "Are you planning to work late?" Or, "We got a letter from Joe today." Or, "The baby cut a tooth." Abby, I know both these wives and I wouldn't hurt their feelings for the world, and I certainly wouldn't say anything to the fellows, but if you print this they may get the hint. Besides, it's not fair to call a person at work to just gab about nothing on company time.

TELEPHONE GIRL.

DEAR GIRL: Your point is well taken. And may I add that when a man comes home after work and asks his wife "What's new?" it will give them something to talk about.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished a best-selling book on child rearing. The author said that when a child and his parents visit people, the burden of responsibility for the child's behavior is left with the child and the host! In other words, a child is more apt to obey an outsider than his own parents.

This really upset me, Abby. When parents come to visit me and bring their children along, I don't think it's my place to discipline their children. Can't parents see a child walking on the sofa? Why should I have to tell somebody else's child how to behave when his own mother is sitting right there? What's your idea?

MRS. G. W.

DEAR MRS. G. W.: Same as yours. Some of the theories in child-rearing books make fascinating reading, but unless they "work" they aren't much good. Don't believe everything you read.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Flat in Atlanta" not to feel so sorry for herself. If it weren't for us, those gorgeous, full-bosomed gals wouldn't look so good.

"FLAT IN BUFFALO."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Everything seems to be going to our head these days! Never has our topknot been given such attention and never has there been so much choice in arrangement and decoration.

Lowman

There is every imaginable kind of extra hair piece, from bangs or a few curls on to falls and half-wigs and full wigs. You can buy one of any length or thickness or width or color. These are now also within the reach of the average budget.

When wigs first appeared on the market, they were worn by only a few brave souls and the attractive ones were very expensive. Soon however, women realized that wigs are not only fun but extremely practical. They are a wonderful convenience when traveling or on vacation or when there is no time for a hairdo between a busy day at home or at the office and a gay evening.

SYNTHETIC WIGS

Fortunately, about this same time lovely synthetic wigs made their debut. Before this only the real hair products looked natural. Today you would have to be an expert to tell the difference between those made of real hair and those made of synthetic fibers.

Don't for a minute believe that men have been unaware of what was going on—the head. Years before the revolution of mustaches, sideburns and long hair, a great many men wore toupees. You would be surprised by how many. This is true especially of those in the public eye and particularly those in the theatrical world.

Then along came the transplant for both men and women. This method is somewhat like sodding a new lawn. Small plots of hair and scalp are taken from the back of the head and planted on the bare spots in front.

NEWER METHOD

Now there is an even newer method of coping which seems to be in for a great play. Its popularity is zooming. In case you have not heard it is called hairweaving. It was invented by Christina Jenkins some years ago. This is used to add thickness to thin hair and to hide bald spots.

A base of nylon braid is sewed to your own hair. Then additional hair to match your own is sewed to the base. After this the hair is cut and styled. This appears natural and you do not have to take it off and put it on. It is literally a part of you.

You can swim in it and wash it and be sure that it will not blow off. The only thing left to invent now is how to grow real hair back where it once was and like it once was.

If you would like my leaflet "Stars In Your Crown" which gives you hints on hair care, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Canadian Nurse Serves in Biafra

John Best, of the Ottawa staff of The Canadian Press, recently returned from a trip to Nigeria and secessionist Biafra.

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nurse Diane North will soon be face to face with a familiar problem—whether to return to the safety and relative ease of Canada or stay on for another stint in Biafra.

A devout girl, she says it will be up to God to decide.

Dianne, a tall, engaging brunette born in Kenora, Ont., faced the same decision two years ago and ended up coming back to where nursing goes hand in hand with a talent for improvisation.

Biafra, then part of Nigeria, now is fighting to make good its secession from the federal state. The terrible toll being taken by the civil war is nowhere more evident than in the crowded wards of Umuahia's Queen Elizabeth Hospital where Dianne works.

In another few months her contract will be up. Then she'll have to decide again whether to take up her old life in Canada or to stay and continue ministering to the suffering of Biafra.

"As a Christian I believe in seeking God's will. I'd better start seeking it pretty soon."

She first came to Nigeria in 1964, for Canadian University Service Overseas. She had trained at Toronto Western Hospital and graduated from Queen's University in 1960 with the degree of bachelor of nursing services. After that she worked and taught at the University of Alberta Teaching Hospital.

GOD DIRECTED HER

After serving out her CUSO term she spent six months visiting friends and relatives in Canada, then returned to Umuahia on direct contract to Queen Elizabeth, which is run by the Presbyterian, Methodist and Anglican churches in co-operation with the secessionist government.

"God directed me to come back," says Dianne, a member of the United Church.

Umuahia was then just another small city in eastern Nigeria. Now it is the administrative capital of the Biafran state, which successive hammer blows by federal forces have whittled to about one-tenth the territory included in the secession proclamation of May 30, 1967.

The hospital where Dianne works has 185 beds and 800 patients, most of them war wounded. A stroll through the wards of the institution is enough to belie the suggestion sometimes heard abroad that this is a phoney war. The wounded and dying fill every inch of available space.

In addition to the war wounded, the hospital contains large numbers of children suffering from kwashiorkor, the debilitating protein-deficiency disease, plus a women's ward and a maternity ward.

DYING TURNED AWAY

Scores of civilians, many of them war refugees, may present themselves at the hospital's out-patient department on any given day for treatment of diseases frequently attributable to malnutrition.

"Those almost dead we turn away," says Dianne in the manner of one who has long since learned that certain things have to be done. She goes on to explain that it is bad medical practice to tie up personnel and facilities on those past saving when this means denying help to those who can benefit from it.

It's not uncommon to find one or two bodies on the grounds of the hospital when day begins. Usually, they are refugees who have gravitated or been brought to the institution overnight, only to have their lives flicker out before anybody can do anything for them.

Dianne—"Sistuh" to her patients—belongs to a dedicated band of Western relief workers who have stayed on in Biafra even when the going has become extremely tough.

WORK LONG HOURS

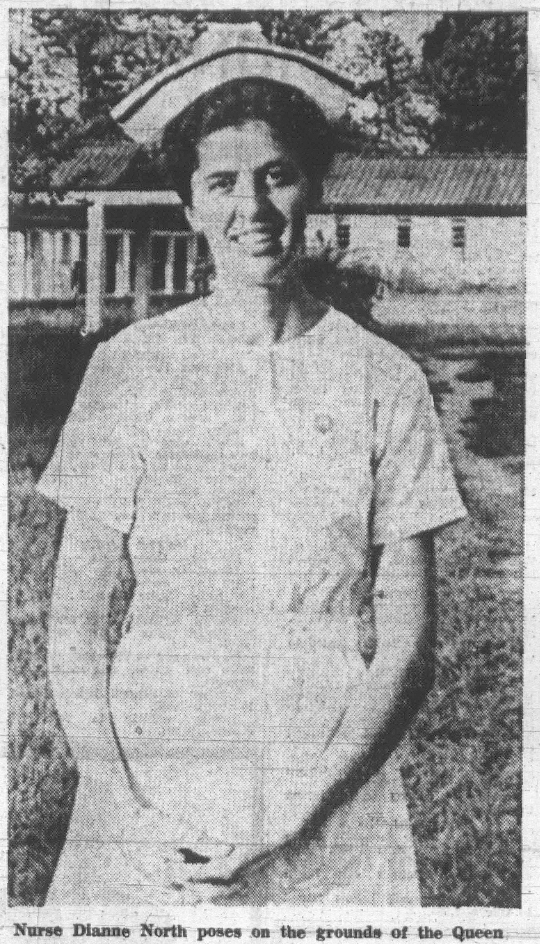
Others of the same company include Red Cross workers, and representatives of the various Christian relief services such as Caritas International and the World Council of Churches.

They work long hours under impossible conditions, and don't appear particularly preoccupied by the dangers faced by any white person in this part of the world when native passions become aroused.

"We do things here we would never dream of doing in Canada," says Dianne. "If we were to nurse in as much detail as at home, our task would be impossible."

As an illustration she cites the taking of blood donations. "If the hemoglobin count is up to 75 we take it. In Canada it has to be in the 80s. If our donors have had malaria, it doesn't matter. We need the blood."

The hospital is desperately short of many things, says Dianne. But one thing she and her colleagues would particularly like to get their hands on is a supply of plastic disposable blood bags.



Nurse Dianne North poses on the grounds of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Umahia, Biafra. A graduate of the Toronto General Hospital and Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., she went to Nigeria in 1964 as a CUSO volunteer. She returned in 1967 on contract directly to the hospital. (CP Photo)

Traditional Christmas Pageant To Be Presented by Swedish Group

When Brenda Hume puts on her white gown with the red sash and her crown of candles on Sunday evening she will be representing Santa Lucia, the young Italian maiden who narrowly escaped being burned at the stake, and fled to the dark Northland bringing the light of Christianity with her.

The Lucia story is celebrated each year in Sweden at Christmas time, and the Swedish Canadian Social Group of Victoria is following tradition with their pageant to be held Sunday at 5 p.m. in the United Church Hall at the corner of Admirals Road and Lyall Street.

In keeping with tradition, the pageant will open with young boys as star bearers leading the procession. The boys are dressed in white choir gowns and tall white hats sprinkled with silver stars. They carry silver stars.

Next come the little girls attending Lucia, and finally Lucia herself. The hall is darkened so that only the light comes from the candles of the attendants and the five candles of Lucia's crown.

The children are to sing Santa Lucia as they take their places on the stage.

With luck, says a member of the group, they will sing a verse in Swedish, but at least there will be Swedish carols during part of the musical program.

As she takes her place at the centre of the stage, Brenda will be one of hundreds of young girls playing the role of the early Christian, who was saved from death at the last moment when her lover came and untied her from the stake.

Her red sash represents the blood she shed for her beliefs; her white gown represents purity, and the candles stand for the message of light from Christianity.

After the pageant, Lucia moves into the audience to help pass the special Swedish Christmas cookies, and the Lucia buns made from a sweet dough flavored with saffron, and shaped as cats' eyes, another symbol of light.

The Swedish Christmas season starts officially on Dec. 13, with all the baking done, the sausages, cold cuts and head cheeses ready. It continues until the English equivalent of Twelfth Night, usually ending with a dance "to dance the Christmas season out." The tree is "plundered," and since most Swedish tree ornaments are edible, this is a final Christmas treat for the children.

The Swedish Canadian group in Victoria is combining the Lucia pageant with a Christmas party, and Santa Claus is scheduled to appear.

The event is open to the public, and a silver collection will be taken.

Former MP Mayor of Burnaby (B.C. MUNICIPAL VOTING RESULTS)

VANCGUVER (CP) — Robert Prittie, a veteran New Democratic Party politician who lost the Burnaby-Richmond seat in the June 25 federal election, Saturday was elected mayor of Sprawling Burnaby municipality.

Mr. Prittie, a 49-year-old schoolteacher, defeated Emmett Cafferky, a long-time member of Burnaby municipal council, by a margin of 8,878 votes to 8,017.

In the June election, Mr. Prittie lost Burnaby-Richmond to Liberal Tom Goode after six years in the Commons during which he served stints as a parliamentary observer at the United Nations.

The New Democrat had previously sat on Burnaby council as an alderman from 1959 until 1962 and at the same time was chairman of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board.

Mr. Prittie succeeds Alan Emmott, who left the job to run against Mayor Tom Campbell in Vancouver's civic elections on Wednesday.

The Burnaby election was one of more than 100 in province-wide municipal voting for new councils and school boards.

THE FABRIC DOCTOR HAS THE ANSWERS

QUESTION:

My dress is limp, can anything be done to restore it? —Mrs. S. D.

ANSWER:

Many fabrics today are treated with sizing in the manufacture to give body to the material. Some sizings are water soluble and some are soluble in drycleaning solvents. If some of the sizing has dissolved the dress may feel limp. For a small charge we can give your dress a sizing treatment.

It's Now Official, Caldera Wins

CARACAS (Reuters) — Rafael Caldera, a lawyer who heads the minority Social Christian party, was declared the winner of Venezuela's presidential elections Dec. 1. His margin of 31,071 by official count was less than one per cent of the 3,700,000 votes cast.

Caldera, 52, will take office in March to rule the oil-rich country for four years.

For Caldera, however, the battle really has just started. His party does not hold a majority in Congress and he must select a loyal and solid ally in order to form a coalition government.

Officials of the Supreme Electoral Council announced the results on television after a week of vote counting in which Caldera took an early but narrow lead and maintained it until the end.

The president-elect defeated arch-rival Gonzalo Barrios of President Raul Leoni's governing Democratic Action party.

Caldera polled 1,082,941 votes or 29.08 per cent; Barrios 1,051,870 or 28.24 per cent; Miguel Angel Burelli of the Opposition Front 829,397 or 22.27 per cent, and Luis Beltram Prieto Figueroa of the Left-wing Front 719,733 or 19.36 per cent.

The success of Caldera ended 10 years of rule by the DAP which began a year after strongman-dictator Marcos Perez Jiminez was ousted as president. Jiminez, now back home, was elected to the Senate.

Before Magistrate

Fined $300 each last week for impaired driving were John Brown, 1956 Cromwell, Duncan Kennedy, 958 Claremont, and Michael Saari, CFB Esquimalt.

Moncilo Filipovic, 2642 Forbes, pleaded guilty to taking an electric motor and will be sentenced Dec. 17.

Police said he took the motor, worth $42 and belonging to H. E. Fowler Ltd., from a building in Bastion Square Nov. 27 without permission.

A pre-sentence report is being prepared.

Corvin Lavender, 643 John, was remanded to Dec. 13 for sentence after pleading guilty to two counts of theft.

Const. Michael Mason said Lavender took $10, a ring and some coins from a dresser drawer at 2531 Government Thursday and $56 from a purse. He said the accused was at a party at the residence and had been left alone there for a while.

BRIDGE LESSON

Oswald: "The other day someone asked me if I had any idea as to how many finesses I had taken over the last 50 years. Then he wanted to know how many had worked."

Jim: "The figure would have to be well over 50 per cent. When I was must getting started you told me that the way to approach the problem of a two-way finesse for a queen was to charge yourself with a mistake every time you misguessed it."

Oswald: "I still feel that way about it, provided, of course, that you don't have some special reason to take the finesse against a particular opponent."

Jim: "Today's hand will illustrate this. South is in a normal three no-trump contract. He ducks the first two spade leads but wins the third one. Then he tries to count nine tricks."

Oswald: "He counts five tricks outside the diamond suit. Therefore he needs four diamond tricks for his contract. He can be sure of these, provided he doesn't give West a chance to get on lead with the queen. In that case, West will cash two more spade tricks and upset the apple cart."

Jim: "South makes sure that this won't happen by playing his ace of diamonds and then letting the jack ride to East's queen."

Oswald: "This would be a bad play under normal circumstances. When you hold nine cards in a suit you usually try to drop the queen but this time South's real consideration is to make sure that West can't get on the lead. East takes his queen and South takes his nine tricks and the game."

HI! MR. FIXIT!
SWING YOUR PAINT BRUSH OUT OF ME!
$15,500

Gee I'm only a house but with a little tender loving care you could make a home out of me. I'm not a square — I have real good lines and if you'd throw a little stucco on my exterior to match my brand new roof — why I'd be the "Talk of the Street." It's a good street too — I can see the blue Pacific from where I look. I'm as solid as the rock of Gibraltar because my rock bottom is a full cement basement — insulated too — with automatic heating — new hot water tank and two bedrooms all ready for you to finish Mr. Fixit. I have two more bedrooms — one needs a new door — a living room with fireplace that works — floor needs sanding — a 4-piece bathroom that I'm proud of — a kitchen with real nice cupboards — a room with your help — that would make a mute dining area with lots of windows and practically new sundeck. The main trouble with me is I'm too small to take care of eight children and "Puddies" the dog. Sure will miss them but I have to be sold or traded in on a large house — so I'm practically being given away for only $15,500. Have a big mortgage — only 7¼ per cent interest — don't know much about that so please call

Piano Team Provides Exciting Concert

By AUDREY JOHNSON

PROGRAM
Mozart..Overture, Marriage of Figaro
Mozart..............Concerto No. 10 for Two Pianos in E-Flat K 365
Bartok..........Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion
Kodaly .... "Peacock Variations

Did someone say Victoria concert goers were in a rut?

If so, they are apparently delighted to be lifted out of it judging by the wave of enthusiasm that swept through the Royal Theatre Sunday afternoon.

Pianists Winifred Scott and Robin Wood, with Fergus and Janis Heywood on percussion, had just completed an electrifying performance of Bela Bartok's Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion, and the delight of the audience was unmistakeable.

Conducted by Laszlo Gati, the work must surely be the most unique ever to have been programmed by Victoria Symphony Orchestra and at least one of the most exciting in terms of rhythms, tempi and vituosity.

Pianos and percussion instruments were heard in delightful affinity. As the pianists' hands flew about the twin keyboards producing great thickly textured sonorities and torrents of exciting sound, the Heywoods added accent, spice, color and rhythmic counterpoints on tympani, sidedrums, cymbals, xylophone, triangles and gong.

Admittedly one would not wish to listen to the Bartok too often on records in one's living room, but this particular performance will live long for most people who hear it and I, among many others, would not have missed it for the world.

It's sheer excitement tended to overshadow the Mozart Concerto that preceded it, but only momentarily.

Extreme contrast of the 18th century work, so polished, so intricately elegant, permitted one to marvel once more at the perfection of the ensemble sense possessed by these two artists. The musical accord between them is perfection, the only discrepancy lying in the fact that the concert grands themselves are not an ideally matched pair of instruments.

This concert, repeated tonight at 8:30, concludes with a contemporary compositon—the Peacock variations, which is, as it was intended to be by its composer, Zoltan Kodaly, a veritable orchestral showpiece.

Mr. Gati has conducted his countryman's work previously with a major orchestra and his very personal knowledge of the music and the roots from which it sprang, no doubt contributed to one of the most successful performances the orchestra has provided this season.

The much expanded string section produced a really beautiful, almost shining sound. Brilliant bits of solo work throughout the orchestra were capably handled.

An outstanding concert, this, and one not to be missed by any symphony lover.

Ferns Like Moisture

By HILDA BEASTALL

Ferns are a refreshing addition to indoor color schemes. Their form may be airy, delicate or lacy, or more solid masses of green. Yet their use seems less popular today than even 20 years ago.

Hilda

Searching for a reason other than change in fashion, we come up with the notion that today there is a much wider use of broad-leaved tropical plants because of central heating systems providing the same degree of heat in all corners of each room.

These universally higher temperatures also create a drier atmosphere and this in turn is not liked by the ferns commonly seen at the conclusion of the war of the '40s.

During that period of coal shortages here, we saw magnificent specimens of Boston ferns, Maidenhair ferns and several kinds of Hares-foot ferns.

These grew well in bay window recesses, secure from general family traffic disturbances.

Ferns dislike being touched and brushed roughly at their tips. Also they do not take kindly to temperatures above 70 deg. F. in a dry atmosphere.

In greenhouses especialy run for growing these lovely plants, we find the atmosphere laden with moisture, and there the thermometer may stand around 75 to 80 deg. F.

Such moisture-laden air is impossible in the home, and the next best we can do for these ferns is to have less heat.

For those folks who are not having success, some of these random thoughts may be useful.

Try surrounding a fern pot with damp green woods moss in a fern stand. Moisture from constantly damp moss will improve the "climate" around the plant.

And when choosing the coolest part of a room, be sure that it is not subjected to cold air draughts from door or windows.

YOUR HEALTH

Irritable Bowel Explained

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Irritable bowels are the curses of hundreds of thousands of women and probably some thousands of men. Often it starts bothering a person in childhood or youth. Many a woman has told me that when she started dating, and her lad came to the house to get her, her bowel would get so irritable and filled with gas that usually she told her mother to tell the man that she had a bad headache and was sorry she couldn't go. Sometimes such a girl would get a little diarrhea, with perhaps considerable mucus in the movements. That is why often these girls are said to have a "mucous colitis."

Alvares

★ ★ ★

Actually, they haven't any colitis, because their colons look perfectly normal both on X-ray examinations and examinations during abdominal operations. It is a normal colon, but nerves are playing tricks with it. Many doctors call the colon spastic, which means only that the muscle of the colonic wall has contracted a bit more than it usually does, and this makes a narrow descending colon, on the left side of the abdomen. Sometimes a woman asks, "Was I born that way?" and I say, "Yes, my impression is that a person like you was born to have a nervous colon." Often when I ask the mother, "Did you have it?" she says, "Why yes, I did."

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of women have asked me, "What can you do for it?" The first thing, of course, is for the person to try to learn to live peacefully with herself and with other people. But self-training cannot cure it entirely. A flare-up of a nervous colon can be highly unpredictable. A girl's colon may behave perfectly one night when she takes part in a play at her college, and then, another night it may flare up badly when she goes to dinner with her grandmother.

Fortunately, many years ago I discovered that a little capsule of Copavin (one quarter grain of codeine and one quarter grain of papaverine) for most people is a wonderful quieter of a nervous colon. All a girl has to do before she goes out for the evening with a date is to take one or two of the capsules, and she is likely to be perfectly comfortable.

★ ★ ★

Many a woman has said to me gratefully, "I think you saved me from being an old maid, because in my late teens it looked as if I was never going to be able to go out with men; always my colon started "yelling at me" a half-hour before I was to go out for the evening. But with two copavins I was perfectly comfortable." There is only one sad feature about copavin, and that is that, especially in recent years, probably 98 out of 100 doctors have allowed someone to give them the idea that codeine is a very addictive and dangerous drug. Actually, I understand that in France, anyone can walk into a drug store and buy all the codeine he wants.

Certainly in my 63 years of busy practice, I have never seen anyone with a codeine habit. I have asked many a junkie (addict) "Do you ever use codeine?" and everyone said, "No; that stuff is no good; it doesn't give you any kick."

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Cruel Development For Tillers of Soil

By BOB BOWMAN

Television programs, movies, and books about the southern U.S. often involve the lives of the "Cajuns" who lived, for the most part, in undesirable parts of Louisiana.

Bowman

Few people realize that the "Cajuns" were originally the "Acadians" who were expelled from Nova Scotia in 1755.

The exodus was practically completed on Dec. 9 when 1,600 Acadians sailed from Annapolis Royal, the original Port Royal founded by Champlain.

It was a cruel development for which a French missionary, Abbe de Loutre, was largely to blame. He incited the French settlers of the Maritimes to conduct a guerrilla war against the British even though most of them would have preferred to be peaceful tillers of the soil, which they did very well.

With war against France rapidly approaching, and the campaign to capture Canada, the British could not risk leaving the Acadians in a position to attack from the inside, and so they were taken from their homes and shipped to the southern U.S. and to France.

They were not welcomed and suffered great hardships, although France did provide some of them with an island off the coast of Brittany.

Fortunately many of them, or their descendants, managed to return to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island where the old Acadian flag still flies on festive occasions.

There are about 200,000 Acadians in the Maritimes and one of them is the premier of New Brunswick, Louis J. Robichaud, who was elected on July 12, 1860, the Orange anniversary!

The sad story of the Acadian expulsion was recounted by Longfellow in his poem "Evangeline."

Other events on Dec. 9:

1755 — First post office in Canada was opened at Halifax.

1843 — Bishops College, Lennoxville, was incorporated.

1858 — Death of Robert Baldwin, the "father of responsible government."

1878 — First train arrived at Winnipeg from Pembina, providing railway link with St. Paul.

1916 — CPR opened Connaught Tunnel through the Rockies.

1950 — Prime Minister Attlee of Britain visited Ottawa.

Grant for Victims

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The American Red Cross has announced a $50,000 donation to help pay for transport needed urgently to get food supplies to starving victims of the Nigerian civil war. A Red Cross spokesman said the International Red Cross had supplies worth $23,000,000 which could not be moved because of lack of funds. The Red Cross also issued an appeal to its 3,300 branch units across the U.S. to help with cash contributions.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Tommy Holahan, age 9, of Visalia, California, for his question:

How can the dead moon shine?

We all have seen those new close-up pictures of the moon. The ground there looks a lot like a bare patch of rocky ground on the earth. With this in mind, it is natural for a thoughtful young person to wonder how the drab moon can shine with such golden glory.

The Full Moon glows like a golden lantern, and everybody knows that the flame inside a lantern must be lit to make it glow. But scientists have been saying for ages that the moon has no light of its own. At last the space age has given us photographs of the lunar landscape. Now we all know for sure that it really is nothing more than a bare stretch of gritty ground, punctured with hollows and strewn with bumpy rocks. The moon had no light of its own to shed, no big candle, no flame to make it glow. Nevertheless, we also know for sure that the moon does shine and shed its golden light upon the earth.

You can understand this puzzle if you wait for dark and try a few tricks with an ordinary flashlight. Choose a dark wall and aim your flashlight to shed a beam of light upon it. The moon makes a circle of light, a yellowing circle that is paler and brighter than the rest of the dark wall. What you see, of course, is light from your flashlight, but it has gone through a few tricks before reaching your eye.

The light travels in a straight line from your flashlight, fanning out as is goes. When it strikes the solid wall, some of its beams bounce back and travel in the opposite direction, fanning out as they go. Some of these returning beams reach your eyes and bring you a picture of the lighted circle upon the wall. This trick of light is called reflection. You know that the dark solid wall has no light of its own to make a bright yellow circle. The circle shines with light borrowed from the flashlight beam. The moon also shines with reflected light — and by now you can guess where it gets the light it borrows.

Lights One Side

The light that shines down on the drab, rocky face of the moon of course comes from the radiant sun. And the sun is a seething nuclear furnace, millions and millions of times more dazzling than a weak little manmade flashlight. The sunbeams that strike down on the face of the earth are first filtered by the atmosphere above our heads. The moon has no airy atmosphere and the direct rays of the sun fall straight onto its face. Some of those sunbeams bounce back and reflect out into space. The moonlight we see comes from reflected sunshine.

The blazing sun lights the moon and the moon sends some of its sunshine along to us. It sends us about seven of every 100 sunbeams it gets.

The moon of course is a round ball and the sun lights only one side at a time. Sometimes we can see the whole daylight side. This is the golden circle of the Full Moon. When only half of the daylight is on the side facing earth, we see the golden Half Moon. When most of the moon's daylight is on the far side of the moon, we see only a Quarter Moon, a slim golden crescent peeping around one side.

★ ★ ★

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Kenny Wilker, age 12, of Florence, South Carolina, for his question

Who made the first map of the moon?

The astronomers of ancient Babylon charted the path of the moon many thousands of years ago. Almost certainly some of these and also other early astronomers made drawings of what they saw on the face of the moon. Chances are, their lunar maps were not considered as serious records worthwhile preserving. During this era of human history, the moon's motions were of prime importance. They were used as a basis of estimating the passage of time and charting calendars. Whatever lunar maps were doodled in these remote times no longer exist.

Mapping the lunar landscape was not taken seriously until about the 17th century. Several maps from this period have been preserved. Around 1610, Galileo made a rather vague sketch of the moon that shows rough outlines of its major surface features. During the next few years, several astronomers used their simple telescopes to sketch more detailed maps of the moon. The best of them was done by the Italian astronomer Riccioli in 1651. Other lunar map makers had their own names for the moon's features but eventually Riccioli's system of naming the so-called seas and major craters prevailed.

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The fact that human beings are remarkably resilient in adjusting to what would be ordinarily an abnormal state of existence lies at the roots of this effective dramatization of a young girl's day-to-day account of precarious life under a reign of terror.

The Jewish Frank family fled Germany to go into hiding in a warehouse attic in Amsterdam in 1942, and there shared with four other people nearly three years of claustrophobic fear-haunted life.

But as always, adjustments to the environment occur; the abnormal amost succeeds in becoming the normal; the fears and the tensions recede, to be triggered only episodically into the foreground.

In between there is humor, there are celebrations, there is tenderness that assuages terror and courage that defeats isolation.

Much of this springs into focus in the Victoria Theatre Guild production of The Diary of Anne Frank, directed by Barbara and Michael Meiklejohn.

WARMLY RECEIVED

A warmly received and well attended first night at Langham Court Theatre Saturday presaged a successful run for the show through this week.

In handling the actors and in the general shaping of the play, the directors have been notably adept in keeping all the factors in balance.

The humor has been allowed its full function in preventing the over all texture from becoming soggy. Still it is never pounded out, but seems to bubble up, the natural comedy that people make in their relationships with each other.

Yet the comedy elements are so well controlled that they never detract from moments of high tension and poignancy.

Too much noise and light behind the front curtain during scene changes are disrupting. And while many sound effects are extremely well done, the amplification of Anne's voice reading from her diary is hard and out of focus with the natural, on-stage voices.

Susan Belford's Anne is a creation of great charm, buoyancy and sincerity. The teen-aged actress has several fine qualities going for her, including an exceptionally clear, appealing voice and diction.

She moves well and can only be seriously faulted in this portrayal by overly repetitive gestures.

John Drean as the father, the head of the group of fugitives, has a commanding role and he handles it with authority and strong feeling.

The contrast he draws between the broken man who visits the attic at the introduction and the fine, hopeful warm-hearted personality of the flashback that constitutes the body of the play shows him to be an actor of considerable technical command and imagination.

Playing a more difficult part than might appear on the surface, Blake Carter, as the teen-aged son of the other family, starts out a little tentatively but improves immensely as the play goes along and finishes with real conviction.

Consistently convincing are capable actress Evanne Murray, Ken Bostock who putters delightfully in a sharply etched characterization, and in an outstanding small cameo portrait, Gem Hewlett.

Total involvement and sincerity are attributes of the cast as a whole but inequalities inevitably exist, affecting pace and levels of projection and at least one experienced member of the cast—Dan Christian—never quite gets a grip on the character, although there are moments when he comes close.

MERCY PLANE CRASHES ON FLIGHT TO BIAFRA

GENEVA (Reuters) — A DC-7 on a mercy flight to Biafra from the Portuguese island of Sao Tome was believed to have crashed, killing all four crew members, a spokesman for Joint Church Aid said today.

The spokesman said the crash Saturday night was believed to have been caused by engine trouble.

The plane was chartered by the Diakonisches Hilfwerk of West Germany and carried a cargo of milk powder for starving Biafrans. It crashed about three miles from Uli, a Biafran landing strip used by night relief flights.

Work-to-Rule Delays Jets

TORONTO (CP) — Air Canada passenger agents and switchboard operators began a work-to-rule slowdown today, despite a threat by the airline that they could be suspended. Passenger line-ups grew at major Canadian airports and some flights were behind schedule.

John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member Canadian Air Line Employees Association, said in an interview mediation talks here were suspended just before midnight Sunday night "over our objections," and the members would be "strictly observing company rules until there's a settlement."

Conciliation board chairman Thomas C. O'Connor said "he couldn't possibly see us until Tuesday night in Montreal," Mr. Hayes said today.

"We wanted to continue meeting. He's stalling for time, and it's obviously on behalf of the (federal cabinet) ministers. We'll continue our work to rule until someone in Ottawa wakes up to the fact that we have a problem."

An Air Canada spokesman said employees in the company's 29 depots across Canada have been told it would be illegal to start a work slowdown before the conciliation board hearings are completed.

"How Air Canada can say it's illegal to follow their own work regulations is beyond me," Mr. Hayes said.

He said Air Canada has also threatened that any union officials carrying out what he termed a "work perfection program" would be fired. He said in an interview if Air Canada suspends any persons or dismisses union officials, his association will not sign a settlement without restoration of jobs and pay to any employees disciplined.

Mr. Hayes said a protest will also be sent to Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey because "we, as a union, are not aware what could possibly be illegal in observing the company's own procedures."

Strict observation of regulations by the passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators represented by the association could cause delays in processing ticket reservations and the backing-up of flights.

J. E. Dickson, an Air Canada official, said despite the scheduled slowdown the company expects normal service to continue.

Wages, working conditions, duration of a new contract and employee transfer clauses are major items under dispute.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31, but bargaining began in June. Last week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15-per-cent increase over a period of two years.

Present salaries range from $325 to $550 a month for paseenger agents and from $260 to $382 a month for switchboard operators.

Dentist Drills, Chairs, Chisels Needed for Koreans

By SUSAN RILEY

The Unitarian Service Committee needs dentist chairs, drills and chisels — almost any kind of used dental equipment.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, head of the USC, says it is needed to outfit sutdent dentists working at a free clinic in Inchon, Korea.

As it is, students travel to Inchon at their own expense and donate their time.

"We hold Saturday afternoon clinics for the poorest children in the city," she said, "and we are trying to help them keep their teeth."

UNDERNOURISHED

They are undernourished, she said, and often receive no dental care at all.

But the young dental students, haven't much equipment, and the cost of new dental equipment is too high for the USC budget to handle.

John Addicott, president of the S.S. Beaver Kiwanis Club in Victoira, is trying to help Dr. Hitschmanova.

"We've found a friend of a friend who is a dental supply salesman," he said, "we hope something will come of that.

"We are also hoping we'll get more from other dentists, and everyone in the club is going to bug their dentist to see if he has anything he can donate."

"Every little bit counts," says Dr. Hitschmanova. Old material can be used by USC workgroups to make clothing.

'CREATES OWN HARVEST'

"You may be certain this kind of practical Canadian co-operation creates its own harvest of better living among thousands of destitute, innocent adults and little ones," she said.

Blankets and quilts can save whole families from freezing to death. For Korea, double-bed size quilts in dark colors are preferred. Quilts, should be as thick as possible.

USC centennial quilts were "jubilantly received in Korea" last year she said. More are available from USC headquarters, 56 Sparks St., Ottawa.

Mini-afghans this year's USC project. The small blankets, she said, will be used for Arab refugee babies in Jordan, as a protection against the cold and dampness of a tented camp.

Cardigans and pullovers are desperately needed.

"Youngsters overseas are proud to wear these Canadian garments," says Dr. Hitschmanova.

RUBBER BOOTS

Wash cloths are needed in the USC Children's TB hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

Also wanted are home-made soap, face clothes, balls of wool, caps and toques, children's shoes and rubber boots.

The list said Dr. Hitschmanova is endless. It doesn't stop at dentist drills or rubber boots. What is needed most is money. To be exact $1,250,000 if the USC is to continue its projects overseas.

The campaign hasn't been going well this year and Dr. Hitschmanova is worried.

She said B.C. and particu-

Minority Language Schools Urged in New Bi-Bi Report

—AP Wirephoto

"NOT PEACE at any price," were the words of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky as he arrived today in Paris with his wife. He is adviser to the 80-man South Vietnamese delegation to the expanded Paris peace talks.

N. Viets Lash Ky As Puppet of U.S.

PARIS (AP) — A spokesman for North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks lashed at South Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky today, calling him "a puppet, a servant of the United States and a devotee of Hitler."

It was a forerunner of many charges and countercharges expected as the Vietnamese rivals manoeuvre toward the enlarged peace talks.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese teams set up a strategy session later in the day with Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance on the American side and Pham Dang Lam and Bui Diem, the ambassador to Washington, on Saigon's side.

The North Vietnamese blast at Ky came from Hanoi delegation spokesman Bui Nhan and referred to past remarks Ky had made about Hitler in South Vietnam.

DENIED CHARGE

Ky denied at the time that he was voicing any admiration for the former Nazi dictator. And in the course of his exuberant arrival here Sunday the jaunty former combat pilot repeatedly stressed he was no puppet of the U.S.

The opening date of the expanded peace talks is still in doubt pending the outcome of another diplomatic dialogue between the United States and North Vietnam.

The shape of the table for the negotiations—of symbolic importance to the South Vietnamese and their rivals, the National Liberation Front—remained at issue after a week of private U.S.-North Vietnamese exchanges had threshed out other details for the first meeting of the delegations.

The Communists demand a square table to match their argument that this will be a four-sided conference in which the Viet Cong's NLF delegation has separate, equal status with the other three.

MPs Break Stalemate

OTTAWA (CP) — It was almost-all sweetness and light when the storm-wracked Commons transport committee met and elected veteran Liberal H.-Pit Lessard as its new chairman.

Mr. Lessard and the other Liberal MPs arrived early for the meeting to make sure they had a majority, and a quorum. The committee's quorum is 11.

Only three Conservatives were present when the committe clerk called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for chairman.

Last Friday the committee broke up in disorder when Liberal absenteeism led to an inconclusive 9-9 tie on a motion to elect Patrick Mahoney L — Calgary South as chairman. Mr. Mahoney today nominated Mr. Lessard, and his election was unopposed.

Bennett Studying Report

Premier Bennett said he doubted that the bilingual and bicultural commission's recommendations on minority language schools could apply to all parts of Canada and predicted that finding enough French teachers would be an immediate problem.

The premier would not suggest which of the recommendations the B.C. government would try to implement—if any—but he told reporters, "I am in support of extending teaching of French."

The Bi-and-Bi recommendations, if adopted, would have no official effect on B.C. because there is no district in the province where the French-speaking population makes 10 per cent of the total, the minimum requirement for minority language schools.

Maillardville, near New Westminster, is the only district that comes close.

Earlier this year, as a result of a direct request from the Coquitlam School Board, the cabinet authorized use of French as the language of instruction at Maillardville.

PILOT PROJECT

The pilot scheme permits French language insturction in kindergarten and grades one to three but requires a guarantee that English-language instruction will be available too.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said the Maillardville experiment will be assessed after a couple of years of operation to see if it should be extended to the other grades.

Teaching of French as a language is administered by local school boards and they vary throughout the province in which grade the subject is first introduced into the curriculum.

French Taught From Grade 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Public education should be provided in both French and English in specified areas across Canada, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturism said today.

The commission, in its second report to the federal cabinet, also says that all school pupils should be required to study the second official language. It suggests that English-speaking children start French in Grade 1, and that French-speaking children start English in Grade 3.

In the key recommendation of the report, the commission proposes the establishment of "official-language minority schools" in bilingual districts.

It recommended creation of bilingual districts in its first report almost exactly a year ago.

In these schools, children from the minority group, meaning French in most places outside Quebec, would be taught in their own language all the way through elementary school and high school.

The government tabled the report in the House of Commons today.

Although appointed by Ottawa, the 10-member royal commission is talking mainly to the provinces in this report. It deals with education, strictly a provincial responsibility under Canada's written constitution, the 1867 British North America Act.

Most of its 46 recommendations could be implemented only under provincial authority.

QUEBEC GETS FRENCH PROBE

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand announced today that a royal commission will inquire into "the situation of the French language as working language in Quebec."

Additional Costs for Provinces

The reason is that "provincial governments will incur additional expense for official-language minority education."

However, the principle of federal responsibility for the extra costs of these schools "in no sense implies federal control over education provided by the provinces," the commission insists.

In the minority schools, the mother tongue of the minority language group would be the normal language of instruction. At the same time, the commission recognizes "the necessity of teaching the official language of the majority in the minority scools."

The federal government now has a bill before Parliament to set up bilingual districts in which federal services would be available to residents in both French and English. But the geographical boundaries of these districts would not be proclaimed until a special advisory board has reported to the cabinet.

If these districts are delimited in the way the royal commission suggests, only Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Laval, Que., and Windsor, Ont., among the nation's 15 largest cities will be included.

But the commission recommends that public minority schools be established in all major urban centres where "the number of minority-language students in the metropolitan area makes this practicable."

Such schools already exist for the English-speaking minority in Montreal and other Quebec cities.

The commission notes that the

KIEV SECRET SESSION LEAVES PRAGUE UNEASY

By GENE KRAMER

PRAGUE (AP) — Uneasiness was felt in Prague today over a Soviet-Czechoslovak summit meeting held in the Ukraine amid the kind of secrecy that was common before Alexander Dubcek came to power.

The weekend talks in Kiev covered "issues of common interest" including "further development of co-operation" between the two Communist parties and countries, said a vague communique issued Sunday in Moscow.

It said the talks "passed in a cordial atmosphere, in comradely and friendly spirit." The language was warmer than that used to describe previous Soviet-Czechoslovak meetings, but there was no mention of "complete unity of views"—the Communist phrase to describe agreement fully satisfying the Kremlin.

Most Czechoslovak officials and the local press was kept in the dark about the meeting until it was over.

The extreme secrecy was a blow to Czechoslovak journalists, intellectuals, students and factory groups who have been protesting the drastic curtailment of information since the invasion.

The Soviet delegation was headed by Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Some concern was felt in Prague that the progressive Dubcek was virtually isolated on his five-member delegation because the four men who accompanied him are regarded as members of a growing "centre" group that stresses accommodation to Soviet demands rather than preservation of Dubcek-era reforms.

He Skipped a Beat During Coffee, Doughnuts

OTTAWA (CP) — A 30-year-old prisoner from the Joyceville, Ont., medium security prison ducked out a basement door Sunday after a church service in which 38 convicts and 15 Mounties, all in the red cassocks of the regular choir, sang in Christ Church Anglican Cathedral here.

The 900 seats in the graceful old cathedral were filled for the occasion, billed by the federal penitentiaries service as "a new trend in penological thinking."

The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, who worked on the now-legendary bridge over the River Kwai as a Japanese prisoner during the Second World War, and the parable of the prodigal son was read. Dr. Gordon is dean of the chapel at Princeton University.

Afterwards, the 26 prisoners from Joyceville, the 12 from another medium-security prison at Leclerc, Que., and the Mounties went to the basement of the cathedral for coffee and doughnuts.

It was a cheerful, wet-eyed moment until someone did a head count and discovered that one of the Joyceville lads, who were all dressed in civies, had skipped out.

Joyceville prison officials later identified the escapee as Edward Albert Greenfield of Verdun, Que., serving four years for robbery.

J. S. Gabourie, duty officer at Joyceville said today that "Greenfield, a harmless little fellow" apparently walked away from the reception.

The usual cries and alarms were muted. All hands hope such experiments will be repeated. And one lapse, during the Christmas season, isn't considered a collapse.

Hope some o' them who wuz jist taxpayers las' week'll keep a friendly feelin' now they're aldermen.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices eased off in closing trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after oilseeds dominated the market with sharp gains in early action.

Rapeseed gained some of its early impetus from a recent imposition of duty on East German and Polish rapeseed by Britain. This put Canadian production on a more competitive level.

Two ocean-goning vessels cleared the Lakehead Saturday with 260,000 bushels of flax for Belgium, Rotterdam and Hamburg. This cleans up most of the dry flax in deliberate positions.

Other commodities attracted little attention.

Friday's volume included 636,000 bushels of flax, 535,000 of rapeseed and 134,000 of rye.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures gave up nearly 2 cents on the board of trade and led nearly all commodities on a declining scale.

Trade was slow and volume relatively light. It appeared that most of the traders were biding their time until some definite word is heard concerning the longshoremen's dispute.

The weakness in wheat was a factor in the selling of corn and soybeans futures. Later in the session, however, some hedge selling developed in the deferred corn options and losses were as much as 1¼ cents.

Weakness of soybean oil and meal after the opening reflected on lower soybean prices. After mid-session, however, some buying strength appeared in all three commodities.

Injunction Ends Tie-Up At Mine Site

WHITEHORSE (CP) — A jurisdictional dispute between trade union members, hampering construction at the $100,000,000 Anvil Mining project near Ross River, Y.T., was ironed out during the weekend.

Most of the labor force of about 400 men was back on the job at the site, 235 miles north of here, after an injunction granted Thursday to Parsons Construction Company by Mr. Justice William Morrow of Yellowknife, N.W.T., who was in Whitehorse to sit in territorial court cases. Mr. Justice Morrow early Saturday refused an application from the Ironworkers Union to have the injunction set aside.

The resident construction manager for Parsons, Albert Wilkins, said "the trades elected not to follow the provision of their collective agreement relating to settlement of such disputes, and the company had no alternative but to exercise legal action to have a wildcat picket line removed."

Eighteen men were dismissed Nov. 23 and Nov. 30 for blocking the unloading of trucks at the site. Most were from Vancouver.

A meeting was to be held in Vancouver later today between company officials and Ed Fay, secretary of the B.C.-Yukon Building Trades Council.

Mr. Wilkins said work at the project is back to normal, and the company is encouraging all the men to return to work. Production deadline for the 1,600-ton mill concentrator and crusher is September, 1969.

FANCY FOOTWORK, a talent needed by most politicians, paid off for Tory candidate Magnus Verbrugge in Nanaimo walkathon. He finished well ahead of the NDP's Tommy Douglas and Liberal Eric Winch. He was paced by his assistant campaign manager, John Burns, in picture at left. In centre Mr. Douglas, who needed liberal dose of linament for sore knee, is congrulated by walkathon organizer George Ray. Mr. Winch, right, vowing to reverse the order of finish on election day, collects $10 pledge from Mayor Frank Ney. More than 800 foot-slogged the eight-mile course.

Tory Wins Warm up for Nanaimo Election

A United Appeal walkathon in Nanaimo Saturday became a political race when the three candidates in the Feb. 10 federal by-election vied to finish the eight-mile course first.

And if the results are any indication, it will be Conservative, NDP and Liberal in February.

Tory candidate Magnus Verbrugge jogged across the line well ahead of the opposition.

NDP candidate Tommy Douglas, who edged out Liberal Eric Winch, said "it's the last time a Conservative will be first."

Said Mr. Winch: "It's the last time I'll be last."

It was all in good fun, and Robert McPhee, chairman of the United Appeal, said the walkathon served to "considerably reduce" a $13,000 deficit in the city's Appeal campaign.

More than 800 persons ignored heavy rain to participate. Deked out in colorful costumes, pushing washtubs and shopping carts in which to collect money for the Appeal, the citizens of Nanaimo "responded magnificently," said Mr. McPhee.

"We're certain the walk cut a large chunk out of the deficit," he said. "Whatever we made was something we didn't have before."

Amount of the "take" will not be known for some time.

"This will definitely be the first of many annual United Appeal walkathons in Nanaimo," he added.

'Why Be So Foolish' Just Before Parole?

A day parolee who pleaded guilty to being "unlawfully at large" from William Head minimum security prison was sentenced today to six months in the penitentiary.

Const. Hugh McCombe told the court Lyell Winters, about 40, was sentenced at Vancouver in 1962 to 10 years for manslaughter. Early in November he became a day parolee and was eligible for full parole today, he said.

On the morning of Nov. 30 he went to his job at Bayliss Neon, 2510 Rock Bay, and failed to return at 10 p.m., the time he was due back.

He was arrested when he walked into the Vancouver police station Sunday, the officer said.

$210 CHEQUE

Const. McCombe said Winters had received a $210 pay cheque on Nov. 30.

"Why would you do such a foolish thing when you were on the threshold of parole," Magistrate William Ostler asked the accused?

"It's a tragedy you jeopardized your chances of getting out by this wildly illogical act," he said.

Winters said it seemed logical at the time but not now.

The magistrate told him he had indirectly hurt his fellow prisoners and parole system because it creates public apprehension when such a thing happens.

Cold Kills Crocodiles From India

Two sleepy looking baby crocodiles turned out to be dead when they arrived as a gift from India.

Provincial Museum curator Dr. Clifford Carl pronounced the pair of 14-inch reptiles dead this morning and speculated they succumbed of cold during their day-long flight Sunday.

The three-month-old crocodiles would have grown to seven feet at maturity if they had survived the flight but deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said he would write the donors explaining the misfortune and "hoping that two more could be sent."

Dr. Carl, noting that the crocodiles were sent in a glass case, said normally tropical fish or animals are sent by air in insulated containers.

The crocodiles were sent by the state of Rajasthan as a token of appreciation to B.C. school children who raised more than $200,000 during centennial year to send 11 mobile classrooms to various under-developed parts of the world, including two to India.

Meeting Set For Tonight On Garbage

Saanich council will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss garbage.

The meeting was arranged before Saturday's plebiscite, but the 58 per cent vote in favof of weekly collection the year round has provided added impetus.

Council is faced with a substantial increase in costs next year on the basis of earlier quotations from the present garbage collector, L. S. McNutt.

$19 PER HOUSE

The present cost, for collection every week in the summer and every two weeks in the other eight months, is $11 per household per year.

The same service next year by Mr. McNutt will cost $15 and if year-round weekly service is provided it will be $19.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said this morning that tonight's meeting is to discuss the entire garbage collection question to see where Saanich is going in 1969.

Council will consider the earlier quotations by Mr. McNutt and whether the municipality should collect garbage itself rather than contract the service out.

Uvic Goes Slowly On Student Union

A provincial student union is planned to educate the public about the needs of higher education in B.C. but University of Victoria student leaders haven't decided whether to join.

In fact, they first heard about it by mainly only late this morning.

Announced Saturday by Rob Walsh, president of the Simon Fraser University Student Society, the union would seek to counter an apparent reaction agaist universities since a series of recent sit-ins.

"It would be interesting to find out what they hope to do," said Frank Frketich, Uvic Alma Mater Society president.

"I would have to find out what their goals are, what sort of action they plan to take, before commenting on any support we might give."

Dr. Kenneth Hare, president of the University of B.C., said Wednesday the province's universities are being hit by a backlash of public opinion aggravated by recent campus unrest.

The union to counter this question will be discussed at a meeting Dec. 21 and 22 at UBC, Mr. Walsh said in his announcement.

Up-Island Woman Wins $500 In Montreal Draw

A Ladysmith woman, Mrs. K. Scott, has won $500 in Mayor Jean Drapeau's volutary tax plan draw in Montreal.

Mrs. Scott was one of 12 winners from British Columbia.

The $100,000 grand prize was won by a Toronto housewife and mother of a 12-year-old son. Mrs. A. H. Peckham became the first person outside the Province of Quebec to win the grand prize since the monthly draws began six months ago.

Ernie Ardley of Lake Cowichan and Albert Cheechoo of Port Alberni won $100 consolation prizes.

MAD AT WEATHER? JUST THINK BACK

There's only one way to appreciate today's weather — remember last year at about this time.

Dec. 4 and 5 last year we had gusts up to 78 miles per hour cuasing power breakages all over the district.

Two days later we got it again. Colwood RCMP advised motorists to avoid the Malahat's snow and fog. And Cordova Bay seawalls crumbled and waterfront damage was set at $100,000.

That makes today's early morning gusts of 54 and 57 miles per hour seem puny.

The overnight showers — which will remain frequent today and tonight, are good for the lawn. The occasional thunder shower, anticipated tonight, and the slushy snow which might appear briefly and melt swiftly, will excite the kiddies.

Cloudy, showery weather expected Tuesday won't require shovelling as they're doing at Port Alberni where six inches has just arrived in town.

Be thankful you don't live in Tofino area where two feet of snow fell Saturday, closing the road to Port Alberni, or in Gold River or Kelsey Bay areas, where roads are almost impassable.

VETO SURE—CUMMING

Pullout Unlikely By North Saanich

Mayor J. B. Cumming of North Saanich said today it is unlikely the provincial government would permit Saanich Peninsula to opt out of regional hospital plans.

He was commenting on a weeknd statement by Ald. T. C. Davis of North Saanich.

Ald. Davis said the peninsula would have a 100-bed acute-care hospital regardless of regional hospital board planning.

"This would require consent of the provincial government to formation of a sub-area.

"I think that although it is financially possible, it would be quite unlikely the government would permit this subdivision," said Mayor Cumming in an interview. He serves on the regional district board and is chairman of the hospital's advisory committee.

Ald. Davis, a spokesman for the Peninsula Hospital Committee, said the committee is prepared to finance, construct and operate a local acute-care hospital.

UNCONCERNED

"We are not concerned with the success or failure of the regional district experiment, nor with the personalities or motivations of its appointed officials and advisers," said the alderman.

Since recent passage of a hospital referendum approving a $9.3 million construction program, controversy has been continued on the peninsula.

The money was earmarked for provision of 600 extended-care beds and updating of facilities at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's acute-care hospitals.

Hospital planners have indicated the likelihood of a new extended-care hospital replacing Sidney's aging Rest Haven Hospital. But to date provincial authorities have not shown willingness for any acute-care beds to be built there.

Mr. Davis and the committee he represents is determined to see a new 100-bed acute-care hospital built in their area.

Slow Response To Jaycees' Lighting Contest

Entries for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest are coming in slowly this year.

Only 17 forms have been returned to the Jaycee office, with the deadline for entries set for Friday.

However, Jaycee Dennis Thompson reports the forms brought in to date are for "about 40 categories"—most entrants are trying their luck in several of the six cateogries offered.

The categories in which prizes will be offered are best house decorations, best window or door decorations, best Christmas message, most humorous display, best group display by three or more adjacent houses, and best novice (first entry).

Judging will be carried out Dec. 17, 18 and 19 between 7 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Two-Year Term For Attempted Office Robbery

A Victoria man said to be in need of rehabilitation from drink and drugs was sentenced today to two years in the federal penitentiary at New Westminster.

"There is an atmosphere of drugs around this man which indicates rehabilitation is the best course," said County Court Judge Montague Drake, passing sentence on James Osborne White, 30, of 902 Arundel.

White was found guilty by a 12-man jury of attempting to break and enter the Medical Arts Building, 1105 Pandora Avenue, on July 27 last.

LENIENCY URGED

The jury added a recommendation for leniency.

Police witnesses said White was found in some bushes under a broken window at the Medical Arts Building.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said White was clearly under the influence of alcohol or drugs at the time.

"If a man has a weak character, it is much easier for him to do something he would not have done had he been in a normal state of mind," counsel said.

Mr. Owen-Flood admitted that White had a criminal record up to 1962 but emphasized he had been out of trouble for six years.

"This suggests he has been trying to be a useful member of the community."

606 Pedestrians Caught Breaking Law in 3 Hours

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria police Saturday checked 606 pedestrians cheating on traffic signals within a three-hour period.

The army of violators, each of whom was courting a $2.50 fine, was detected by 10 auxiliary policemen on Douglas between Fort and Fisgard.

Traffic Inspector Dick Berry said the jaywalkers in question stepped from curbs to cross with green lights meant for motor traffic while pedestrian direction lights read "Don't Walk."

Insp. Berry said, "If it's going to continue we are going to have to put on a little pressure and start summonsing people."

'FOLLOW LEADER'

He said most of the violators were playing "follow the leader" not realizing their actions delay turning traffic and hold up the over-all traffic flow.

He said the police will continue blowing whistles and checking violators—and they may expect to be summonsed.

The police drive against pedestrians came on the last day of Safe Driving Week in Canada and will serve to underline Pedestrian Safety Week which begins Sunday here under auspices of Greater Victoria and District Safety Council.

Safe Driving Week resulted in Victoria qualifying for an award from Canadian Safety Council because there were no car deaths in the city during the period.

Saanich, as a centre of more than 40,000 population, would also have qualified but for a fatality on McKenzie Avenue. There were two deaths in the Colwood area.

Throughout B.C. there were five deaths in total. This province was only surpassed by Quebec with 11 and Ontario with 19 fatalities from traffic.

The total for Canada during the week was 49 compared to 81 in the same period in 1967.

'GOOD YEAR' FOR FIRES

Fire damage and suppression costs in 1968 were low to make "a relatively good year" for British Columbia's forests, the provincial forestry service reports.

There were 1,647 fires compared with 3,217 in 1967.

In 1968 fire burned over 33,876 acres, compared with 244,483 acres blackened in 1967.

The damage and losses to timber this year totalled $697,272, compare with 1967 damages totalling $5,679,112.

Centre To Go On Show

The Saanich Senior Citizens' Activity Centre at Hampton Park was officially opened Sunday by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson.

An open house will be held by Silver Threads on Wednesday.

The centre, costing just over $100,000, has one large room which will be divided by folding doors ipto four rooms for recreational activities.

It also includes kitchens and a lounge and a large auditorium will be built later.

The building is owned and managed by Saenich but Silver Threads will be in charge of the program.

GFT OF TRAY

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis, the program chairman at Sunday's official opening, presented a silver tray to Mr. and Mrs. W. Synhurst who for years have run a pastime club.

Dedication was by Rev. C. L. Streight, representing the Greater Victoria Council of Churches, and a commemorative plaque was presented by the Saanich Firefighters Association, Local 967.

Architect of the centre was John Di Castri and the general contractor was Herb Bate Limited.

GOOD TIMES

Ald. Edith Gunning said the centre will be a place to which the elderly can go for good times.

It will offer more than recreation, she added.

It was essential to have the ability and interest to learn and at retirement to remain active "rather than retreat into memories and isolation."

The activity centre is the second stage to be completed in the $1.2 million indoor recreation program approved by ratepayers last year.

The first stage was the George Pearkes Arena. Still to come are a swimming pool and community centre at the Lambrick Estate, Gordon Head, and a community centre at the McRae Estate, in the Ceadr Hill area.

Ask The Times

Q. Is tourism considered a major industry in B.C.?—L.B.

A. Yes. It ranks No. 3. Figures for 1967 show tourists spent $317 million in the province. The amount spent by the provincial government encouraging tourism has also risen since 1957. More American tourists than ever before entered B.C. last year. More than 112 new tourist accommodations were built, bringing the total to 2,063. Victoria, Vancouver and the Okanagan are the major tourist centres.

MERCY PLANE CRASHES ON FLIGHT TO BIAFRA

GENEVA (Reuters) — A DC-7 on a mercy flight to Biafra from the Portuguese island of Sao Tome was believed to have crashed, killing all four crew members, a spokesman for Joint Church Aid said today.

The spokesman said the crash Saturday night was believed to have been caused by engine trouble.

The plane was chartered by the Diakonisches Hilfwerk of West Germany and carried a cargo of milk powder for starving Biafrans. It crashed about three miles from Uli, a Biafran landing strip used by night relief flights.

Work-to-Rule Delays Jets

TORONTO (CP) — Air Canada passenger agents and switchboard operators began a work-to-rule slowdown today, despite a threat by the airline that they could be suspended. Passenger line-ups grew at major Canadian airports and some flights were behind schedule.

John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member Canadian Air Line Employees Association, said in an interview mediation talks here were suspended just before midnight Sunday night "over our objections," and the members would be "strictly observing company rules until there's a settlement."

Conciliation board chairman Thomas C. O'Connor said "he couldn't possibly see us until Tuesday night in Montreal," Mr. Hayes said today.

"We wanted to continue meeting. He's stalling for time, and it's obviously on behalf of the (federal cabinet) ministers. We'll continue our work to rule until someone in Ottawa wakes up to the fact that we have a problem."

An Air Canada spokesman said employees in the company's 29 depots across Canada have been told it would be illegal to start a work slowdown before the conciliation board hearings are completed.

"How Air Canada can say it's illegal to follow their own work regulations is beyond me," Mr. Hayes said.

He said Air Canada has also threatened that any union officials carrying out what he termed a "work perfection program" would be fired. He said in an interview if Air Canada suspends any persons or dismisses union officials, his association will not sign a settlement without restoration of jobs and pay to any employees disciplined.

Mr. Hayes said a protest will also be sent to Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey because "we, as a union, are not aware what could possibly be illegal in observing the company's own procedures."

Strict observation of regulations by the passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators represented by the association could cause delays in processing ticket reservations and the backing-up of flights.

J. E. Dickson, an Air Canada official, said despite the scheduled slowdown the company expects normal service to continue.

Wages, working conditions, duration of a new contract and employee transfer clauses are major items under dispute.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31, but bargaining began in June. Last week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15-per-cent increase over a period of two years.

Present salaries range from $325 to $550 a month for paseenger agents and from $260 to $382 a month for switchboard operators.

Dentist Drills, Chairs, Chisels Needed for Koreans

By SUSAN RILEY

The Unitarian Service Committee needs dentist chairs, drills and chisels — almost any kind of used dental equipment.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, head of the USC, says it is needed to outfit sutdent dentists working at a free clinic in Inchon, Korea.

As it is, students travel to Inchon at their own expense and donate their time.

"We hold Saturday afternoon clinics for the poorest children in the city," she said, "and we are trying to help them keep their teeth."

UNDERNOURISHED

They are undernourished, she said, and often receive no dental care at all.

But the young dental students, haven't much equipment, and the cost of new dental equipment is too high for the USC budget to handle.

John Addicott, president of the S.S. Beaver Kiwanis Club in Victoira, is trying to help Dr. Hitschmanova.

"We've found a friend of a friend who is a dental supply salesman," he said, "we hope something will come of that.

"We are also hoping we'll get more from other dentists, and everyone in the club is going to bug their dentist to see if he has anything he can donate."

"Every little bit counts," says Dr. Hitschmanova. Old material can be used by USC workgroups to make clothing.

'CREATES OWN HARVEST'

"You may be certain this kind of practical Canadian co-operation creates its own harvest of better living among thousands of destitute, innocent adults and little ones," she said.

Blankets and quilts can save whole families from freezing to death. For Korea, double-bed size quilts in dark colors are preferred. Quilts, should be as thick as possible.

USC centennial quilts were "jubilantly received in Korea" last year she said. More are available from USC headquarters, 56 Sparks St., Ottawa.

Mini-afghans this year's USC project. The small blankets, she said, will be used for Arab refugee babies in Jordan, as a protection against the cold and dampness of a tented camp.

Cardigans and pullovers are desperately needed.

"Youngsters overseas are proud to wear these Canadian garments," says Dr. Hitschmanova.

RUBBER BOOTS

Wash cloths are needed in the USC Children's TB hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

Also wanted are home-made soap, face clothes, balls of wool, caps and toques, children's shoes and rubber boots.

The list said Dr. Hitschmanova is endless. It doesn't stop at dentist drills or rubber boots. What is needed most is money. To be exact $1,250,000 if the USC is to continue its projects overseas.

The campaign hasn't been going well this year and Dr. Hitschmanova is worried.

She said B.C. and particu-

Minority Language Schools Urged in New Bi-Bi Report

"NOT PEACE at any price," were the words of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky as he arrived today in Paris with his wife. He is adviser to the 80-man South Vietnamese delegation to the expanded Paris peace talks.

N. Viets Lash Ky As Puppet of U.S.

PARIS (AP) — A spokesman for North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks lashed at South Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky today, calling him "a puppet, a servant of the United States and a devotee of Hitler."

It was a forerunner of many charges and countercharges expected as the Vietnamese rivals manoeuvre toward the enlarged peace talks.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese teams set up a strategy session later in the day with Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance on the American side and Pham Dang Lam and Bui Diem, the ambassador to Washington, on Saigon's side.

The North Vietnamese blast at Ky came from Hanoi delegation spokesman Bui Nhan and referred to past remarks Ky had made about Hitler in South Vietnam.

DENIED CHARGE

Ky denied at the time that he was voicing any admiration for the former Nazi dictator. And in the course of his exuberant arrival here Sunday the jaunty former combat pilot repeatedly stressed he was no puppet of the U.S.

The opening date of the expanded peace talks is still in doubt pending the outcome of another diplomatic dialogue between the United States and North Vietnam.

The shape of the table for the negotiations—of symbolic importance to the South Vietnamese and their rivals, the National Liberation Front—remained at issue after a week of private U.S.-North Vietnamese exchanges had threshed out other details for the first meeting of the delegations.

The Communists demand a square table to match their argument that this will be a four-sided conference in which the Viet Cong's NLF delegation has separate, equal status with the other three.

MPs Break Stalemate

OTTAWA (CP) — It was almost-all sweetness and light when the storm-wracked Commons transport committee met and elected veteran Liberal H.-Pit Lessard as its new chairman.

Mr. Lessard and the other Liberal MPs arrived early for the meeting to make sure they had a majority, and a quorum. The committee's quorum is 11.

Only three Conservatives were present when the committe clerk called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for chairman.

Last Friday the committee broke up in disorder when Liberal absenteeism led to an inconclusive 9-9 tie on a motion to elect Patrick Mahoney L — Calgary South as chairman. Mr. Mahoney today nominated Mr. Lessard, and his election was unopposed.

Bennett Studying Details

Premier Bennett said he doubted that the bilingual and bicultural commission's recommendations on minority language schools could apply to all parts of Canada and predicted that finding enough French teachers would be an immediate problem.

The premier would not suggest which of the recommendations the B.C. government would try to implement—if any—but he told reporters, "I am in support of extending teaching of French."

The Bi-and-Bi recommendations, if adopted, would have no official effect on B.C. because there is no district in the province where the French-speaking population makes 10 per cent of the total, the minimum requirement for minority language schools.

Maillardville, near New Westminster, is the only district that comes olose.

Earlier this year, as a result of a direct request from the Coquitlam School Board, the cabinet authorized use of French as the language of instruction at Maillardville.

PILOT PROJECT

The pilot scheme permits French language instruction in kindergarten and grades one to three but requires a guarantee that English-language instruction will be available too.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said the Maillardville experiment will be assessed after a couple of years of operation to see if it should be extended to the other grades.

Teaching of French as a language is administered by local school boards and they vary throughout the province in which grade the subject is first introduced into the curriculum.

French Taught From Grade 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Public education should be provided in both French and English in specified areas across Canada, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturism said today.

The commission, in its second report to the federal cabinet, also says that all school pupils should be required to study the second official language. It suggests that English-speaking children start French in Grade 1, and that French-speaking children start English in Grade 3.

In the key recommendation of the report, the commission proposes the establishment of "official-language minority schools" in bilingual districts.

It recommended creation of bilingual districts in its first report almost exactly a year ago.

In these schools, children from the minority group, meaning French in most places outside Quebec, would be taught in their own language all the way through elementary school and high school.

The government tabled the report in the House of Commons today.

Although appointed by Ottawa, the 10-member royal commission is talking mainly to the provinces in this report. It deals with education, strictly a provincial responsibility under Canada's written constitution, the 1867 British North America Act.

Most of its 46 recommendations could be implemented only under provincial authority.

But the commission recommends that the federal government accept, in principle, the responsibility of giving financial help to the public minority schools. (See also Page 2.)

QUEBEC GETS FRENCH PROBE

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand announced today that a royal commission will inquire into "the situation of the French language as working language in Quebec."

Additional Costs for Provinces

The reason is that "provincial governments will incur additional expense for official-language minority education."

However, the principle of federal responsibility for the extra costs of these schools "in no sense implies federal control over education provided by the provinces," the commission insists.

In the minority schools, the mother tongue of the minority language group would be the normal language of instruction. At the same time, the commission recognizes "the necessity of teaching the official language of the majority in the minority schools."

The federal government now has a bill before Parliament to set up bilingual districts in which federal services would be available to residents in both French and English. But the geographical boundaries of these districts would not be proclaimed until a special advisory board has reported to the cabinet.

If these districts are delimited in the way the royal commission suggests, only Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Laval, Que., and Windsor, Ont., among the nation's 15 largest cities will be included.

But the commission recommends that public minority schools be established in all major urban centres where "the number of minority-language students in the metropolitan area makes this practicable."

Such schools already exist for the English-speaking minority in Montreal and other Quebec cities.

The commission notes that the

KIEV SECRET SESSION LEAVES PRAGUE UNEASY

By GENE KRAMER

PRAGUE (AP) — Uneasiness was felt in Prague today over a Soviet-Czechoslovak summit meeting held in the Ukraine amid the kind of secrecy that was common before Alexander Dubcek came to power.

The weekend talks in Kiev covered "issues of common interest" including "further development of co-operation" between the two Communist parties and countries, said a vague communique issued Sunday in Moscow.

It said the talks "passed in a cordial atmosphere, in comradely and friendly spirit." The language was warmer than that used to describe previous Soviet-Czechoslovak meetings, but there was no mention of "complete unity of views"—the Communist phrase to describe agreement fully satisfying the Kremlin.

Most Czechoslovak officials and the local press was kept in the dark about the meeting until it was over.

The extreme secrecy was a blow to Czechoslovak journalists, intellectuals, students and factory groups who have been protesting the drastic curtailment of information since the invasion.

The Soviet delegation was headed by Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Some concern was felt in Prague that the progressive Dubcek was virtually isolated on his five-member delegation because the four men who accompanied him are regarded as members of a growing "centre" group that stresses accommodation to Soviet demands rather than preservation of Dubcek-era reforms.

He Skipped a Beat During Coffee, Doughnuts

OTTAWA (CP) — A 30-year-old prisoner from the Joyceville, Ont., medium security prison ducked out a basement door Sunday after a church service in which 38 convicts and 15 Mounties, all in the red cassocks of the regular choir, sang in Christ Church Anglican Cathedral here.

The 900 seats in the graceful old cathedral were filled for the occasion, billed by the federal penitentiaries service as "a new trend in penological thinking."

The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, who worked on the now-legendary bridge over the River Kwai as a Japanese prisoner during the Second World War, and the parable of the prodigal son was read. Dr. Gordon is dean of the chapel at Princeton University.

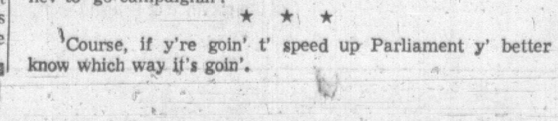
Afterwards, the 26 prisoners from Joyceville, the 12 from another medium-security prison at Leclerc, Que., and the Mounties went to the basement of the cathedral for coffee and doughnuts.

It was a cheerful, wet-eyed moment until someone did a head count and discovered that one of the Joyceville lads, who were all dressed in civies, had skipped out.

Joyceville prison officials later identified the escapee as Edward Albert Greenfield of Verdun, Que., serving four years for robbery.

J. S. Gabourie, duty officer at Joyceville said today that "Greenfield, a harmless little fellow" apparently walked away from the reception.

The usual cries and alarms were muted. All hands hope such experiments will be repeated. And one lapse, during the Christmas season, isn't considered a collapse.



Hope some o' them who wuz jist taxpayers las' week'll keep a friendly feelin' now they're aldermen.

He was paced by his assistant campaign manager, John Burns, in picture at left. In centre Mr. Douglas, who needed liberal dose of linament for sore knee, is congratulated by walkathon organizer George Ray. Mr. Winch, right, vowing to reverse the order of finish on election day, collects $10 pledge from Mayor Frank Ney. More than 800 foot-slogged the eight-mile course.

Tory Wins Warm up for Nanaimo Election

A United Appeal walkathon in Nanaimo Saturday became a political race when the three candidates in the Feb. 10 federal by-election vied to finish the eight-mile course first.

And if the results are any indication, it will be Conservative, NDP and Liberal in February.

Tory candidate Magnus Verbrugge jogged across the line well ahead of the opposition.

NDP candidate Tommy Douglas, who edged out Liberal Eric Winch, said "it's the last time a Conservative will be first."

Said Mr. Winch: "It's the last time I'll be last."

It was all in good fun, and Robert McPhee, chairman of the United Appeal, said the walkathon served to "considerably reduce" a $13,000 deficit in the city's Appeal campaign.

More than 800 persons ignored heavy rain to participate. Deked out in colorful costumes, pushing washtubs and shopping carts in which to collect money for the Appeal, the citizens of Nanaimo "responded magnificently," said Mr. McPhee.

"We're certain the walk cut a large chunk out of the deficit," he said. "Whatever we made was something we didn't have before."

Amount of the "take" will not be known for some time.

"This will definitely be the first of many annual United Appeal walkathons in Nanaimo," he added.

606 Pedestrians Caught Breaking Law in 3 Hours

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria police Saturday checked 606 pedestrians cheating on traffic signals within a three-hour period.

The army of violators, each of whom was courting a $2.50 fine, was detected by 10 auxiliary policemen on Douglas between Fort and Fisgard.

Traffic Inspector Dick Berry said the jaywalkers in question stepped from curbs to cross with green lights meant for motor traffic while pedestrian direction lights read "Don't Walk."

Insp. Berry said, "If it's going to continue we are going to have to put on a little pressure and start summonsing people."

'FOLLOW LEADER'

He said most of the violators were playing "follow the leader" not realizing their actions delay turning traffic and hold up the over-all traffic flow.

He said the police will continue blowing whistles and checking violators—and they may expect to be summonsed.

The police drive against pedestrians came on the last day of Safe Driving Week in Canada and will serve to underline Pedestrian Safety Week which begins Sunday here under auspices of Greater Victoria and District Safety Council.

Safe Driving Week resulted in Victoria qualifying for an award from Canadian Safety Council because there were no car deaths in the city during the period.

Saanich, as a centre of more than 40,000 population, would also have qualified but for a fatality on McKenzie Avenue. There were two deaths in the Colwood area.

Throughout B.C. there were five deaths in total. This province was only surpassed by Quebec with 11 and Ontario with 19 fatalities from traffic.

The total for Canada during the week was 49 compared to 81 in the same period in 1967.

'Why Be So Foolish' Just Before Parole?

A day parolee who pleaded guilty to being "unlawfully at large" from William Head minimum security prison was sentenced today to six months in the penitentiary.

Const. Hugh McCombe told the court Lyell Winters, about 40, was sentenced at Vancouver in 1962 to 10 years for manslaughter. Early in November he became a day parolee and was eligible for full parole today, he said.

On the morning of Nov. 30 he went to his job at Bayliss Neon, 2510 Rock Bay, and failed to return at 10 p.m., the time he was due back.

He was arrested when he walked into the Vancouver police station Sunday, the officer said.

$210 CHEQUE

Const. McCombe said Winters had received a $210 pay cheque on Nov. 30.

"Why would you do such a foolish thing when you were on the threshold of parole?" Magistrate William Ostler asked the accused.

"It's a tragedy you jeopardized your chances of getting out by this wildly illogical act," he said.

Winters said it seemed logical at the time but not now.

The magistrate told him he had indirectly hurt his fellow prison and the parole system because it creates public apprehension when such a thing happens.

Cold Kills Crocodiles From India

Two sleepy looking baby crocodiles turned out to be dead when they arrived as a gift from India.

Provincial Museum curator Dr. Clifford Carl pronounced the pair of 14-inch reptiles dead this morning and speculated they succumbed of cold during their day-long flight Sunday.

The three-month-old crocodiles would have grown to seven feet at maturity if they had survived the flight but deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said he would write the donors explaining the misfortune and "hoping that two more could be sent."

Dr. Carl, noting that the crocodiles were sent in a glass case, said normally tropical fish or animals are sent by air in insulated containers.

The crocodiles were sent by the state of Rajasthan as a token of appreciation to B.C. school children who raised more than $200,000 during centennial year to send 11 mobile classrooms to various under-developed parts of the world, including two to India.

Meeting Set For Tonight On Garbage

Saanich council will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss garbage.

The meeting was arranged before Saturday's plebiscite, but the 58 per cent vote in favor of weekly collection the year round has provided added impetus.

Council is faced with a substantial increase in costs next year on the basis of earlier quotations from the present garbage collector, L. S. McNutt.

$19 PER HOUSE

The present cost, for collection every week in the summer and every two weeks in the other eight months, is $11 per household per year.

The same service next year by Mr. McNutt will cost $15 and if year-round weekly service is provided it will be $19.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said this morning that tonight's meeting is to discuss the entire garbage collection question to see where Saanich is going in 1969.

Council will consider the earlier quotations by Mr. McNutt and whether the municipality should collect garbage itself rather than contract the service out.

Uvic Goes Slowly On Student Union

A provincial student union is planned to educate the public about the needs of higher education in B.C. but University of Victoria student leaders haven't decided whether to join.

In fact, they first heard about it by mail only late this morning.

Announced Saturday by Rob Walsh, president of the Simon Fraser University Student Society, the union would seek to counter an apparent reaction against universities since a series of recent sit-ins.

"It would be interesting to find out what they hope to do," said Frank Frketich, Uvic Alma Mater Society president.

"I would have to find out what their goals are, what sort of action they plan to take, before commenting on any support we might give."

Dr. Kenneth Hare, president of the University of B.C., said Wednesday the province's universities are being hit by a backlash of public opinion aggravated by recent campus unrest.

The union to counter this question will be discussed at a meeting Dec. 21 and 22 at UBC, Mr. Walsh said in his announcement.

Up-Island Woman Wins $500 In Montreal Draw

A Ladysmith woman, Mrs. K. Scott, has won $500 in Mayor Jean Drapeau's voluntary tax plan draw in Montreal.

Mrs. Scott was one of 12 winners from British Columbia.

The $100,000 grand prize was won by a Toronto housewife and mother of a 12-year-old son. Mrs. A. H. Peckham became the first person outside the Province of Quebec to win the grand prize since the monthly draws began six months ago.

Ernie Ardley of Lake Cowichan and Albert Cheechoo of Port Alberni won $100 consolation prizes.

You're All Invited to Sing Out at Sing-In

The Willows and Oakland Elementary schools will lead off the annual city hall Christmas season choir concerts Wednesday morning at 8:30.

Under the direction of Miss M. Patterson and Mrs. D. Nordlinger the youngsters invited members of the city staff and the public to join them in the 45-minute carol concert.

On Thursday Margaret Jenkins and Monterey schools take the spotlight under the direction of Miss G. Davies and Mrs. L. Griffiths.

Friday morning will see Quadra Elementary and Gordon Head Elementary on stage in the council chamber reception area with Miss K. Horner and Mr. J. Moore conducting.

After the weekend break the morning concerts resume at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Dec. 18, with MacKenzie Elementary and Tolmie Elementary leading the singing under the direction of Miss Benell and Mrs. M. Sturgeon.

The final concert takes place Tuesday, Dec. 19, with Miss Broadhurst and Mrs. V. Frey presenting George Jay and Doncaster Elementary Schools.

MAD AT WEATHER? JUST THINK BACK

There's only one way to appreciate today's weather — remember last year at about this time.

Dec. 4 and 5 last year we had gusts up to 78 miles per hour causing power breakages all over the district.

Two days later we got it again. Colwood RCMP advised motorists to avoid the Malahat's snow and fog. And Cordova Bay seawalls crumbled and waterfront damage was set at $100,000.

That makes today's early morning gusts of 54 and 57 miles per hour seem puny.

The overnight showers — which will remain frequent today and tonight, are good for the lawn. The occasional thunder shower, anticipated tonight, and the slushy snow which might appear briefly and melt swiftly, will excite the kiddies.

Cloudy, showery weather expected Tuesday won't require shovelling as they're doing at Port Alberni where six inches has just arrived in town.

Be thankful you don't live in Tofino area where two feet of snow fell Saturday, closing the road to Port Alberni, or in Gold River or Kelsey Bay areas, where roads are almost impassable.

VETO SURE—CUMMING

Pullout Unlikely By North Saanich

Mayor J. B. Cumming of North Saanich said today it is unlikely the provincial government would permit Saanich Peninsula to opt out of regional hospital plans.

He was commenting on a weeknd statement by Ald. T. C. Davis of North Saanich.

Ald. Davis said the peninsula would have a 100-bed acute-care hospital regardless of regional hospital board planning.

"This would require consent of the provincial government to formation of a sub-area.

"I think that although it is financially possible, it would be quite unlikely the government would permit this subdivision," said Mayor Cumming in an interview. He serves on the regional district board and is chairman of the hospital's advisory committee.

Ald. Davis, a spokesman for the Peninsula Hospital Committee, said the committee is prepared to finance, construct and operate a local acute-care hospital.

UNCONCERNED

"We are not concerned with the success or failure of the regional district experiment, nor with the personalities or motivations of its appointed officials and advisers," said the alderman.

Since recent passage of a hospital referendum approving a $9.3 million construction program, controversy has been continued on the peninsula.

The money was earmarked for provision of 600 extended-care beds and updating of facilities at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's acute-care hospitals.

Hospital planners have indicated the likelihood of a new extended-care hospital replacing Sidney's aging Rest Haven Hospital. But to date provincial authorities have not shown willingness for any acute-care beds to be built there.

Mr. Davis and the committee he represents is determined to see a new 100-bed acute-care hospital built in their area.

Slow Response To Jaycees' Lighting Contest

Entries for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest are coming in slowly this year.

Only 17 forms have been returned to the Jaycee office, with the deadline for entries set for Friday.

However, Jaycee Dennis Thompson reports the forms brought in to date are for "about 40 categories"—most entrants are trying their luck in several of the six cateogries offered.

The categories in which prizes will be offered are best house decorations, best window or door decorations, best Christmas message, most humorous display, best group display by three or more adjacent houses, and best novice (first entry).

Judging will be carried out Dec. 17, 18 and 19 between 7 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Two-Year Term For Attempted Office Robbery

A Victoria man said to be in need of rehabilitation from drink and drugs was sentenced today to two years in the federal penitentiary at New Westminster.

"There is an atmosphere of drugs around this man which indicates rehabilitation is the best course," said County Court Judge Montague Drake, passing sentence on James Osborne White, 30, of 902 Arundel.

White was found guilty by a 12-man jury of attempting to break and enter the Medical Arts Building, 1105 Pandora Avenue, on July 27 last.

LENIENCY URGED

The jury added a recommendation for leniency.

Police witnesses said White was found in some bushes under a broken window at the Medical Arts Building.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said White was clearly under the influence of alcohol or drugs at the time.

"If a man has a weak character, it is much easier for him to do something he would not have done had he been in a normal state of mind," counsel said.

Mr. Owen-Flood admitted that White had a criminal record up to 1962 but emphasized he had been out of trouble for six years.

"This suggests he has been trying to be a useful member of the community."

'GOOD YEAR' FOR FIRES

Fire damage and suppression costs in 1968 were low to make "a relatively good year" for British Columbia's forests, the provincial forestry service reports.

There were 1,647 fires compared with 3,217 in 1967.

In 1968 fire burned over 33,876 acres, compared with 244,483 acres blackened in 1967.

The damage and losses to timber this year totalled $697,272, compare with 1967 damages totalling $5,679,112.

Centre To Go On Show

The Saanich Senior Citizens' Activity Centre at Hampton Park was officially opened Sunday by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson.

An open house will be held by Silver Threads on Wednesday.

The centre, costing just over $100,000, has one large room which will be divided by folding doors ipto four rooms for recreational activities.

It also includes kitchens and a lounge and a large auditorium will be built later.

The building is owned and managed by Saanich but Silver Threads will be in charge of the program.

GIFT OF TRAY

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis, the program chairman at Sunday's official opening, presented a silver tray to Mr. and Mrs. W. Synhurst who for years have run a pastime club.

Dedication was by Rev. C. L. Streight, representing the Greater Victoria Council of Churches, and a commemorative plaque was presented by the Saanich Firefighters Association, Local 967.

Architect of the centre was John Di Castri and the general contractor was Herb Bate Limited.

GOOD TIMES

Ald Edith Gunning said the centre will be a place to which the elderly can go for good times.

It will offer more than recreation, she added.

It was essential to have the ability and interest to learn and at retirement to remain active "rather than retreat into memories and isolation."

The activity centre is the second stage to be completed in the $1.2 million indoor recreation program approved by ratepayers last year.

The first stage was the George Pearkes Arena. Still to come are a swimming pool and community centre at the Lambrick Estate, Gordon Head, and a community centre at the McRae Estate, in the Ceadr Hill area.

Ask The Times

Q. Is tourism considered a major industry in B.C.?—L.B.

A. Yes. It ranks No. 3. Figures for 1967 show tourists spent $317 million in the province. The amount spent by the provincial government encouraging tourism has also risen since 1957. More American tourists than ever before entered B.C. last year. At least 112 new tourist accommodations were built, bringing the total to 2,063. Victoria, Vancouver and the Okanagan are the major tourist centres.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices eased off in closing trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after oilseeds dominated the market with sharp gains in early action.

Rapeseed gained some of its early impetus from a recent imposition of duty on East German and Polish rapeseed by Britain. This put Canadian production on a more competitive level.

Two ocean-goning vessels cleared the Lakehead Saturday with 260,000 bushels of flax for Belgium, Rotterdam and Hamburg. This cleans up most of the dry flax in deliberate positions.

Other commodities attracted little attention.

Friday's volume included 636,000 bushels of flax, 535,000 of rapeseed and 134,000 of rye.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures gave up nearly 2 cents on the board of trade and led nearly all commodities on a declining scale.

Trade was slow and volume relatively light. It appeared that most of the traders were biding their time until some definite word is heard concerning the longshoremen's dispute.

The weakness in wheat was a factor in the selling of corn and soybeans futures. Later in the session, however, some hedge selling developed in the deferred corn options and losses were as much as 1¼ cents.

Weakness of soybean oil and meal after the opening reflected on lower soybean prices. After mid-session, however, some buying strength appeared in all three commodities.
